Truman Tells Of Boyhood, Hits School Crowding

President Chats With 1300 at Girard College, America's First 'Boys' Town'

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, May 20.—In a nostalgic mood, President Truman talked today about his boyhood in the 1890's. He told about milking the cow, chopping wood and starting the fire so that his mother could get the breakfast.

Looking at the present, Mr. Truman found the ultimate in scandal and cried out about it: school teachers who don't even know their pupils by name.

The Chief Executive, speaking to 1300 youngsters at Girard College, America's first "boys' town," didn't blame the teachers. He blamed the "disgraceful" financial situation that exists today in the Nation's public school system.

Blames Overcrowding

"Our public schools," he said, "are so overcrowded that there are plenty of instances where the teachers are not able to call their pupils by name because they have so many of them."

It was another off-the-cuff speech that Mr. Truman delivered in connection with Girard's 100th anniversary, and it was made up, for the most part, of the kind of things a 64-year-old man would say to boys ranging in age from 6 to 18. He told them they were "exceedingly lucky," and he seemed to be mindful that his own formal education was cut short by circumstances in his youth—something he has been trying to make up for ever since by hard work and reading.

Crowds Friendly But Small

The crowds that welcomed the President in Philadelphia were friendly but small, so small that the 400 policemen stationed along the route had very little to do. The only political note of the day was seen in a banner that read: "We Want Truman to Nominate Eisenhower." This was held aloft by young men who said they were war veterans and were attending the University of Pennsylvania, Princeton and St. Joseph's College. It appeared twice—when Mr. Truman arrived at the station this noon and when he was departing this evening.

The President, in his five hours on the Girard campus, had a jolly time. Once, surrounded by 6-year-olds, he remarked that he was "knee-deep in kids." He joined them in eating ginger cake.

He planted two pin oaks, shoveling in the dirt with all the skill of an erstwhile farmer. Later, out on the drill field, he reviewed the crack Girard cadets, and grinned

TRIBES GIVE UP LAND—George Gillette of the Fort Berthold Indians, covers his face and weeps as Interior Secretary Krug signs a contract by which three tribes sell the best part of their North Dakota reservation to the Government for $5,105,625. The land will be flooded by a dam and reservoir project. Secretary Krug said that while the contract was fair, it gave him no happiness to take part in a reduction of Indian land reserves. Home-Rule Bill Reaches House Floor

Foes Admit Measure May Pass, Backers Predict Tough Fight; Action Due Monday

By Edward Ryan
Post Reporter

Washington home-rule legislation was cleared yesterday for House action early next week.

The Auchincloss bill for reorganizing the District government and granting a limited form of home rule here cleared the House Rules Committee late yesterday by what Chairman Leo Allen (R., Ill.) described as a "pretty strong" majority voice vote.

Allen predicted the going "may be a little tougher" in the House for the home-rule bill. This prediction was underscored by comments of District Committee members for and against the bill. Some opponents conceded the bill might pass. Some sponsors, foreseeing tough opposition, said there was no way to predict the result.

Faces Sharp Floor Fight

It was sure that the home-rule measure would face the sharpest fighting in the House of any District measure this year.

House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) said the way is cleared for the House to open debate on the bill Monday, and that it may run into Tuesday.

House work on the bill, following usual procedure, will progress in three steps. First the House will debate for one hour on the resolution from the Rules Committee defining the parliamentary procedure for handling the bill. Allen explained this resolution will call for two hours of general debate. It will keep the bill wide open to amendments, but will waive points of order.

Would Bar Crippling Deletions

The waiving of points of order was an important feature of the plan by home-rule sponsors to save the bill from possible crippling deletions. The Rules Committee resolution must be formally adopted by the House.

That would then open the bill to two hours of general debate. A number of members outside the District Committee are expected to enter the debate on each side.

The third step will come when the bill is opened to amendment, with further debate on each proposed change, and then the final vote on the bill itself.

Two main features of the home-rule plan are sure to come in for heavy attack, according to Representative Clarence Brown (R., Ohio), a member of the House Rules Committee.

Election Feature at Issue

One is the election feature of the bill; the other the proposed changes it would make in the rules of the House governing conduct of District legislation.

The election feature is designed to let all qualified residents of the District, including those who have State and national voting rights elsewhere, vote for all the proposed elected home-rule officials except the District delegate in the House. To vote for the delegate, the requirement would be not District residence, but legal domicile here.

On the change in the House rules, some members predicted that there were members of the Rules Committee who voted to send the bill to the floor, but

69 on Board U. S. Ship Arrested by Lebanese; Arabs Gain in Holy City

Battle Is Believed at Crisis; Legion Takes Tallest Building

Tel Aviv, Israel, May 20 (AP).—The battle for Jerusalem apparently had come to its crisis tonight. The Arab Legion has thrown in its artillery and armored strength against Jewish positions.

Shellfire was bursting over almost all of the Holy City, shrine of three of the world's greatest religions. The outcome was still in doubt.

But here in Jewish Tel Aviv, rabbis ordered prayers for Jerusalem and fears heightened hour by hour.

Cairo, Egypt, May 20 (AP).—Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion claimed possession or access to 80 per cent of Jerusalem's Old City tonight and advanced steadily against retreating Jewish fighters in the New City.

AP Correspondent Daniel de Luce reported from the Old City that Legionnaires captured Tiferet Israel Synagogue, Jerusalem's tallest building, today. He said Haganah and Irgun Zvai Leumi's Jewish fighters had withdrawn into another Old City landmark, Beit Yaacov Synagogue, for a last-ditch stand.

The end of the three-day battle for the Old City appeared to be in sight. An unofficial report said the Arab Legion had possession of Zion Gate, possibly the best escape route for Jewish fighters if the Arabs finally drive them out of the Old City.

[AP Correspondent Carter Davidson, in a dispatch filed via United States Navy radio Wednesday, told of accompanying a Jewish force of 100 youths who stormed Zion Gate to relieve Haganah forces inside the Old City.]

[Davidson reported: Not since the Turks stormed Arab Jerusalem nearly 500 years ago and put the final touch to the Ottoman Empire have these ancient walls been taken by force.

41 Americans Held In Palestine-Bound Group of Zionists; Minister Protests

By Nenno Duerksen

Haifa, Israel, May 20 (U.P.).—Lebanon has seized 41 Americans, 3 Canadians and 25 other male passengers from the American steamship Marine Carp as "Zionists of military age," it was disclosed today. All 69 were sent to a concentration camp.

The men were seized in the harbor of Beirut, Lebanon, at pistol point yesterday when the Marine Carp touched there on its way to Haifa, down the coast, members of the Marine Carp crew said today on their arrival at this chief port of Israel.

The Israel government announced at Tel Aviv that it would protest strongly against "the blatant infringement of international law" by Arab Lebanon.

Blackout on Official News

American consular officials and officers of the Marine Carp clamped a blackout on official news of the seizure pending an investigation.

[In Washington, the State Department said the removal was carried out over the objections of the American Minister in Lebanon. Department officials said, however, that additional information is being awaited before a decision is made on a formal protest to the Lebanese government.]

In addition to the Americans and Canadians, those seized by gun-wielding Lebanese were 23 Palestinians, one Mexican and one Pole.

Crew members said the Lebanese went aboard in the early afternoon when the ship first arrived, to examine passports and personal baggage. They found two or three pistols.

The Lebanese came back in greater numbers a few hours later, informants said. They ordered passengers to open their baggage "within two or three minutes," it was said.

Baggage Smashed Open

Those who failed to do so had their baggage smashed open with axes, it was asserted.

Young men whose passports showed their destination to be Palestine were ordered ashore.

Crew members said police ignored protests of Capt. H. E. Snow, New York City, the Marine Carp's master, and other officers.

Some of those ordered ashore tried to resist, informants said, but were confronted with pointed pistols.

The Lebanese government issued the following communique:

"The Marine Carp arrived at Beirut yesterday carrying 69 Zionists of military age of different nationalities and who were joining Zionist groups in Palestine to disturb the peace of the Holy Land.

"As these endanger the security of the armies that intervened in Palestine to restore peace and order, the Lebanese military brought them ashore, finding arms and radio transmitting sets in their possession and they were consequently put in concentration."

Record Voting Seen in Oregon GOP Contest

Few Clews Found To Result of Today's Dewey-Stassen Test

Portland, Oreg., May 20 (AP).—A record Republican vote is in prospect for Friday's primary election on which Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen are staking much of their presidential hopes.

A good 65 or 70 per cent of Oregon's record registration of 322,490 GOP voters is expected to ballot, and election interest reached an unprecedented pitch today in the closing hours of the slam-bang primary campaign.

Political prospectors were finding little worthwhile pay dirt in their search for clews to the outcome.

Last Before Convention

In most qualified quarters, the Dewey-Stassen tussle for Oregon's Republican presidential preference and its 12 GOP convention votes was rated about even. What odds were in evidence—and they were few—ran to 6-5 and take your choice.

As the last presidential preferential primary before the June 21 nominating convention, the Oregon primary bears significantly upon the course which the convention may take in nominating a Republican standard bearer for 1948.

The favorable psychological impact of a primary victory Friday has been recognized by both Dewey and Stassen. As a result, the chips were down in a play for stakes considered to be far more important than Oregon's relatively few convention votes.

Oregon Democrats, meanwhile, enjoyed the Republican spectacle from the sidelines.

Are Doubly Important

President Truman was unopposed for the Democratic preference and his designation was just a formality.

Overshadowed by the presidential performance, a full slate of State officers also comes up in Friday's primaries.

Paradoxically, the State races are doubly important this year.

960 Indians Sell Out to U. S. For 5 Millions

The Fort Berthold, N. Dak., Indians signed a contract yesterday to sell the best part of their reservation to the Government for $5,105,625.

They said they did so with heavy hearts. The leader of the 960 adult tribe members, George Gillette, wept silently as he and 13 other Indians signed the document in a ceremony in Secretary of Interior Krug's office.

The Indians signed away 155,000 acres of their richest farm lands along the Missouri River.

Timber must be cleared from the area by 1950. But the garrison dam and reservoir, an Army flood control project already under construction, is not expected to be completed until three of four years later when the land would be flooded. The Indians would have until October 1, 1952, to move from the land.

Before he signed the contract Gillette said:

"We have faith that Congress will recognize that this contract gives the Fort Berthold Indians only a part of what is due to them.

"The truth is, as everyone knows, our treaty of Fort Laramie, made in 1851, and our tribal constitution are being torn into shreds by this contract.

"We have faith that Congress will give us something that we have not yet had—a real hearing on the effects of the Garrison project on our reservation, and particularly on the resolution which Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.) has introduced in Congress for us."

Langer's resolution would add to the payment a one-million-dollar land readjustment fund and 30 million dollars additional for damages to the Indians in their removal from the area.

The Indians involved are of the Mandan, Gros Ventres and Arikara tribes.

Maryland's GOP Delegates Unpledged

Legality Questioned In Election of 20 Instead of Usual 16

By Walter Pulliam
Post Reporter

Baltimore, May 20.—Maryland Republicans followed expectations today by declining to pledge their delegates to the forthcoming national GOP convention, but added a surprise by electing 20 rather than their customary 16 delegates.

With 16 votes in the National party convention, the State convention was scheduled to elect 12 delegates from the six congressional districts and 4 at large. Instead, 12 district delegates and 8 delegates at large were elected following an unexpected resolution. The delegates at large will have only one-half vote apiece at the national gathering.

Legality Questioned

Some convention observers said there is some question as to the legality of the split votes and that their use will probably have to be decided at the national convention. If they are ruled out it will be necessary to pare down the delegates at large by four, leaving only four to cast full votes.

Although at least half the delegation said, when questioned, that they personally "would like to see Dewey nominated," all but one said that the vote on early balloting in Philadelphia would be determined by the situation at the time.

"It might, at the time, be politically unwise to cast our ballot for him—at least on the first or second ballot," one delegate said. The Maryland delegation four years ago was for the New York Governor, but in 1940 was split

Lewis Is Asked To Revive Coal Negotiations

Mistake to Oppose Representatives From South, Operators Say

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Soft coal operators late yesterday asked John L. Lewis to resume contract negotiations broken off when Lewis walked out on the opening meeting Wednesday.

The operators wrote the United Mine Workers president it was a "mistake" to insist on excluding representatives of the Southern Coal Producers Association, the issue over which Lewis had taken his walk. The union head specifically objected to negotiating with Joseph E. Moody, Southern association president, who has filed Taft-Hartley law charges against the UMW.

Last night's proposal by the operators followed an all-day conference among themselves. Earlier, Lewis had "deplored" suggestions of a June 30 coal strike and said "peace or war" in the coal mines was up to three industry leaders.

What he deplored, the president of the United Mine Workers declared, were "the suggestions that are being published that an end of the contract is in itself a sug-

Austrian Treaty Talks Suspended

London, May 20 (AP).—Official United States sources said tonight that the four-power talks on an Austrian peace treaty will be called off indefinitely.

The breakdown, which follows a temporary suspension two weeks ago, came after nearly two years of futile efforts to resolve the differences between Russia on one side and the United States, Britain and France on the other.

The sources said the indefinite suspension came yesterday when Samuel Reber, chief of the American delegation, met privately with M. P. Kotimov, head of the Soviet delegation.

Kotimov, an American informant said, told Reber he had received instructions from Moscow to stand firm in his support of Yugoslavia's claims against Austria.

World Health Blockade in House Broken

Rules Group Clears Bill; Annual Cost To U. S. $1,920,000

The House Rules Committee yesterday cleared legislation authorizing American membership in the United Nations World Health Organization, removing its 11-month blockade of the measure.

The "green light" was granted, by a vote of 6 to 3, after a new bill was introduced and rushed through the Foreign Affairs Committee, to meet objections of the rules makers.

The revised bill pins down to $1,920,000-a-year United States contributions to the world agency. Sponsors of the measure insisted the original bill did anyway, but spelled out the limitation more specifically in the new version.

The Senate passed the bill nearly a year ago and the House Foreign Affairs Committee cleared the measure but the House Rules Committee later tabled it. Since the new organization meets in Geneva next month, the State Department has been pressing for action so the United States can participate.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., recently indorsed the legislation and last week the House Republican Steering Committee approved it. But a parliamentary tangle developed in the Rules group, where a unanimous vote is required to take a bill from the table.

Yesterday Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.) met the dilemma by introducing the slightly revised bill, which was again approved by the Foreign Affairs Committee. That paved the way for majority vote Rules Committee action.

One new provision of the bill requires the President to appoint with Senate confirmation a practicing physician or surgeon of at least 10 years experience to represent the United States on the executive board of the agency.

Another qualification provides that nothing in the constitution of the world health group commits the United States in any manner "to enact any specific legislative program."

Finn Communist Censured but May Hold Cabinet Post

Helsinki, Finland, May 20 (AP).—Tension between the extreme left and other political parties developed into a government crisis tonight.

The issue was a vote of censure, 81 to 61, against Irjo Leino, Communist Minister of the Interior, last night. Leino was criticized for allowing the extradition of 20 persons to the Soviet Union and for the police treatment of arrested Finnish officers in 1945.

Political circles looked for Leino's resignation today, but there were indications that he plans to remain in office.

At a meeting tonight the Peoples Democratic Party supported Leino.

The Conservatives and Social Democrats said parliamentary custom demanded that Leino resign.

As a last resort, President Juho Paasikivi may have to dismiss Leino, it was believed.

Wild Onion Breath Rates a Whipping, School Board Says

Beckley, W. Va., May 20 (AP).—The Raleigh County Board of Education has upheld a school principal's right to whip children who come to class exhaling the odor of "ramps."

The ramp is a particularly powerful branch of the wild onion family, which children hereabout sometimes nibble on the way to school.

Senate Refuses, 51-20, to Act on Hawaii Statehood

The Senate yesterday virtually killed all chances for Hawaiian statehood this year.

It refused, 51 to 20, to take the House-approved bill to admit Hawaii as the forty-ninth State away from the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. The committee has kept the bill bottled up since last year.

The committee recently voted to withhold any action on the bill until Senators have had a chance to visit the islands.

Last Link to Happy Past

Lonely Woman Hangs Herself In Fear of Losing Her Home

Fear that she would lose her Chevy Chase home, the last link between a happy, married past and a lonely present, yesterday tied a fatal noose around the neck of Mrs. Verena M. Kidwell, 54.

A chain of four notes led police to the body, suspended by a vacuum cleaner cord from a basement beam in the home at 3206 Morrison st. nw. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald ruled the death a suicide.

Mrs. Kidwell had been separated about 12 years from her husband, Harry H. Kidwell, a former vice president of the American Ice Co., who lives in New York. He retired in 1946.

Only the home they once shared remained to remind the wife of the days when they "had everything" and entertained lavishly.

Now a lonely recluse, Mrs. Kidwell brooded that she no longer could continue payments on the home she had lived in almost a quarter of a century.

There had been an extension on the due date. Back taxes finally were paid by a relative, but interest had to be paid semiannually. She was advised to sell. What was left?

About 8 a. m. a postman found a quarter in her mailbox and instructions to deliver an envelope to a neighbor, Mrs. Jay Bowker, 3212 Morrison st. nw. Detective Sergt. Richard Felber of the police homicide squad said.

In the unsealed envelope Mrs. Bowker found a note asking her to please call a niece, Miss Virginia Daiker, 140 Tennessee ave. ne., and give her another inclosed note and a key—to Mrs. Kidwell's cellar door.

Miss Daiker, librarian at the Library of Congress, who had recently heard her aunt threaten suicide, called police. They found the suspended body, dressed in pink pajamas and kimono and red slippers.

Scientists' Stability Defended

'Confused' Security Concepts Attacked by Condon in Speech

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Concepts of national security have become "unnecessarily complicated and confused" and threaten to defeat "the very ends we seek to gain."

Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, voiced the complaint here last night in a special address on "Science and Security" before the Washington Academy of Sciences, meeting at the Cosmos Club.

Policies too restrictive about our present knowledge stifle the growth of that knowledge, he declared, advocating "a delicate balance" between restriction and dissemination of scientific knowledge.

The eminent physicist made no outright mention of the House Un-American Activities Committee which labeled him "the weakest link" in atomic security, but he made this pointed comment:

"A lot of the investigating that is going on today is in extremely incompetent hands and for that reason is a waste of the taxpayers money."

"In the last analysis," he said, "the problem of restriction (of scientific information) is one requiring a delicate balance between the benefits of disseminating and restricting information which only experts can determine."

He termed it a false assumption "that the scientist is a peculiarly unstable fellow with no sense of responsibility or capacity for living according to the rules." And for proof, he offered the loyalty of scientists who kept the secrecy of the atomic bomb project "without clearance or loyalty probes."

"Later, of course," he said, "they were all fingerprinted and checked and rechecked before they were allowed to know those things which they had so long kept secret and about which they had to work so hard to arouse any official interest."

"I cannot help but wonder what we could have done about it, if we had found that some of these individuals could not be cleared."

Dr. Condon blamed much of the "confusion" about national security measures on "loose terminology," "compartmentalization" and "the present fears prevalent throughout the world."

"From the strictly military point of view it is just as important that we get some new secrets as that he hold on to the old ones," he declared. "Scientific secrets deteriorate when stockpiled."

In personal defense, he said he "never advocated" giving away information on the atom bomb, and "lied" back in 1944 when "a foreign visitor asked me point-blank if we were working on the uranium bomb."

"I told him I knew of no such project," stated Dr. Condon.

Dr. Condon said the public does not understand the basic problem involved in classifying scientific

$3125 Still To Be Underwritten

4-Week Series of 12 Concerts Planned at Water Gate in July

Although not fully underwritten, a four-week series of 12 Water Gate concerts will be held in July, it was announced yesterday.

The concerts will be sponsored by the National Symphony Orchestra Association in cooperation with the Washington Board of Trade cultural development committee and Station WTOP.

As of last night, the cultural development committee, headed by George R. Titus, was still short $3125 of the $15,000 needed as a minimum to underwrite the 12 concerts.

The first concert will be given Sunday night, July 4, as a feature of the three-day weekend program in observance of the centennial anniversary of the laying of the Washington Monument cornerstone. The program, sponsored by the Board of Trade, is expected to bring thousands of visitors to the city.

Concerts will be held on Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evenings during the month. Sunday night concerts will be broadcast from 9 to 10 p. m. (DST) by WTOP as a public service. None of the underwriting subscriptions will be used for broadcasting expense.

Howard Mitchell, associate conductor of the orchestra, will be musical director for the series in the absence of Dr. Hans Kindler, who will leave June 11 for a tour of Latin-American capitals as a guest conductor.

A list of prominent guest artists who will appear on the Water Gate programs as soloists will be announced later.

Twenty-two persons and business firms have so far underwritten a total of $11,875 in the last-ditch campaign to save the summer concerts. Subscriptions will be called in only in proportion to the deficit. Among the most recent to subscribe are Peoples Drug Stores, Zlotnick the Furrier and A. Kahn, Inc., jewelers.

In previous years the Water Gate series has included 18 concerts.

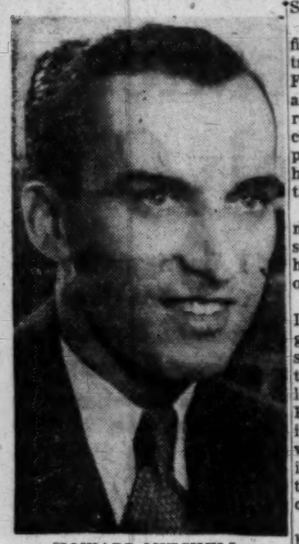
PEOPLE In The NEWS

Howard Mitchell, New Water Gate Leader, Rose From Golfing Champ to Top Cellist

Golfer, cellist, associate conductor of the National Symphony and the father of four children—that's Howard Mitchell, who has been named musical director of the 1948 season of Water Gate concerts to be presented by the National Symphony.



HOWARD MITCHELL
Water Gate Maestro

Mitchell, 38, has held down the first cellist position in the orchestra for 15 years. Last year, in February, Hans Kindler was ill and Mitchell conducted one of the regular Wednesday evening concerts on short notice. His brilliant performance on that occasion won him the associate conductorship of the orchestra.

Now with the positive announcement of the Symphony's summer season on the new barge, Mitchell has been placed in charge of the orchestra's concerts there.

Born in Nebraska, raised in Iowa, where he was Sioux City golf champion, Mitchell won a scholarship to Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore and later a fellowship to Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. Coming to the Washington Orchestra in 1933, he has won a place among the top cellists in the country, having played with the Philadelphia Orchestra and in concerts throughout the East.

Raising four children, roofing his own garage, and keeping his golf in shape occupy Mitchell's time when he is not practicing on his "house." According to Mitchell, cellists have trade names for their instruments, depending on the value and tone of the instrument. Just any old cello is referred to as a "crate." Something better rates the term "box." Moving into the upper brackets the middle-sized fiddles are called "houses." When you get into the top crust, Stradivari, Guarneri, and the rest, you call them "spaghetti boxes" or "spaghetti houses."

On July 4, when Mitchell raises his stick for the National Symphony's first Water Gate concert, he will be holding not a cello bow, but a baton. He gets results whether it's a bow, baton, or golf club.

Most cellists have long arms—they need them in their business. In addition, Mitchell stands 5 feet 10 inches on the podium, and weighs it down with about 160 pounds. His black hair has a touch of gray.

Socialists Get 3 Places in Italy Cabinet

Rome, May 20 (AP).—A spokesman for the Independent Socialists said tonight the Socialists had reached an agreement with Premier Alcide de Gasperi giving them three places in the new Italian cabinet.

The spokesman, Deputy Mario Longhena, announced the agreement after talking with De Gasperi, a Christian Democrat.

The agreement apparently cleared away the last obstacle to De Gasperi's reshuffle of his cabinet.

The Socialists had been holding out for virtual control of Marshall Plan aid to Italy "to protect the interests of the working classes."

Longhena said the agreement would put the independent Socialists "in a position of effecting a concrete control in the carrying out of the European Recovery Plan."

The careful phrasing of that statement indicated that De Gasperi had found a way to satisfy Socialists that Marshall Plan aid would not go entirely to help big industry.

Argentina, Chile Agree To Drop Trade Treaty

Buenos Aires, Argentina, May 20 (U.P.).—Argentina and Chile have agreed to drop the 400-million-dollar trade and customs treaty of 1946, authoritative diplomatic sources said today.

Hailed by its proponents as the biggest inter-American trade deal ever concluded, the treaty never received congressional ratification in either country.

Failure was unofficially ascribed to Chilean congressional opposition and to Argentine economic retrenchment.

U. S. Bans Red Publications in German Zone

(From Press Dispatches)

Berlin, May 20.—The Russians were getting a dose of their own medicine in Germany tonight. And they didn't like it.

For months the Russians have been restricting and banning American-sponsored newspapers, publications and pamphlets in the Soviet-controlled zone of Germany. Yesterday, the United States retaliated by banning Russian-sponsored publications from the United States zone.

Today the Russians protested the ban as illegal and demanded its immediate revocation. The Americans said they hadn't received the protest. That's what the Russians had said about the more than a score of American protests to the Russian action.

In addition, the United States restricted the entry of Soviet officials to the American zone. They now may enter through only one border-crossing point. The move was reprisal for a similar action by the Russians earlier. If there has been a Russian protest, it, too, hasn't been received.

The American military government also anounced that it would protect Germans in the United States sector against "molestation and intimidation by persons seeking signatures for a Communist-inspired national plebiscite on a unified Germany. American officials today forbade circulation of the petitions in the United States sector of Berlin as well as the American zone.

The British today received a Russian rejection of a claim for compensation in Berlin's April 5 air collision. The Russians not only rejected the British claim but made a counterclaim. No details were given.

House to Vote After June 1 On Draft Bill

By The Associated Press

Rules Committee Chairman Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.) said yesterday the House will not consider the draft bill until after June 1.

This new timetable, disclosed to reporters after a closed meeting of the Rules Committee, is about a week later than the one set several days ago by Speaker Martin (R., Mass.). Martin said the bill would reach the House floor sometime next week.

Allen's announcement raised the strong possibility of a session-end jam, because Martin has said the House still is aiming at a June 18 adjournment to enable members to attend the national Republican and Democratic Conventions.

Andrews Testifies

The rules body later heard testimony by Chairman Andrews (R., N. Y.) of the House Armed Services Committee. He is sponsor of the draft bill which his committee approved 28 to 5. It would allow men 19 through 25 to be called for two years' service.

Andrews told the Rules Committee he knows of no evidence that there is any possibility of war in the next few years. Representative Rich (R., Pa.) ha asked him whether the Armed Services Committee has any such evidence that is not available to other members of Congress.

"Our committee doesn't think there neeessarily will be a war," Andrews replied, "but we just cannot negotiate. We cannot negotiate with the Russians because we are weak and they know we are weak."

The Rules Committee hearing will be resumed next Tuesday.

Guard Retirement Asked

Meanwhile, Secretary of Defense Forrestal yesterday indorsed partial retirement pay at age 60 for men and officers serving 20 years or more in the National Guard and other active reserve units.

In a letter to the Senate Armed Services Committee, he recommended that Senators work out a plan costing less than one already voted by the House. Cost of the House plan is estimated at 400 million dollars a year.

The Senate committee began hearings yesterday on the House-approved bill. A large crowd of officers were present to testify in support of the plan.

Adj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, Army personnel officer designated to speak for Secretary Forrestal, backed a plan which Senators said would level off at a cost of about 25 million dollars a year after reaching a peak of 60 million dollars in 1980.

At preesnt, there is no retirement pay for reserve officers. So far as the law stands, one might serve 20 years on active duty without qualifying for any retirement pay. Thousands of reserve officers are now on active duty, some since before the war.

How Plan Would Work

Under the plan Forrestal backed the reserve officer would:

Get full credits for active service, such as time on duty during the recent war.

Be allowed 60 days credit each year in reserve, provided he earned it. Each drill period would count for a day and time at training camps or on cruises would count. Not more than 60 days credit could be earned each year.

Thus in six years of reserve service such as the National Guard, a man could earn the equivalent of one year's active duty credit.

Each year of credited service would be multipled by 2½ per cent to compute retirement pay which would be in the highest rank or grade attained.

For example, if a man put in two years during the war and 18 years in the National Guard he would get credit for five years of service. At 60 he would be paid 12½ per cent of the base pay of his highest grade.

Bevin Urges Soviet to Take 3 Peace Steps

Scarborough, England, May 20 (NYHT).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin called on Soviet Russia today to end the Greek civil war, agree to a four-nation Japanese peace conference and stop her "war of nerves" as three major steps to secure the peace.

Bevin addressed the British Labor Party's annual conference. He won an overwhelming vote in support of his foreign policy, 4,097,000 to 224,000.

Bevin avoided the Palestine problem and touched only briefly on the German question. He also failed to mention Spain.

Bevin expressed strong hopes for expanding the system of collective security in "a weakened, distracted and disunited Europe."

The foreign secretary appealed to Russia to end the "series of provocations" which he said constituted the only real danger to peace.

[The Associated Press said the conference turned down a demand for immediate nationalization of the iron and steel industry. Instead of adopting a resolution for nationalization without compensation at the current session of Parliament, the delegates voted to recommend government ownership "as early as possible." Offering of the nationalization bill has been set tentatively for the opening of the next Parliament session this fall.]

World Bank Aid Held Vital To Europe

Four loans by the World Bank "have made an important contribution during a vital period of the European economic resurrection," the loan director of the bank said yesterday.

W. A. B. Iliff, of the United Kingdom, said in an address at Detroit that the loans by the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development to France, the Netherlands, Denmark and Luxenbourg, were "earmarked for definitely productive purposes" and have been used "for the purchase of specific goods, primarily industrial and agricultural machinery, transportation equipment, and basic raw materials, which the borrowing countries need to step up production and which contribute to the reconstruction of Europe as a whole."

Iliff defended Western Europe against criticism that the people there are "effete and decrepit . . . lazy . . . inefficient" and "too inclined to indulge in political ideologies whose basic philosophies are not those best adapted to the urgent tasks in hand." Considering the devastation and havoc suffered there in two wars in a generation, he said Western Europe had already made a "vigorous recovery" and that production has increased to a "remarkable" extent.

He said that "for generations to come, perhaps even for centuries to come, the mantle of leadership of world civilization must rest upon the shoulders of the people of the United States." In meeting the responsibilities of such leadership he added that "in its vigorous support of the international lending institution to which I belong, your government is making a magnificent contribution to world reconstruction and development and in the Economic Cooperation Act, you have not merely displayed a statesmanlike approach to the cure of the economic sickness from which the non-American world is suffering, but you have also given one more manifestation of the warm-hearted generosity of the American people."

Meanwhile, the bank announced that the Massachusetts Legislature has approved a bill making bonds of the bank legal investments for savings banks in the State. The measure now goes to the Governor.

The bank pointed out that there are 190 mutual savings banks in Massachusetts and their aggregate deposits are second only to those in New York State.

The Gallup Poll

6 Out of 10 U. S. Voters Favor Arms Pact With West Europe

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., May 20.—There is strong evidence that the American people are prepared to give military backing to the new movement toward unity among western European nations.

A coast-to-coast poll by the Institute shows that more than 6 out of every 10 American voters would approve a military alliance between their country and the 16 nations participating in the Marshall Plan.

This will come as important news to European statesmen who have lead the burgeoning movement for a union of western European powers in the face of Russian threats.

Nation-wide sentiment on this issue was tested in the following manner:

Do you think the United States and all the western European countries participating in the Marshall Plan should join together in a permanent military alliance—that is, agree to come to each other's defense immediately if any one of them is attacked?

The answers:

Military alliance	65%
No military alliance	21
No opinion	14

Polls conducted by overseas affiliates of the Gallup Poll show widespread popular acceptance of the unity movement in Europe.

English voters who had heard of Bevin's proposal favor the union in the proportion of 11 to 1, according to a survey conducted by the British Institute of Public Opinion. Similar polls by the Netherlands and French Institutes of Public Opinion showed Dutch voters approving the idea by more than 3 to 1 and French voters by more than 4 to 1.

What today's survey of American sentiment indicates is that people here will support even greater strides toward European consolidation than the union already established. Voters are interested in building a bulwark against further Soviet aggression.

Politically speaking, isolationism has disappeared as far as mutual treaties against aggression are concerned. The following table shows only slight difference of views between members of major parties:

	Alliance	No Alliance	No Opin.
Republicans	66%	22%	12%
Democrats	68	16	16
Independents	57	29	14

Condon Hits Security Tack

information nor "the very sensible approaches to its solution."

In this, he said, the public itself "may guarantee our falling behind in science, jeopardizing the very security that that public is so sensitive about."

The conflict, summarized Dr. Condon, is between conserving a static position based on present knowledge or progressing further by growth of science.

"I am strongly of the opinion," he said, "that the research scientist needs to feel free to get any information he wants from other branches of the research organization. There is a certain small extra risk if the man proves to be unreliable, but one more than makes up for it in the increased effectiveness with which he can work."

Defends Scientists

He derided any idea that atomic secrets would be easy to divulge, declaring that to betray such secrets would require, in all probability, "not only the transfer of vast and bulky quantities of reports and documents and the careful and lengthy 'coaching' of an extremely well trained scientist by an expert, but also the actual training of many men."

And in defense of those with whom he worked, he declared, flatly: "There has not been to my knowledge a single case of breach of confidence or indiscretion by any American scientist."

"The greatest contribution to real security that science can make is through the extension of the scientific method to the social sciences and a solution of the problem of complete avoidance of war," he declared in conclusion.

Two Fighting Arms Take Long Air Steps

By The Associated Press

Two striking advances in long-range air power were notched up yesterday by United States fighting arms as Russo-American "peace exchanges" locked on dead center.

The Navy disclosed that two of its P2V Neptunes—the plane that holds the 11,235-mile world's distance record—have been launched successfully from a 45,000-ton carrier.

The Air Force reported that a huge six-engine B-36 bomber had made what is probably the longest flight in history with a pay load. It shuttled 8000 miles between Texas and California, carrying a "sizable useful load of dummy bombs" which were dropped about midway of the flight.

The new strides in American warplane operations were announced just as some United States diplomats appeared about ready to write off recent Soviet peace feelers as so much humbug. The implications of today's announcements certainly were not lost on Russia's air marshals or the Kremlin strategists.

The Navy's Naptunes, swift two-engine patrol pombers normally is land-based. But a Navy official who declined to permit the use of his name disclosed that they took off, with the assistance of jets, from the flight deck of the U. S. S. Coral Sea off the Virginia Capes last month, and flew to a landing on shore.

It was a Neptune which in 1946 flew the 11,235 miles nonstop from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio. For that record flight, however, everything was cleared out of it but the crew; extra fuselage tanks and wing tanks were added. Its take-off weight was around 86,000 pounds, compared with a design gross weight of 45,000 pounds.

The Navy says the P2V has a nonstop cruising range of 5000 miles, which means a tactical operating radius of about 2000 miles. Designed primarily for patrol work, it has a bomb-bay capable of carrying four 2000-pound bombs.

Its wing span is 100 feet, its length 78 feet.

The B-36's simulated long-range bombing mission was carried out last Thursday and Friday, between Carswell Airbase at Fort Worth and California. The flight was described as just another step in a long-range testing program of the huge craft, which weighs nearly 140 tons. The average speed on the mission was reported to be 220 miles per hour.

The Air Force calls the B-36 a "10,000-mile bomber." The principal significance of last week's long flight was that it carried a useful load for about half the flight, just as it would do in combat.

There was no certainty that inter-service rivalry brought out the two announcements in one day, but there is no mistaking the fact that the Air Force is looking with a very fishy eye on the Navy's new plan to build a 65,000-ton carrier from which long-rang air assaults could be launched. The Air Force considers long-rang strategic bombing its own baby.

The Air Force also argues that Navy's primary air function is to support naval campaigns, and declares that such a division of duties was decided at the conferences which Defense Secretary Forrestal held with the high command at Key West, Fla., last March.

Forrestal, however, has recommended the construction of the king-size carrier, and has the backing of President Truman in that plan.

The Navy argument is that fighters and torpedo bombers are getting bigger and heavier, and need larger carriers to handle them.

16 Ministers Advise Draft Resistance

An appeal to youth to "refuse to register or render any service under any conscription act" was issued last night by a group of Protestant clergymen.

The statement, signed by 16 ministers, was released by the Rev. A. J. Muste, Presbyterian minister and secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, New York pacifist organization.

Christian youth, the statement says, "cannot enlist in a national army, cannot submit to national conscription for war, because they have already been conscripted by a higher authority." The clergymen urged that youth now serving in the armed forces withdraw.

The Rev. Mr. Muste said the statement represented the personal views of the signers, and did not mean support of the stand by the denominations represented.

Stating that attempts to wipe out communism by force have failed, the report said "for the democratic nations to give bolshevism another and vastly bigger opportunity in World War III is madness and suicide."

Among the signers of the statement are Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, author and professor at the Boston University School of Theology; Dr. Bernard C. Clausen of Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, Cleveland; Dr. Henry Hitt Crane, Central Methodist Church, Detroit; the Rev. Allan Hunter, Mount Hollywood Congregational Church, Los Angeles; the Rev. Charles Bell, First Baptist Church, Madison, Wis.; the Rev. John Oliver Nelson, secretary of the Peace Fellowship of Presbyterians, and the Rev. George Lyman Paine, Episcopalian minister from Boston, Mass.

Pope Flays Disregard Of Personal Dignity

Vatican City, May 20 (AP).—Pope Pius XII said tod recognition of the rights of property "is one wi h recognition of personal dignity."

The Pontiff addressed members of the International Institute for Unification of Civil Law, celebrating its twentieth anniversary.

The Pope warned against theories of government which disregard the rights of the individual, saying: "We hope never to see the day in which a definite break among peoples will happen on this issue."

Minutia of Life in U .S. Art, $750,000 Lot, Irks Capehart

By the United Press

Senator Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) displayed a stack of photographs in the Senate Wednesday and lamented that the Government had spent $750,000 on a lot of "silly, ridiculous pictures."

One, for example, was titled "Men Picking Their Teeth."

Capehart interrupted debate on a flood control appropriation to state that he agreed it was time to save some money. He waved the pictures around.

He said they were taken by the defunct Farm Security Administration between 1937 and 1943. They cost $5 apiece and 150,000 were snapped, and now the Library of Congress would like to get rid of them.

Then Capehart began displaying the photographs, reading the captions and handing them to any Senators who wanted to keep them.

Some of the captions were:

"Jack Dwyer Taking off His Coat in a Saloon."

"A Stake Which Marks the Corner of a Building Lot."

"Woman, Probably a Government Clerk, Waiting for a Streetcar. Probably Near the Bureau of Engraving."

"Threshing Hand Taking a Drink."

Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) jumped to his feet.

"That's probably the best picture in the whole lot," he said.

But Capehart pulled out another and said: "Here's a dandy."

The caption was, "Fat Man Dozing in the Shade of a Tree in New Hampshire."

"He's just about as heavy as I am," the portly Capehart snorted.

Then he held up one, taken at Beatrice, Nebr., and labeled, "Men Picking Their Teeth."

"That's all it is, just two men picking their teeth," said Capehart.

Wherry sat up again. He lives only 40 miles from Beatrice, he said, and the men probably had just eaten a good Nebraska steak.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley wondered if instead they hadn't just "swallowed some of the pork in this flood control bill."

Senator Edward J. Thye (R., Minn.) said he thought there should be an investigation by a Senate committee. Capehart shrugged.

Judge Voids Alexandria Zoning Action

Alexandria Circuit Court Judge Paul E. Brown yesterday held null and void a rezoning action of Alexandria City Council because one of the voting councilmen was an owner of the land.

The property was 5 acres at Wellington rd. and Beverley dr. and was listed in the council minutes in the name of Mrs. Katherine O'D. Delaney. Rezoning was sought last October to permit construction of row houses. The request came not as an application of a private citizen, but on motion of Councilman Charles L. Nash.

Councilman Paul L. Delaney, son of Mrs. Delaney, supported the rezoning at public hearing. Council granted the rezoning in December by a 5-to-3 vote with Delaney voting in favor.

The judge said later the rezoning would have been proper had Delaney made application as a private citizen and had then disqualified himself from voting.

House Passes Bill to Build Army Housing

The House yesterday passed and sent to conference a bill for extensive construction of housing for married Army personnel.

Passage of the bill came on a voice vote after an authorization of $250,000 for planning a 1000-bed Army hospital at Forest Glen, Md., was knocked out of the measure.

Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) in charge of the bill, said the Forest Glen project was deleted upon advice of the Surgeon General's Office of the Army that the proposed hospital facility was not needed at this time.

The bill authorizes later appropriation of the following amounts for Army construction projects in nearby Maryland and Virginia:

For planning a four-million-dollar Army Institute of Pathology at Forest Glen, $600,000; for family quarters and utilities at Andrews Field, Md., $3,143,630; for family quarters and utilities at Fort Belvoir, Va., $792,380; for housing and utilities at Camp Lee, Va., $2,902,870; for housing and utilities at Fort Meade, Md., $995,800, and for replacing the field commissary refrigerator facilities at Fort Myer, Va., $108,000.

the morning paper; the afternoon paper was still on the lawn outside. Police figured she had been dead 8 to 12 hours.

The note to the niece listed bills outstanding and what few valuables Mrs. Kidwell had left. Another note on a table indicated fear that she would lose her home had been praying on Mrs. Kidwell's mind.

Neighbors said Mrs. Kidwell in recent years had become increasingly retiring. She would rarely go out in daylight—sweeping the steps in front of her home at 10 or 11 p. m., at times. She would, when walking, cross the street to avoid conversation, neighbors said.

The niece said she received no answer when she phoned Mrs. Kidwell, as she did every night, about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. Miss Daiker, who had been contributing to her aunt's support, said she assumer her aunt was dozing.

Police records showed Mrs. Kidwell attempted suicide by gas in 1938 but was revived by a rescue squad.

A native of Washington, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schmid, and a graduate of Business High, now Roosevelt High School.

Surviving, besides her husband and niece, are two nephews, John Schmid, accounting instructor at Maryland University, and Russell Schmid of Ardmore, Okla.

Fay Reviews Testimony in Gaming Probe

United States Attorney George Morris Fay and his chief assistants yesterday were reviewing testimony taken in the first twp sessions of the special grand jury probe of gambling here.

The grand jury, impaneled Monday, began its regular sessions the following day. Witnesses known to have appeared before it were Lieut. Roy Blick, head of the police vice squad, and Albert F. Miller, who has a wide acquaintance among police. Miller now operates a steak house at 5516 Colorado ave. nw.

It is believed likely that the special jury may meet today to continue its probe. No announcements are being made as to when or where the grand jury meets, and so far this week it has met at a different location each day.

Jackson Tells Court Problems

The struggle between nations and classes today for power is as much one to change legal systems as political or economic systems, Justice Robert J. Jackson said yesterday.

The Supreme Court jurist spoke at the opening of the twenty-fifth annual three-day meeting of the American Law Institute, in joint session with the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws at the Hotel Mayflower.

Jackson said the Communist concept was that the courts are "one of the organs of governmental power, a weapon in the hands of the ruling class for the purpose of safeguarding its interests.

"The most striking feature of this concept is its primitive mingling in the court of the two functions that Western civilization years ago divided between the courts and the legislature," he said. "This is not surprising, for it comes from a country who legal institutions are at least 3 years behind the Western world.

Referring to the difficulties experienced by courts in interpreting the law, the jurist said, "T unfortunate fact is that neith Congress in the choice of langua it will use, nor the courts in t meaning they will ascribe to Co gress, have really effective gui ance from consistently accepte principles of interpretation.

"Neither has Congress underta en to formulate any comprehensi rules on this subject. For the i dividual justice to be left so mu at large presents opportunity a temptation to adopt interpretatio that fit his predilections as to wh he would like the statute to me if he were a legislator," Jacks said.

The institute, which is devotin its time to a proposed code of com mercial law, will resume its se sions at 10 a. m. today.

Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden Named As United Nations Mediator for Palestine

Lake Success, May 20 (AP).—Count Folke Bernadotte, of Sweden, was chosen tonight as United Nations mediator for Palestine.

Count Bernadotte, vice president of the Swedish Red Cross, was picked by the five great powers after he had accepted a proffer of the assignment.

His selection came after the U. N. Security Council wrangled in two sessions today over whether to use strong measures against warring Arabs and Jews in Palestine or adopt peaceful mediation.

The Council adjourned until tomorrow without a decision.

Count Bernadotte, 53, will go to Palestine as United Nations mediator backed by the authority of the 58-nation General Assembly.

The Swedish count, nephew of King Gustav, acted as intermediatory between Heinrich Himmler and the Allied authorities in the closing days of World War II.

He will receive $26,000 annually, tax free, with traveling expenses.

If the Security Council finally decides to resort to mediation, as asked by Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain, that assignment likely will be entrusted to Count Bernadotte.

In the Security Council today, the Soviet Ukraine charged that the British are attacking Israel through the Arab Legion of Trans-Jordan.

Vassily A. Tarasenko, Ukrainian delegate, declared Britain is a belligerent in the Palestine war.

The delegates must choose between a United States resolution calling for strong measures to stop the fighting in Palestine or for Cadogan's plan.

Neither proposal so far has enough votes pledged to pass the Council.

Tarasenko said the British-trained Arab Legion of King Abdullah is in reality an armed force of the British. He said the Legion nominally belongs to Trans-Jordan but has a British commander and British officers and is financed by Britain. The British contribute eight million dollars annually to support Trans-Jordan's forces.

The three-member U. N. truce commission reported from Jerusalem that all peace efforts had been rebuffed. The commission said the council could stop the fighting only by strong diplomatic and military pressure upon the Jews and Arabs.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THE TEST

by T. O. THACKREY
Publisher of the New York Post

There is a deadly conspiracy against the peace of the world and the continued usefulness of the United Nations within the Security Council.

Great Britain is a member of that conspiracy.

Syria, representing the seven Arab states in the Arab Higher Committee which have defied the United Nations, directly, is a member, supported by Great Britain.

China, posing as a democratic ally and seeking funds and military assistance from the United States, has joined the conspiracy.

And the conspiracy is succeeding.

These active enemies of action by the United Nations to prevent the spread of war in the Middle East are being permitted by the United States and the Soviet Union to talk the authority of the United Nations to death.

The United States and the Soviet Union both granted recognition to Israel as the government of that portion of Palestine outlined in the November 29 General Assembly resolution which both supported. Yet they have permitted action on the declaration that peace has been breached to be delayed indefinitely by the quibbles of Great Britain and her Arabian allies.

Both within and without the United Nations parallel and positive steps must be taken at Lake Success and the White House to force a halt to the invasion of Palestine by the Arab nations—nations who have formally declared war, and are engaging in hostile action outside their own borders with the avowed purpose of seizing territory, exercising political control, and dismembering Israel.

The United States need not ask who the aggressors are — the aggressors are self-proclaimed, and their proclamation has been made directly to the United Nations itself.

The war is declared to be upon Israel—but it is in fact even more serious and grave a matter — though the security of Israel is an obligation upon the United Nations, and particularly upon the United States and the Soviet Union, in view of their prompt recognition.

The war is upon the United Nations.

Palestine as a whole is the concern of the United Nations, the successor to the mandated power, and the United Nations, as well as the United States, has authorized a direct trusteeship for Jerusalem, an Arab majority state and a Jewish majority state.

Jerusalem is being laid waste by Arab armies acting upon the orders of seven Arab states, whose forces without exception are operating beyond the borders of those states. The objective, clearly stated, is two-fold:

1. To murder as many of Jerusalem's Jews as possible.

2. To seize Jerusalem by force from the United Nations, and hold it sovereign to one or more Arab states, none of which has right or title in it.

This is war—and the Security Council knows it.

Israel is being attacked by would-be invaders from sovereign Arab states, who have ordered their armies to march upon it and have notified the United Nations secretariat in explicit terms.

But the very presence of these armies on the soil of that part of Palestine set forth by the United Nations for creation of a Jewish state is a hostile act against the United Nations—for the armies are those of nations holding neither sovereignity, right or title to the land, nor overlordship of its population.

The hope of the enemies of the United Nations is that the great powers of Russia and the United States, out of fear and suspicion of each other, will permit the matter to be debated at Lake Success until Palestine has been made an international graveyard — and the United Nations itself buried there.

The United States must break this deadly conspiracy.

In the United Nations, we must state what the United Nations already knows beyond dispute—that the Arab states of the Higher Committee have broken the covenant, are making aggressive war and must be branded the outlaws promptly; and demand that sanctions, together with whatever force is needed, be employed at once to halt the war itself.

At Washington, the President must act to lift the embargo to the defenders of Israel, and keep it in force against the hostile Arab states which have openly defied us and the United Nations.

Further, Great Britain should be notified that we will not countenance continued support of the Transjordan troops now engaged in hostile aggression on Palestine soil.

Only these strong and bold measures will bring peace.

All else is death—not merely to the defenders of Palestine—but to international agreements for halting aggression in favor of peace.

If that is permitted to fail in a test with the defiant Arab invaders of Palestine, what greedy country will not be able to defy the united power of the world?

The test is now.

And today—not six months after debate has been exhausted, as was the case from November until May 15—is the time when action is imperative.

The action will be taken—if President Truman's declaration last week was more than the political aphorism the sneering British have tried to brand it.

2 Killed in Crash Of Plane for Israel

Rome, May 20 (AP).—George "Buzz" Buerling, Canadian fighter ace, and another pilot identified by police as Leonard Cohen, a Briton, were killed today in the crash of a plane they were ferrying to the Israel air force in Palestine.

Buerling achieved fame in Italian island of rendered to him.

C. M. Schuller, Swiss newspaperman, said he had been informed Cohen was the Spitfire pilot who 1943 when the Pantelleria sur-

Buerling, 26 of Montreal, shot down 31 Axis planes and was awarded four British decorations in the World War, particularly in the defense of Malta.

Schuller, who saw the crash and talked with Buerling just before the take off, quoted him as saying he way flying to Palestine for "fun."

The crashed plane was a Norseman type light transport built in Canada for the U. S. Army. It had an American registry number. It crashed at Urbe Airfield near here. Two other planes took off for Israel three hours after the accident. Jewish sources said they were part of a large number of war surplus American and British fighters and transports being ferried to Palestine.

(The 12,420-ton Marine Carp, operated by the American Export Lines, left New York May 4 with 265 passengers, 120 of them bound for Haifa. The ship touched Piraeus, Greece, on its way to Beirut and is to go to Alexandria, Egypt, from Haifa.)

Lebanon Warned In Advance by U. S.

By the United Press

The State Department said yesterday that Lebanon was warned in advance to keep hands off the 41 Americans who were removed from a Palestine-bound ship at Beirut.

It said Lowell C. Pinkerton, the U. S. Minister at Beirut, called at the Lebanese Foreign Office before the incident occurred and advised against any action "which might be taken" against American citizens on the vessel.

Power of Congress, President Debated

A debate over whether Congress is exceeding its constitutional powers and encroaching on the President's domain broke out in the Senate late yesterday.

What brought it to a head was Mr. Truman's veto of legislation giving the Senate branch of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee authority to order an FBI investigation of future nominees to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) moved to override the veto, contending Congress was within its rights. Democratic leaders backed up the President's constitutional objections. The Senate finally agreed to vote on the overrider at 3:30 p. m. today, with the time equally divided across the aisle.

It was the second time in a week Democrats had charged the Republican Congress with overstepping its powers. The last clash occurred in the House before passage of the Hoffman bill subjecting Government employes from the Cabinet level down to fines and jail sentences for failure to yield information requested by a congressional committee.

In vetoing the Knowland bill, the President said Congress in effect was putting the FBI to work for a Senate committee. Since FBI is an agency of the executive branch, he said Congress had no right to give it orders.

Knowland said the President had "lowered an iron curtain and said we have no right to get information out of an executive agency." Senate Atomic Energy Chairman Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) and Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) backed up Knowland. They argued Congress has made use of more than 300 executive agencies in one way or another, including the FBI. Hickenlooper said Congress is "sovereign" in lawmaking and can require an FBI investigation if it wants.

Constitutional objections were raised by Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley (Ky.), Democratic Whip Scott W. Lucas (Ill.), Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.), Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), and Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.).

Tall Building Falls to Arabs

or from Arab sources in Cairo and other Arab capitals. Correspondents reported that Tel Aviv censors have withheld information about ground operations—Editor's note.]

In the New City, Legion gunners forced back Jewish detachments from the northern edge of the Meah Shearim quarter and carried them into position for a raging battle to clear the Jews from Allenby Square. Arabs also bombarded Senbedriya, a Jewish quarter northwest of Jerusalem which temporarily is menacing the right flank of the Arabs' southward sweep.

Haganah was reported to have evacuated its stronghold in the government printing building in southwestern Jerusalem, but still held the railway station.

The Jewish and Arab air forces swapped blows during the day in aerial activity featured by the emergence of the Jewish air fighters. The Jews took to the air in an effort to check the initial phase of an Arab drive to cut off Zionist settlements in northeast Palestine from Israel's main strength in the coastal plain.

The first Jewish air raid, announced today, was aimed Wednesday at Samakh, at the southern end of the Sea of Galilee, on a main Arab route into the northeast region.

An Egyptian Defense Ministry communique said Egyptian planes bombed oil stores, factories and power stations south of Tel Aviv today, making "direct hits which caused many heavy explosions." The objectives were left ablaze, the communique said.

Syrian planes, a communique said, bombed Jewish convoys at Kfar Kema, south of the Sea of Galilee, and raided the Jewish settlements of Kinnereth and Yavniel. Planes also attacked the settlements of Ramot Naphtali, Nabi Yusha and Mishmar Hayarden in the same area.

The Egyptian defense ministry announced that Egyptian mobile forces occupied Beersheba, southernmost limit of the Holy Land in Biblical times, and captured two strong Jewish positions on the Palestine coast beyond Gaza.

Israel's military headquarters in Tel Aviv announced that Jewish troops carried out a successful raid across the upper Jordan and blew up a Syrian army supply camp on the Syrian side of the frontier.

Both Jews and Arabs claimed successes in the fighting immediately south of the Sea of Galilee near the juncture of the borders of Palestine, Syria and Trans-Jordan.

Jewish planes bombed Arab positions in Samakh, at the southern end of the Sea of Galilee, and returned safely to their bases, a Tel Aviv announcement said. Earlier a Jewish informant in Haifa said counterattacking Jewish ground forces stabbed into Arab positions and partly reoccupied Samakh. The Syrian army had moved into the town Tuesday.

Jesse James 'Wanted,' Alive, To Help in Buried Loot Hunt

Stanton, Mo., May 20 (AP).—If Jesse James still is alive, Lester Dill wants him to return to the gent's old hideout here to help in a hunt for buried loot.

Jesse . . .?

Dill said he has records to show that back in the 70's, Jesse and his train - robbing crew used to elude posses by riding their horses at full gallop right into the Meramec caverns' main opening at Stanton.

They reportedly split up their take in what is now known to tourists as the Jesse James room. What interests Dill is the legend the gang buried a big chunk of loot somewhere in the cavern and never got around to returning for it.

Lester, who operates the caverns, has spent 15 years with his guides tunneling out the storied caverns in the hope they would strike a strong box, but always without result.

Dill wired the Lawton (Okla.) Constitution, which claims it has "undisputable proof" James is alive, requesting that Jesse come to the caverns. The newspaper says another man, not James, was shot to death in James' home, St. Joseph, Mo., in 1882.

Truman Tells Of Boyhood

broadly as the band played the Field Artillery Song, a reminder of World War I days when he was fighting in France as Captain Truman of Battery D.

Talking to the boys this afternoon in the handsome chapel, Mr. Truman said that he had long been an admirer of Stephen Girard, French-born mariner, financier and patriot, who left a fortune of six million dollars for the education of fatherless boys.

He told the youngsters that they were fortunate to be in such a school, and thus free from the overcrowded public schools.

"The financial situation of our public schools system," he said, "is something disgraceful—the richest country of the world. Underpaid teachers, not enough room for the children to get an education that they ought to have.

"You can't live in this day and age without an education. This is the mechanical age, and you must be an expert in some line if you are going to make a success in this great day—the greatest age in history, I call it."

Take Milk, for Instance

Mr. Truman evoked chuckles as he compared the present with the time of his own boyhood. Talking about the machine age, he said:

"They have even got to the point where they milk the cows with machines. They bottle the milk with machines. They deliver it to your door—in a machine . . .

"Now when I was a young man—a boy of your age—I had to milk a cow night and morning, carry the milk to the house and put it in a cooler so I could have milk for breakfast. You just go out on the back porch and pick up a bottle, and you don't know where it comes from.

"When I was a boy we didn't have any mechanical 'ish-washers. I had to wash the dishes and wash the lamp chimneys so that we could have clean dishes for the next meal and for the light. If we didn't have clean lamps, we didn't have any light.

"I had to split wood and carry it and put it in the wood-box behind the stove, so I could get up in the morning and start a fire so that we could have breakfast. Now all you do is turn on a gadget and have everything ready."

Wishes He Were 18

Mr. Truman was not carried away by nostalgia. He told the boys that he envied them and wished that he were 18.

"I wish I could go through this age that you will face after I am gone," he said. "You see, the country is going to be in the hands of such young men as you from now on. It's a young man's age. It's the age of the greatest outlook in the history of the world, and it's our endeavor and the effort of the Government of the United States to have that age accomplish for the welfare and the peace of the world, and not for its destruction. That is what we work for—peace in the world.

"Don't let anybody tell you that you are going out into the world where there is no opportunity. It is there—greater and better than ever. This country has only started on its career."

Arriving here at noon, Mr. Truman was met at the railroad station by Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania and Mayor Bernard Samuel of Philadelphia. A small crowd sent up a cheer as the Chief Executive was getting into a White House car to ride to Girard College.

There were placards awaiting Mr. Truman outside the gates of Girard College. They were carried by Negroes and they read: "Negro Orphans Banned at Girard College," "Down with Jim Crow at Girard College," and "Mr. President, tell Girard what you told the South."

Old Stephen Girard, in his will left $30,000 to his house servant, Hannah, a Negro slave, and gave her her freedom. In providing for the college, however, he directed that the students be "poor male white orphan children."

President Truman had luncheon in Founders Hall on the campus. Among those who broke bread with him were former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts, French Ambassador Henri Bonnet, Federal Reserve Board chairman Thomas B. McCabe, Judge James P. McGranery, Governor Duff, Mayor Samuel, and John A. Diemand, a Girard graduate who is now president of the Insurance Company of North America.

Just before the dessert course was served, John De Maio, 16, a Girard senior, was introduced to Mr. Truman and described as one of the finest pianists in the school's history.

The President asked De Maio if he knew any Chopin pieces. When the youngster said he did, Mr. Truman wanted to know if he knew any Chopin waltzes.

"Yes," said the boy. "The Minute Waltz, commonly known as the D-flat."

"Oh, yes," Mr. Truman remarked, "Opus 52, number one. You know, numbers one, two and three are my favorite waltzes.

Lane Pledges Sound Finance For Maryland

Calling for cooperation and understanding to keep Maryland's future "bright," Gov. W. Preston Lane, jr., yesterday voiced determination to "keep the State on a sound financial basis."

He spoke before 800 women at the annual luncheon of the United Women's Democratic Clubs of Maryland at the University of Maryland, College Park.

One of the greatest problems in the State today is the financial situation, although many persons "are under the impression that the State government is well heeled," he said.

Citing that the sales tax is estimated to bring in $21,600,000 this year, he pointed out that revenue had fallen off $2,600,000 from the sale of alcoholic beverages and $300,000 to $500,000 from race tracks.

As a result of readjusting the financial setup, progress was shown in the State's education program, the Governor said. During the last year the State engaged 1200 new teachers compared to a 127 per cent turnover in teaching personnel the previous year, he declared.

North Carolina's Delegates Not Tied

Raleigh, N. C., May 20 (AP).—The North Carolina Democratic Convention voted today to send an uninstructed delegation to the National Convention.

It adopted a platform calling "upon all Democrats in the country and in North Carolina to join their forces and to submerge their differences in the face of a common enemy."

The platform, in an obvious reference to the civil-rights issue, said that "while conceding to individual delegates the right to disagree about details, the convention indorses the broad policies of the Democratic Administration."

It reaffirmed the "historical devotion of our party to the rights and powers of the governments of the several States of the Federal Union."

Col. William T. Joyner, delivering the keynote address to some 4000 Democrats in State convention, said there has been "talk in other States of revolt against the National Democratic Party," but "I do not think any revolt is threatened in North Carolina." Joyner is a Raleigh attorney.

Such a revolt, he added, "would only result in aid to the National Republican Party," and the Republican Party has gone "much, much further in its advocacy of Federal interference in racial adjustment than has the Democratic Party."

Democratic Negroes Seek Full Party Rights

Columbia, S. C., May 20 (AP).—Negro leaders determined on further court action today to obtain "full and complete participation" in State Democratic Party affairs.

The South Carolina Democratic Convention yesterday changed party rules to permit "qualified Negro electors" to vote in the heretofore white primaries but denied Negroes "party membership."

The convention action was designed to comply literally with Federal Court decisions that "qualified Negro electors" had the right to vote in the Democratic primaries and could not be barred from them because of their race.

State President James H. Hinton of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People and Chairman John H. McCray of the South Carolina Progressive (Negro) Democratic Party, said jointly that "Negroes contend that a qualified elector under the court's decision not only exercises the right to cast a ballot but to have full and complete participation in all party matters."

Record Voting Seen in Oregon

late Gov. Earl Snell; United States Senator Guy Cordon unopposed; Representatives Homer Angell, Walter Norblad, Lowell Stockman and Harris Ellsworth, and several lesser State officers. All are Republicans.

The big stars of the Oregon political show meanwhile ended their three weeks of campaigning on an acrimonious note.

Stassen accused Dewey of teaming up with Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio in an "Eastern combination" to stop him, and spending $250,000 in the process.

The New Yorker retorted that Stassen was "degrading" the campaign with "reckless and flagrantly untruthful statements," and "desperate, irresponsible eleventh-hour tactics."

From Washington today, Senator Taft got into the act by saying flatly "no Taft committee or supporter has spent one cent in Oregon, nor have we participated in other way in the Oregon campaign."

Will Answer Later

Taft, himself an aspirant for the Republican nomination, added he would answer "other references to me in the Oregon campaign when the primary is over."

Taft did not elaborate on the "other reference."

It was possible, however, he had in mind Dewey's criticism yesterday of the Senate economy bloc, of which Taft is a leader, over slashing appropriations for Northwest power development—and in particular McNary Dam on the Columbia River.

Dewey called cuts in power development appropriations "sheer folly" and short-sighted economy.

Diocese Acts To Remove Segregation

Richmond, Va., May 20 (AP).—The council of the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia acted today to remove from its constitution and canons racial segregation or discrimination.

It passed on first reading two changes which define the groups entitled to representation on the council. These changes must pass second reading next year.

One clergyman said the changes would mean that Negroes, instead of belonging to a Negro convocation for the entire diocese, would become members of the existing convocations where they happened to live.

The council voted approval of a $200,000 diocesan financial budget.

The largest entirely new items on the new budget include new work in the Richmond and Alexandria areas, $6000.

The Rev. Herbert A. Donovan of Christ Church, Charlottesville; the Rev. Thomas A. Fraser of St. Paul's Church, Alexandria; and Stanley King of St. Paul's Church, Alexandria, were named to the executive committee.

Sen. Barkley Is Keynoter For Democrats

Philadelphia, May 20 (AP).—Two borderline Southerners were chosen today to direct the Democratic National Convention.

But Senator J. Howard McGrath, the party's national chairman, insisted the selections were not designed to appease Dixie Democrats revolting against President Truman's civil rights program.

The 16-member executive committee of the Democratic National Committee chose Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky as keynoter or temporary chairman and Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas for the permanent chairmanship.

A short time later, Barkley said in Washington, "I appreciate the honor, which comes to me wholly unexpected. I'll do the best job I can."

Rayburn said he considers it "a high honor, and I shall accept the post."

Third Time as Keynoter

McGrath termed Barkley and Rayburn "very liberal men who supported in every way the program of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Recognition is due both for long and valiant service to the Democratic Party."

Barkley has taken no stand on the controversial civil rights program but in his capacity as minority leader in the Senate has been a staunch supporter of the Administration.

He was keynoter of the 1932 and 1936 conventions, served as permanent chairman of the 1940 conclave and in 1944 placed President Roosevelt's name in nomination.

Rayburn, former Speaker of the House and now minority leader of that body, has come out against the civil rights program but has not been vigorous in his objections. He has had no previous high convention post.

McGrath told newsmen Mr. Truman's election prospects were not discussed at the meeting but that the committee members had talked them over privately.

Regarding the President's chances of reelection, McGrath said "I am the greatest optimist in the United States when it comes to that."

Former National Chairman Edward J. Flynn of New York said "It's up to the President" to decide who will place Mr. Truman's name in nomination.

Among those reportedly considered to nominate Mr. Truman were Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania and Senator McGrath.

Post for Representative Norton

McGrath said the selection of the two chairmen was unanimous. He said others discussed were Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Lucas and Myers.

The committee set 1 p. m. (EST), July 12, for the opening of the conclave at Convention Hall.

For the first time in history, the committee recommended a woman for a key convention post. It chose Representative Mary Norton of New Jersey as chairman of the important credentials committee. Her choice must be okayed by the convention.

D. C. Rule Bill Reported Out

would vote against its passage there.

The rules changes recommended in the bill are designed to fit into the new system it outlines for handling District legislation. Major legislation would be proposed by the city council. Council proposals would go to the Capitol for review by a new joint District committee. They would have to be approved by a joint resolution passed by both Houses of Congress and signed by the President before taking effect as law.

Such a joint resolution could be brought to the floor of either House by a majority vote there if not reported by the joint committee within 15 days.

Yes or No Choice Disliked

Some members have sharply questioned the procedure on the ground that it would give Congress only a straight "yes" or "no" vote on legislative proposals of the District Council. They would not be subject to amendment; only could be sent back to the council for change. The bill, however, preserves the right of members of Congress to introduce legislation for the District as they do now, and the right of Con[illegible] to enact its own District legislation, as now.

2,300,000 PURCHASE 'GLASS WAX' IN MONTH

Silverware, Glass Cleaned in Seconds with 'GLASS WAX'

Use "GLASS WAX" on windows and mirrors and banish forever the endless polishing with one cloth after another. No tell-tale streaks or dust-collecting furrows when this scientific formula does the grime chasing in one simple wipe-on, wipe-off.

On silverware, too, no matter how dark and tarnished, "GLASS WAX" does a sensational job. No scrubbing, no buffing—no scratching or thinning the precious metal. "GLASS WAX" simply wipes on with one dry cloth—wipes off with another. And with it, off comes the dingy tarnish, dissolved, loosened and removed like magic. Back comes the precious metal's satiny sheen—the diamond-bright look of newness, beauty.

With "GLASS WAX" the average cleaning time on a silver service for eight is only 20 minutes. Before "GLASS WAX", hours were required for a far less brilliant, often scratchy job.

Working into the most intricate filigree and bas relief on silver, this miracle cleaner brightens where no ordinary paste cleaner could ever reach. That's why highly ornamented silver flatware, urns, goblets, vases, settings gleam with a jewelry store radiance after the secret chemical action dissolves all tarnish throughout the design.

Gold Seal Co. National Sales Offices in Chicago

Headquarters for the rapidly expanding sales activity of Gold Seal are at 55 East Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Crystal Clear Film Protects

"GLASS WAX" gleam lasts longer because after safely dissolving stubborn grime, it prevents dirt from ever getting an easy foothold again. You can't see the moisture-resistant film "GLASS WAX" leaves behind. But a secret chemical always makes any surface cleaned with "GLASS WAX" harder for new dirt to cling and stain.

Chemical Way Is Modern Way To Clean Metals

Prized brass or copper utensils and ornaments, pewter pieces, metal trays, platters, chafing dishes and thermidors—and decorative metal or metal-plated items—shed tarnish in seconds as "GLASS WAX" restores their original lustre.

No burnishing is necessary, for in its safe, quick, secret chemical way, "GLASS WAX" cleans down to the gleaming metal itself.

"GLASS WAX" contains no acids or harsh abrasives—cannot harm the softest metal or most delicate plating. And the crystal-clear film it leaves resists thumbprints and smudges—makes the next cleaning even easier than the first.

There is only one "GLASS WAX."

It is the discovery and exclusive product of the Gold Seal Co.

"GLASS WAX" cleans 30 kinds of dirt in 30 seconds—from glass and metal surfaces.

In addition to dissolving dirt like magic, "GLASS WAX" also leaves a crystal clear invisible film on the surface, preventing new grime and tarnish from getting an easy foothold.

30 Kinds of Dirt Smudge Window Panes

Not just one kind, but 30 kinds of dirt are found on windows panes throughout the nation. And each presents a different sort of cleaning problem. But "GLASS WAX" has what is takes to dissolve and remove all 30 kinds.

The fact that there are actually 30 kinds of dirt settling on windows was revealed by Gold Seal chemists who analyzed dirt on window panes from all 48 states.

They found greasy soot streaks and salt water minerals in eastern states . . . sticky pollens, lime dust and tars in the mid-west . . . and stubborn silica deposits in southern and western cities.

These same chemists went to work to find the formula of a chemical cleaner that would banish all 30 kinds of dirt. The result: amazing "GLASS WAX".

Illinois Delegates Backing Gov. Green

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—Nearly half of the 56 Illinois delegates to the Republican National Convention say Gov. Dwight H. Green is their first choice for President—at least in early balloting.

Six favor Senator Taft (R., Ohio), who generally is regarded now as likely to inherit other Illinois votes.

Two are for Gen. Douglas MacArthur. One is for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. One is for House Speaker Joseph Martin (R., Mass.).

Twenty-seven favor Green. Nineteen gave no preference.

Green has publicly declared himself neutral. He has asked that all 56 delegates remain officially uncommitted until they reach Philadelphia June 20.

The unofficial choices were reported in an Associated Press poll of the delegates. Compared with a previous AP poll in February, Green has increased in popularity from 18 to 27, and MacArthur from 1 to 2. Taft was unchanged at six. Dewey and Martin were unchanged with one each.

The Illinois delegation ranks third behind New York and Pennsylvania in size. Sources close to Green say the Illinois strategy is to keep the delegation unpledged "until the right time," possibly in anticipation of a deadlock.

Then, they say, Illinois will be able to throw its weight more effectively and get on the bandwagon of "a winner."

Food Dollar Value Cut in Half For District Housewives

The Greater Washington housewife had to pay $2.18 last month to get the same amount of groceries she bought in August, 1939, for $1.

Her food dollar, in other words, was worth only about 45 cents as compared to that month just before the start of World War II in Europe.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported this yesterday morning in announcing that retail food prices around Washington climbed 3.1 per cent from mid-March to mid-April.

The retail food price index, based on 1935-1939 as 100, stood at 205.1 on April 15. This was still 2.1 per cent below the all-time high of last January, 8 per cent above April a year ago, and 118 per cent above August, 1939.

Meats, fresh fruits and vegetables took the biggest jumps from March 15 to April 15. Cereals, bakery products and canned fruits and vegetables dropped about .5 per cent, while dairy products, eggs and oil advanced slightly.

The meat group, including poultry and fish, increased an average of 3.9 per cent for the month covered by the BLS report. Round steak and leg of lamb went up the most, 7.1 per cent each for an average price of 76.1 cents a pound on round steak and 65 cents for the lamb. Pork chops were up 3 per cent and bacon 4 per cent to about 75 cents each. Salt pork dropped more than 4 per cent.

In fruits and vegetables, the largest single increase was in cabbage, which rose 55 per cent to an average price of nearly 9 cents a pound.

Postlude

Springmann Richly Endowed

By Paul Hume

Fague Springmann is one of the most richly endowed young American singers of our acquaintance.

He looks better than Nelson Eddy, sounds something like John Charles Thomas, and is built like a football star, which he was in Central High School's 1935 backfield. Last night he sang a recital of American songs in Constitution Hall. His appearance there marked the first of a series of concerts by young American artist to be sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs of Arlington, Fairlington, and Woodbridge, Va.

Springmann was an excellent choice for an opener. His voice is a naturally resonant baritone of timbre, capable of remarkable power yet admirably restrained in soft passages. His enunciation is flawless and absolutely natural. Vocally there seem to be only two things for the young singer to watch: a tendency to sing out of the sides of his mouth in loud passages, and a dangerous love of taking top notes "wide open" rather than covering them as every fine vocal artist does.

As far as the art of music goes, Springmann ought to dig into the greatest works in the vocal repertoire. This will require a stylistic refinement far beyond anything even suggested last night, but with such natural gifts, anything less than true greatness is unworthy of Springmann.

One must polish and polish endlessly to make singing true art. Fague Springmann can go as far as any American baritone has ever gone if he will go slowly and work. Last night he had the benefit of highly sympathetic support from Frederick Fall, who contributed a group of solos.

Across 18th st., Ramon Gonzalez played a piano recital under the sponsorship of the Puerto Rican American Women's League and the Club de las Americas.

Playing for a sizable audience in the Interior Auditorium, Gonzalez exhibited an affinity for the piano, and a technique allowing him to express his musical opinions.

Boy 'Mayor,' Aides Try to Clean Up City

Zanesville, Ohio, May 20 (AP).—It goes on in a thousand cities every year, this letting high school seniors play at running the town for a day. But here the boys played it hard and straight.

They put the pinch on some gambling, added $25 and costs to the city coffers, and confiscated enough punch boards and "cookie jars" to open a casino.

The duly elected and appointed adult city officials picked up the pieces today after a "laboratory experiment" in civics that was a lulu.

The boys were "Mayor" Aubrey Sibbring, "City Solicitor" Frank Schurtz, jr., and "Police Chief" Jack Harper, all 17-year-old seniors of Lash High School. They were elected by fellow students last week.

These three put on a series of raids, with the aid of one patrolman who never knew what was next. When Police Chief (real) Clifford Courtney caught up and took away Police Chief (pro tem) Harper's gun and badge, they were planning secretly to knock off a house of prostitution.

Meanwhile "Fire Chief" Charles Cooper, "City Auditor" Henry Abele and "Safety Director" John Montgomery tried to keep a campaign promise to let school out early. They set about having the overcrowded Lash building declared a firetrap. That fizzled.

Virginia Judge Is Accused of 'Power Abuse'

United States District Judge Sterling Hutcheson of Virginia is charged with "abuse of judicial power" in an impeachment petition filed with Congress by a Washington attorney.

The petition was filed by Edmond C. Fletcher and referred to the House Judiciary Committee.

Fletcher asks that the official conduct of Judge Hutcheson of the Eastern District of Virginia "be inquired into by your honorable body."

Fletcher said he was employed by Earl T. Ellis in 1947 as receiver of the Quantico Company, Inc., of Petersburg, Va., to represent him in recovery of assets of the company.

In December, 1947, he added, he instituted action in ejectment in the District Court to recover some 2000 acres of land.

Fletcher charged that the judge attempted to prohibit him from further continuing his appearance in the ejectment action "as counsel for the plaintiff, at plaintiff's request, in a matter involving real estate having a fair value of 14 million dollars."

Committee aides said the majority of such petitions filed received no favorable action from the committee.

Md. GOP Delegates Unpledged

between Dewey and Taft, but later shifted to Willkie.

Today's State convention, held at the Lord Baltimore Hotel here, breezed through its agenda in less than four hours, marked by a Republican victory spirit, sounded in the keynote address by Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin, jr.

Martin predicted a clean Republican sweep, including a Republican President, in this fall's elections and said "millions of patriotic Democrats" would aid the Republican cause. He said hte GOP welcomes these Democrats who, he said, "never had any more sympathy for much of the New Deal than we have had."

The convention's dominant faction was led by Jacob France, Maryland national Republican committeeman who was unanimously renominated for that post by the national delegation immediately after the convention.

Only Wants a Winner

France, although convention gossip had it that he learned toward Dewey, told The Washington Post all he wanted was "a good Republican who can win." He added the delegation probably will decide its course at convention time next month.

Among 12 of the 16 delegates questioned, Taft, Stassen and Vandenberg were mentioned as possible second choices. One delegate said he was for Stassen, and that Stassen had a nucleus of support among the delegates. Both Stassen and Taft had representatives, working among the state convention delegates.

The only trace of any disunity came near the convention's close, when William F. Broening, jr., of Baltimore, son of a former Baltimor mayor, urged the unpledged delegates to support General MacArthur. He was both booed and cheered, mostly booed.

The smooth planning of the convention organization almost got one upset—inadvertently. On call for temporary nominations, a delegate mistakenly nominated Harry P. Phoebus, 19-year-old University of Maryland junior from Somerset County. Immediately another delegate leaped to his feet to withdraw the nomination with the comment: "He is supposed to be the permanent secretary." The 152 convention delegates burst into laughter.

Former Appeals Judge D. Lindley Sloan of Cumberland was named convention chairman, and Phoebus and Mrs. Mary Hawkins of Baltimore, as secretaries. Sloan courteously gave Speaker Martin a pat on the back when he introduced him with the comment, "The Republican convention could do no better than to nominate our speaker."

Hoff Elected Chairman

Following the convention, the State Republican Central Committee went into session and elected Stanford L. Hoff, State Senator from Carrol County, to succeed Galen L. Tait as State Republican chairman. Tait declined reelection, having served as chairman since 1914 except for the period from 1934 to 1942.

Miss Bertha Sheppard Adkins of Salisbury was elected by the national delegation to succeed Mrs. Lula E. Powell of Baltimore as national committeewoman.

Election of all delegates and alternates to the national convention and the presidential electors was unanimous. County delegations to the State convention proposed the names during caucuses held in the morning.

The national delegation will elect its chairman sometime between now and the national convention which begins June 21. Robert O. Bonnell, of Baltimore, was mentioned among delegates as a possible chance.

Elected as delegates at large were: Robert O. Bonnell, of Baltimore City; Deeley K. Nice, Baltimore City; Eldridge Rinehart, Washington County; Theodore R. McKeldin, Baltimore City; the Rev. Arthur J. Payne, Baltimore City; E. Dale Adkins, Baltimore City; Mrs. Harvey Kline, Washington County, president of the State Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, and Thomas E. Latimer, Prince Georges County.

Alternate delegates at large elected were: Morgan Harris, Daniel Ellison, James Stewart, M. A. Callaway, Harry Fine, Adolph Schuch, George C. Doub, Stanley Scherr.

Delegates elected from the First District: Robert F. Duer of Somerset County and Clifton M. Miller, Kent County. Alternates: W. Newton Jackson, Wicomico County, and Allen Carlson, Cecil County.

Second District: Harvey M. Chesney, Bel Air, Harford County, and Henry W. Lewis of Baltimore County. Alternates: Charles Borcherding, Baltimore City, and Mrs. Helen G. Fischer, Baltimore County.

Third District: John A. Janetzke, Baltimore City, the Third District's Republican Congressional candidate, and Anthony A. Prince, assistant secretary to the Mayor of Baltimore. Alternates: Joseph A. Bush, Daniel J. Johnson, Charles W. Main, and Walter Annewski, all of Baltimore City.

Fourth District: Charles A. Dorsey and Mrs. Mary Burgess, both of Baltimore City. Alternates: Donald Boyce, Albert E. Weir, George H. Douglas and William Gosnell, all of Baltimore City.

Fifth District: Thomas B. R. Mudd, Charles County, and Frank Small, jr., Calvert County. Alternates: Joseph P. Weiner, Charles County, and John L. Green, Baltimore City.

Sixth District: Lester Arries, Bethesda, Montgomery County, vice president of Dumont Television Corp., and Neil C. Fraley, Oakland, Garrett County, an attorney. Alternates: Mrs. John D. Dunn, Hagerstown, Washington County, and Mrs. Emmert Bowlus, Frederick, Frederick County, both housewives.

Chosen as presidential electors were J. F. Curtis and Samuel Schmidt, electors at large; James A. McAllister, First District; Sherman Flanigin, Second District; Augustus D. Knox, Third District; Arthur H. Barton, Fourth District; Maurice Lusby, Fifth District, and George C. Warner, Sixth District.

Mayor Freed Of Charge In Assault

Greenbelt Mayor Thomas J. Canning was acquitted in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday of an assault charge which arose from a finger-shaking incident at a meeting of the Greenbelt Town Council last March 15.

Canning was found not guilty of assaulting Robert A. Dodge, a former town policeman, who charged he was "put in fear of bodily harm" when he was admonished by the mayor to refrain from interrupting the meeting.

The trial, postponed on three occasions, ended when Judge Alan Bowie abruptly dismissed the charge after listening to conflicting testimony by representatives of two Greenbelt political factions which have figured in a variety of exchanges in recent months.

Slaying Suspect Held After Speeding Arrest

A 32-year-old man believed wanted for murder in Baltimore was held in the Rockville, Md., jail last night after his arrest for speeding by a Maryland State trooper in a 5-mile chase.

The man, identified by police as Frank Turner, is alleged to have slain a man, Walter McNeil, then escaped by forcing another man out of an automobile belonging to the Baltimore Sun papers.

At Damascus Trooper D. R. Wade saw Turner speeding. Turner tried to force Wade off the road several times before he stopped as Wade startd to draw his pistol, the trooper said.

Federal Reserve Board Fears New Price Rise, Stresses Need of Greater Credit Curbs

By the United Press

Increased defense spending, on top of a Government deficit and expanding bank lending, may force prices still higher, the Federal Reserve Board said yesterday.

In its first monthly bulletin signed by the new chairman, Thomas B. McCabe, the board predicted "aggressive" expansion of bank credit after July 1, and again urged Congress to give it more power to curb lending.

This appeared to put McCabe on record in favor of the controversial extra bank reserve proposals of former Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, who was demoted by President Truman and replaced by McCabe last January.

An associate of McCabe's said that he agrees "in principle" with Eccles, although "his feeling isn't as strong."

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder opposed Eccles' control proposals, as did financial circles. Snyder favors voluntary controls by bankers themselves.

The board said that if the Government has to sell bonds to the banks to pay for arms spending, the bonds wil give the banks additional reserves and encourage them to "expand their lending on an aggressive basis."

It said that this might begin to happen after July 1.

Germany's Czech-Coup Refugees Now 15,000

Frankfurt, May 20 (NYHT).—Fifteen thousand Czechs have entered western Germany since the Communist coup in Prague last February, it was estimated today by politcial refugees.

Having lost an appreciable number of skilled technicians and members of the professions, the Communist government in Czechoslovakia now is said to have established its frontier guard in triple depth. But the exodus still continues daily, Allied military authorities in Frankfurt say.

Dr. Fazekas Appointed to Gallinger Staff

Dr. Joseph F. Fazekas yesterday was named by the Commissioners as chief medical officer in medicine at Gallinger Hospital. The post pays $7581 a year.

Fazekas, who is 39, will succeed Dr. Joseph T. Roberts, who resigned last November to become dean of the medical school at the University of Arkansas.

Health Officer George C. Ruhland, in a letter recommending the appointment, said Dr. Fazekas had been recommended by Dr. Harold Jeghers, director of the department of medicine at Georgetown Medical School, and by Dr. Thomas McP. Brown, chief of medicine at George Washington University Medical School.

He said Dr. Fazekas, who is now on the staff of Pratt Diagnostic Hospital, Boston, was "our best choice" among candidates for the post and would be a "valuable addition" to the Gallinger staff" not only from the medical service viewpoint, but from the viewpoint of a teacher of medicine in Gallinger's relationship to the local medical schools."

A native of New Haven, Conn., Dr. Fazekas took premedical training at Yale University and was graduated from Albany (N. Y.) Medical College. He served in the Army Medical Corps during the war and took interne training at St. Elizabeths and Peter Bent Brigham Hospitals in Boston. He is married and has a family, the Health Department said.

The current UMW contract with the operators expires June 30.

Simmers Down to Two

Lewis put his finger on three leading operators who, he said, would determine whether the miners worked or walked out. They were President Benjamin Fairless of United States Steel, President George Humphrey of the M. A. Hanna Coal Co., and James Francis, head of the Island Creek Coal Co.

According to Lewis, Fairless is the top-drawer industry man in the steel companies' captive mines; Humphrey has heavy interests in the Midwest, and Francis controls Southern production.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "it simmers down to a decision of two men—namely, Fairless and Humphrey. Because if they elect to make an agreement, Francis' tonnage, the tonnage of the Midwest and the tonnage in the Far West would have no alternative but to follow—just the same as happened in 1947."

Lewis' walkout from opening negotiations over his demand that Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, be excluded may have opened a rift in the solid front of the operators. After some of the operators met yesterday morning, Charles O'Neill, operator spokesman, said it was possible those outside the South might consider separate negotiations with the mine workers.

As for Lewis, he declared the collapse of bargaining which followed his walkout was "unfortunate and will make for a delay in the negotiations, and probably accentuate the apprehension being built up in predictions of a possible stoppage in the mines."

In a characteristically orotund statement to reporters, Lewis insisted any new contract must put into effect a pension system for miners which would "contractually abate the current cavilling on this subject." No pensions have been paid from an existing 50-million-dollar welfare fund because of union-operator differences and Lewis said an earlier pension fund would be exhausted by July 1, creating "an acute situation, grave in character."

"Thousands of widows, thousands of orphans and thousands of sick and injured men now writhing on beds of pain in their humble domicile will be left on their beds to live or die on July 1," he said. "Such a brutal act on the part of the operators will create such convulsions of anger among the working mine workers of this country that the situation is fraught with grave potentials . . ."

The UMW chief took a parting shot at the Taft-Hartley Act, under which he and his union were fined $1,420,000 for slowness in obeying a court order to halt a spring strike over the pension question.

"Mr. Fairless, Mr. Francis and Mr. Humphrey," he declared, "can't do that to the coal miners of the country"—referring to his "brutal act" pension statement—"and the citizens of this country should not permit them to try to do it.

"The coal miners are not yet slaves, but the Taft slave law seeks to make them so."

Just before calling his news conference, Lewis had met with the union's 200-man policy committee. He told reporters the union would not enter into a contract which contained no clause detailing how the pension fund was to be applied from the welfare fund.

"It is inconceivable," he said, "that the United Mine Workers could or would negotiate a successor agreement that fails to activate the welfare fund . . . Neither the officers of the organization nor the members of the policy committee have power or authority to do so. And in honor they would personally refuse to do it."

1000 Iowa Guard Troops Patrol Plant

Waterloo, Iowa, May 20 (AP).—An uneasy calm hung over this tension-ridden city as nearly 1000 National Guardsmen kept quiet watch over the Rath packing plant area where a picket's death brought an eruption of rioting last night.

Iowans awaited a scheduled 8:40 p. m. (Eastern Daylight Time) broadcast on "The Strike Situation" by Gov. Robert D. Blue, Blue had called out the guard at the request of local civil authorities.

The CIO-United Packinghouse Workers local, whose 4500 members have been on strike from the independent Rath plant since March 16, called a night mass meeting at a high school auditorium.

The union called on its members to "mourn the death" of the picket, William J. Farrell, 40, who its officials said, "gave his life to our cause."

County Attorney Blair Wood filed a murder charge against Fred Lee Roberts, 55-year-old Negro. He quoted Roberts as saying he intended to shoot into the ground to frighten pickets who surrounded his car as he drove to his plant job as a nonunion night cleanup man. Roberts, father of nine, was in an undisclosed jail in another county.

The Rath management, which today suspended all but maintenance and shipping operations, announced it planned to resume limited slaughter of livestock Friday.

A. D. Donnell, Rath spokesman who voiced "deep regret" over the violence, disputed union contentions that a court order which yesterday imposed new restrictions on strike activities caused the incident.

The union contended a portion of the order banning its loudspeaker caused "loss of means of controlling our people."

Donnell said the order was designed "to prevent violence." He added that deadlocked strike settlement negotiations, which had been scheduled to resume Friday, now were "up in the air" because of developments.

National Guardsmen, who arrived by convoy from throughout Iowa during the night, moved into the Rath plant area without resistance shortly before dawn.

Under Guard protection, upward of 150 workers who had been stranded in the plant during the night returned home. They righted the nearly 30 overturned and damaged cars in the Rath parking lot which had been stormed in the rioting following Farrell's death.

The guardsmen, billeted near the plant, were under command of Col. Fred Williams, veteran of World War II amphibious invasions in both the Atlantic and Pacific.

There was no martial law.

Governor Blue, campaigning in eastern Iowa for renomination, had returned to the capitol in Des Moines during the night.

The Iowa State Federation of Labor (AFL), coincidentally in convention here, yesterday had passed a resolution opposing Blue's re-election. This was passed prior to the Rath violence.

'Something Definite' Due in Rail Dispute

By the United Press

Union and management representatives failed again yesterday to reach agreement in the railroad labor wage dispute, but one conferee promised something definite today.

The railroad officials asked for more time to study settlement proposals submitted by presidents of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's union.

Bargaining talks are scheduled to resume at 2:30 p. m. (EDT) today. One conferee said industry negotiators have promised a definite answer then "one way or another" on the unions' proposals.

If any agreement is reached it is expected to give the unions some concessions on working rules in addition to the 15½-cent-an-hour wage increase previously offered by the carriers.

The Government, which seized the railroads to prevent a strike May 11, plans to turn them back to private ownership as soon as the strike threat is over.

Meat Union Official Snubs Hoffman Hearing

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—A St. Paul leader of the CIO meat handlers union today refused to appear before Congressmen who summoned him to a hearing on strike disorders.

The union official, Milton Siegel, field representative of District 2, United Packinghouse Workers, said through an attorney that he was refusing to honor a subpoena because he felt the House subcommittee lacked proper authority. He said also that he believed the subcommittee's chairman, Representative Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.) "has a strong bias against unions and union members."

Hoffman told the attorney that Siegel may be in danger of being cited for contempt of Congress. He said he would consult other committee members about possible action against Siegel.

The Congressmen today began hearings on strike disorders in nine States to find whether new Federal laws are needed to protect workers' civil rights. Sitting with Hoffman was Representative Harvey (R., Ind.)

First testimony related to meat strike picketing at South St. Paul, Minn., where the National Guard was called out to prevent violence.

Hoffman said the subcommittee was looking into strikes, violence, destruction of property and rioting in Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana,, Georgia, Michigan and Alabama.

"The right to work has been denied hundreds of thousands of people. Similarity of methods and procedure followed in widely separated areas show an apparent pattern back of these distrurbances," he said.

"Men guilty of no violation of the law have been killed, beaten, hospitalized and kidnaped.

"It is well that we learn whether the Communists have infiltrated into labor unions and are overriding the legitimate efforts of Americans in an effort to paralyze our economic system and eventually to overthrow our Government."

Herbert Mielke, supervisory employe at the Swift & Co. South St. Paul, Minn., meat packing plant, testified that large CIO Packinghouse Workers picket lines prevented plant entrance by railroad, supervisory and office workers during the current meat strike. He said deputy sheriffs and local police and a court injunction limiting the number of pickets were unsuccessful in efforts to let workers through the lines.

Revercomb Urges U. S. to Be 'Alert' In Refugee Policy

Senator Revercomb (R., W. Va.) said yesterday the United States must be "alert and on guard" against letting in subversive persons as European refugees.

He opened Senate debate in support of a bill to allow 100,000 European displaced persons and refugees to enter the United States, under certain conditions, during the next two years.

He said the problem is one of "staggering proportions," and will become worse if Russian expansion continues.

Several Senators have prepared amendments to ease the conditions it sets for admitting displaced persons.

The Senate debated the bill only briefly yesterday, and then laid it aside to take up other legislation. It is expected to be taken up later this week, or next week.

'Wrong Oath' Hit in Ruling on Dalstrom

Trial Board action against Ivan J. Dalstrom, Fire Department superintendent of machinery, may be illegal because a member of the board was sworn in with the wrong oath, Dalstrom's attorney declared yesterday.

Attorney Paul E. Jamieson charged Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry E. Wixon took the wrong oath when he became a member of the Fire Department trial board last year.

He said he believed this meant the board was "not legally constituted" Wednesday when it found Dalstrom guilty of improper driving. The board recommended he be fined $125 and lose pay totaling about $175 for the period from April 11 to 20 when he was suspended from duty.

Wixon admitted he took an oath different from the one provided in the Fire Department manual. He said the oath was provided by Clement P. Cox, who at that time was an inspector and chief property clerk of the Police Department.

Cox, who retired April 1 due to physical disability, could not be reached for comment.

Jamieson said he hadn't decided whether to make an issue of this technicality when he appeals the board's decision. "I might elect to just appeal on the grounds that the penalty was excessive," he said.

5 Are Reelected

Two Trustees Named to GWU Board

Hays Owen

Two new members were elected to the George Washington University Board of Trustees yesterday and five other members reelected.

Representative Brooks Hays (D., Ark.) and Claude W. Owen, Washington civic leader, were elected following a mail-in ballot by fellow alumni for three-year terms.

Reelected trustees were Charles William Gerstenberg, a New York publisher; Gilbert Grosvenor, National Geographic Society president; Benjamin M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star; Alfred Henry Lawson, Washington Loan & Trust Co., vice president; and Lloyd Bennett Wilson, former Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. president.

Reelected officers of the board were: Robert V. Fleming, chairman; Henry Parsons Erwin, secretary, and Newell Windom Ellison, assistant secretary.

Grady Reported Chosen as Next Envoy to Greece

Ambassador Henry F. Grady, American envoy to India, was reported last night to have been chosen as the next American Ambassador to Greece.

As such, he may have a much larger than usual diplomatic job, heading all American activities in Greece—diplomatic, economic and military. Grady is expected to go to Athens about July 1.

Alan Barth's Editorials Win National Prize

Alan Barth, editorial writer of The Washington Post, has been awarded one of ten National awards for distinguished service in American journalism, Sigma Delta Chi Fraternity announced yesterday.

Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, cited Barth for editorial writing. Other awards went to:

Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune for Washington correspondence; George Goodwin of the Atlanta Journal, general reporting; Bruce Russell of the Los Angeles Times, editorial cartooning; Alex Dreier of the National Broadcasting Co., Chicago, radio newswriting; James C. McNamara of KLAC, Hollywood, Calif., radio reporting; Daniel De Luce of the Associated Press for foreign correspondence.

Paul Calvert of the Los Angeles Times for news pictures; James E. Pollard of Ohio State University, research in journalism; the Memphis Press-Scimitar, courage in journalism.

The panel of judges which made the awards said of Barth: "Alan Barth's editorials appearing in The Washington Post were informative, persuasive and written in clean, clear English. His 'displaced persons' editorials contained no information that was not available to any editorial writer anywhere in the United States. They did, however, display a great amount of thought about the subject he was discussing and his style of writing enabled him to present that thinking in the crisp manner that holds the readers' attention despite the relative length of the discussion."

Andrews was cited for his series of stories on, "The State Department Security Case," with the judges commenting: "He exposed State Department dismissals for reasons of 'security' although employes thus discharged were not informed why their loyalty was doubted. Andrews displayed initiative in ferreting out the facts, developed a whole, full story, and through fearless reporting forced the State Department to change a policy."

Lawyer Asks Dismissal of Fook's Suit

Attorney Woodrow E. Faulkner yesterday claimed that he obtained the commutation of the death sentence imposed on Lee Fook, laundry man, for murder, and urged the District Court to dismiss the $106,000 damage suit Fook filed against him last month.

Fook, in a suit filed by Attorney John M. Holzworth, claimed Faulkner took his life savings of $6000 but failed to do an able and faithful job of defending him on a charge of killing Harry Lee at Georgia ave. and Buchanan st. nw. in July, 1946. Fook asked for his $6000 back and for $100,000 damages.

Attorney Harlan Wood yesterday filed Faulkner's motion for summary judgment, and an affidavit in which Faulkner said he did get some bonds of the Chinese Nationalist Government as a fee for defending the murder case. These brought $5728.37, Faulkner said, and Fook still owes him $1431.63 for his services.

N. Y. Educator May Survey D. C. Schools

Dr. George D. Strayer, promnent New York educator is in line to make the proposed survey of Washington public school facilities for Congress.

Dr. Strayer conferred yesterday with Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho) and Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.) who head the Senate and House Subcommittees in charge of the District budget.

Dworshak and Representative George J. Bates (R., Mass.) have strongly recommended that money for the survey be included in the city budget for next year. Bates heads the House Subcommittee in charge of District revenue legislation.

Dr. Strayer, professor emeritus of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, has made technical surveys of school systems in a number of cities including Baltimore, Md., and Boston, Mass. The next step after yesterday's conference is for Dr. Strayer to submit an estimate of the cost for making the proposed school survey here.

Foster Resigns Commerce Post To Help Harriman

The resignation of William C. Foster as Undersecretary of Commerce was accepted "reluctantly" by President Truman yesterday, effective May 31.

Foster is becoming chief aide to W. Averell Harriman, roving ambassador in the Economic Cooperation Administration. In leaving the Commerce Department, formerly headed by Harriman, Foster also is giving up the chairmanship of the Air Coordinating Committee.

"As you move into a new field of activity" the President wrote Foster, "you have the satisfaction of knowing that you have filled both posts with distinction."

Bank Loans Up 2.6 Million Here in Week

By S. Oliver Goodman

Loans and discounts of 17 Washington banks spurted $2,623,000 in the week ended May 12 and reached a year's high of $221,880,000.

The gain since January 1 amounted to $15,755,000, according to figures released yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. The compilation does not include two Washington banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve.

Nearly half of the week's upturn was in real estate loans which totaled $71,553,000 on May 12, an increase of $1,178,000 over the previous week and a gain of $6,121,000 since January 1.

Other highlights of the Federal Reserve Bank's report pertaining to Washington:

Bank assets totaled $978,222,000 on May 12, against $975,050 on May 5 and $991,729 on December 31, 1947.

Demand deposits totaled $724,216,000 on May 12, against $726,136,000 on May 5 and $737,825,000 on December 31.

Time deposits totaled $185,880,000 on May 12, against $185,859,000 on May 5 and $189,096,000 on December 31.

AT 35 PER CENT MARK: The District Security Loan Campaign reached 33.7 per cent of the quota on May 15, Chairman Thomas J. Groom reported yesterday. Sales of Series E, F and G bonds from May 9 through May 15 totaled $1,621,276 here, bringing the aggregate to $8,030,640 of the $22,500,000 campaign. E bond sales reached 40 per cent of its $14,180,000 goal. Series F and G sales were reported at 28 per cent of their $8,320,000 quota.

RECORD SPENDING: Total spending for the Nation increased to a new record high annual rate of $244,300,000,000 in the first quarter of this year, the Commerce Department reported yesterday. That compares with an annual rate of 241 billion dollars in the preceding quarter and $229,600,000,000 for the whole of 1947.

OVERDUE RISE: The recent advance in stock prices is overdue recognition that securities have been undervalued in recent years, J. A. Livingston told members of the Cosmopolitan Club at a luncheon meeting yesterday in the Carlton. Livingston, business columnist for The Washington Post, pointed out the extent of price increase in other fields and then added that stock prices finally are attempting to catch up. Significant, he added, is the fact the bull market got under way shortly after the Federal tax reductions.

PLANS STOCK BOOST: The Virginia Electric & Power Co. subbitted to the State Corporation Commission a charter amendment calling for an increase in common-stock shares from four million to six million. At the same time it submitted another amendment reclassifying its no-par-value common stock to $10 a share.

ODD LOTS: The Nation is reaching "a period of stability and high level prosperity," according to Emil Schram, president of New York Exchange . . . New car sales in Washington totaled 10,240 in first four months this year, against 8542 in same 1947 period, according to Washington Automotive Trade Association . . . The Porter Advertising Agency has opened offices at 918 F st. nw., reports Albert K. Porter, former vice president of the Chesapeake Broadcasting Co., Inc. . . . Hudson has shipped 31,440 cars in the first three months this year, but demand still far outstrips supply, according to President A. E. Barit . . . Ford Motor Co. said yesterday an improved V-8 engine and a new six-cylinder engine will be available on all models of 1949 Ford car.

Maryland Tobacco

Upper Marlboro, Md., May 20 (AP).—Prices on southern Maryland tobacco markets strengthened slightly today on many grades.

The United States Department of Agriculture and the Maryland Department of Markets reported that the majority of increases amounted to 25 cents to $2 per hundredweight. Low to good qualities were affected chiefly by the improved prices as the better grades continued to sell at previous levels.

Sale volume was light today and the quality of offerings was lower than yesterday. The percentage of seconds and tips increased, while the proportion of heavy crop declined.

Wednesday's net auction sales, according to the two departments, amounted to 474,160 pounds, averaging $44.37 per hundred. This brought the season's sales to 4,148,040 pounds at an average price of $42.36.

Williams Made Head of C. E. D.

New York, May 20 (AP). — The Committee for Economic Development put itself on a permanent basis today and turned to new blood from the West for a chairman to succeed Paul G. Hoffman, administrator for economic cooperation.

W. Walter Williams, banking, real estate and insurance man from Seattle, Wash., was named by the board of trustees to be the committee's second chairman, and the first under its permanent setup.

Hoffman, who has held the post since CED was launched in July, 1942, resigned following his appointment to administer European relief. He also resigned as president of the Studebaker Corp.

The committee, formed by top-flight industrial executives to chart industry's course through reconversion days, has been continued from time to time. It has organized State units to draft industry's own program for spurring production and keeping employment at a high level. Its research council, under Raymond Rubicam, New York advertising man, will continue to study industry's ills and recommend cures and policies.

Williams said he would name an advisory committee to plan activities under the permanent setup, aimed at taking a lead in settling business problems without leaning on Government.

The stocky, alert-eyed Seattle business leader has been president since 1927 of Continental, Inc., a mortgage banking, insurance, real estate and property management firm. He has been Washington State chairman of CED and active in West Coast banking and civic enterprises.

Harvester Dividend Voted

International Harvester Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 35 cents on new common stock, payable July 15 to stock of record June 15. The dividend is equal to $1.05 a share on the old stock, which was split three for one and on which $1 had been paid quarterly.

Credit Men Elect

Cleveland, May 20 (AP).—Charles E. Fernald of Philadelphia was elected president of the National Association of Credit Men at its fifty-second annual convention. Fernald is general manager and treasurer of the Marine Transportation Corp.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—A late rally led by May corn left the grain market with a firm tone at the close today. Short covering in the expiring May corn and oats contracts featured the day's activities. In contrast, May wheat sagged for a small loss.

The market opened steady. But around the end of the first 30 minutes a burst of selling sent prices down about a cent or more. From then until the upward flurry shortly before the close, prices held under yesterday's final levels. Trading was not active.

Wheat ended ⅜ to ¼ higher; May, 2.46½@2.46⅝; corn was ½ to 2 cents higher; May, 2.33⅛@2.34; oats were ½ lower to ⅛ higher; May, 1.12⅞@1.14⅛; and soybeans were 6 cents lower to 1 cent higher, May, 4.17.

New York Cotton

New York, May 20 (AP).—Cotton futures closed $2.25 a bale higher to 30 cents lower today. The market pattern was dominated by operations in nearby July delivery, which recently has been under persistent liquidating pressure.

The market registered losses of more than $1 a bale in early dealings as July selling and switching into new crop months developed in some volume. Later covering of July by a leading spot firm against sales of the December delivery encouraged short covering and replacement buying in the spot delivery which rallied that delivery more than $2 a bale. The rest of the market recovered in sympathy.

Atom Patronage

The current attempt by Republican leaders in Congress to revise the Atomic Energy Act constitutes, in a way, a great tribute to the character of David E. Lilienthal. He is the target, patently, of the Hickenlooper-Johnson proposal to amend the act in such a way as to continue the members of the Atomic Energy Commission on a tentative basis for two years longer. The aim, of course, is not alone to create political plums for job-hungry Republicans but, more significantly, to undermine the policy established by Congress itself and faithfully executed by the present commission forbidding private exploitation of a giant resource belonging to all the people of the United States. Getting rid of Mr. Lilienthal is a necessary preliminary to this sort of sabotage.

Awed and momentarily exalted by the tremendous potentialities of atomic energy, the Seventy-ninth Congress made the Atomic Energy Commission a public utility with exclusive ownership of all fissionable material and of the facilities for its production and with power, through licensing and patent control, to regulate all industrial applications of atomic energy. Now that industrial uses seem near realization, the Eightieth Congress yearns, apparently, to return to business as usual, to private exploitation of this stupendous national asset developed and financed entirely by the United States Government. Mr. Lilienthal's sin appears to be that he is incorrigibly devoted to the public interest and to public control of this unique national resource.

The majority members of the joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy protested vehemently that their recommendation for amendment of the law was made "on a totally nonpolitical basis." Its indisputable effect, nevertheless, is to keep the Atomic Energy Commission in politics for two years longer instead of setting in operation the wise provision in the Act for staggered terms in order to minimize political considerations in the appointment of commissioners. What is even more serious, however, is that this insistence upon no more than temporary tenure for the commission inevitably handicaps it in its vital work and thus jeopardizes an essential element of the national security. In the present position of the world, atomic energy is a bit too important for this sort of peanut politicking.

Giant Carrier

It is impossible to conceive of the 65,000-ton aircraft carrier approved by the House Armed Services Committee as merely an instrument for naval fleet support. If the carrier still has justification, as we believe it does, then that justification is as a means of carrying war to the enemy in the early stages. The approval by the committee is tantamount to recognition that the naval air arm does have a definite, if auxiliary, strategic mission in complementing the work of the Air Force in attaining air superiority.

Defense heads apparently have agreed on giving the Air Force primary responsibility for attacks on an enemy's homeland. To fulfill that responsibility it will be necessary either to operate from such overseas bases as can be obtained in friendly nations or captured from the enemy, or to concentrate on long-range bombing from bases in or near this country. Though important improvements are being made, mass long-range bombing is not now a practical possibility. To be sure, one of these days it will become practical. But until it does, there is a gap in offensive power that must be filled. That is the utility of the mammoth carrier. It is to be designed to cruise in distant waters and to permit the launching of naval planes with a 1700-mile radius capable of handling the atomic bomb.

The criticism undoubtedly will be made that so huge a vessel, with a loaded weight of up to 80,000 tons and costing a minimum of 125 million dollars, will constitute a prime target for enemy attack. That criticism is not wholly valid. The increase in tonnage does not mean a comparable increase in dimensions over present carriers; the purpose of the change is to permit more runway space and less superstructure. It is doubtful, for example, whether this carrier would afford even as large a target for enemy air attack as a concentration of nonmovable air bases. Moreover, it is doubtful whether an enemy with limited numbers of atomic bombs would risk wasting several on such an objective, especially since tests have demonstrated that atomic bombs are most effective against naval units when they are huddled together rather than dispersed. The principal vulnerability of the carrier to air assault would be in dive-bomber or kamikaze attacks, which, when used by the Japanese, proved relatively ineffectual. To be sure, the carrier would afford prey for submarine torpedoes; but judging from previous experience it would require several hits to disable the vessel.

The fundamental aim of military preparedness now, as in the past, is to be able to strike back at an enemy with crushing force as quickly as possible. The supercarrier seems to us a useful interim implement for achieving that end. While the Air Force retains its responsibility for delivering the knockout punches, it is only sensible to recognize the Air Force's present limitations and to take whatever other measures are necessary to assure a ready offensive force.

The Home-Rule Issue

Yesterday's action by the Rules Committee assures a vote in the House of Representatives on the most important District bill to come before Congress in three quarters of a century. The House must now squarely face the issue as to whether the Nation's Capital is to be restored to the American commonwealth of self-governing units or kept apart as an underpriviliged and subordinate community of political eunuchs. If the issue is well understood we do not believe that the House will vote to confine 850,000 Americans to the latter status.

In drafting this bill the Auchincloss Subcommittee was guided by three objectives: (1) To relieve Congress of the burdensome housekeeping functions of the District while retaining in Congress the basic control over the Nation's Capital that the Constitution requires. (2) To create a representative local government here. (3) To provide for economical and efficient administration of the local government. Important though it is to relieve Congress of its unnatural load as city council for the District, we do not think this objective is entitled to first place on the list. In the mind of any American who prizes his political heritage it must be subordinate to that greater objective of restoring a democratic system to this vital segment of the Republic. To us it is inconceivable that a legislative body which stands before the world as the foremost voice of democracy could deny the elementary right of suffrage to people living under its sole jurisdiction when the exercise of that right is so carefully and thoughtfully adjusted to our scheme of government as it is in the Auchincloss bill.

The House will not be asked to choose between the democratic principle and an outlandish application of that principle. This measure is expertly devised to give the District the benefits of home rule without in any degree weakening the ultimate authority of Congress over the Capital or departing from sound and workable patterns of government. It would divide the national function of enacting basic legislation for the District from the local function of operating municipal services and shaping larger policies for congressional approval. To facilitate the former task it would create a joint House-Senate Committee on the District. To facilitate the latter task it would set up a well-proportioned, modern council-city manager type of local government tailor-made for this unique city. The District's crazy-quilt pattern of public agencies would be replaced by a departmentalized system with a clear flow of executive authority from a central source. And that source—the city manager—would be at all times under the control of the council directly responsible to the people.

No perfect system of government can be devised by man in a single blueprint. We see defects in the Auchincloss bill and hope that they can be corrected. But these are insignificant beside the great democratic principle that it faithfully embodies and the sound general pattern of local government that it provides. Unless the House permits its judgment to be deflected by petty details, it will be voting on the restoration to Washington of rights that all other American cities enjoy. It will be asked to put its stamp of approval on the best city charter that has ever been devised for the Capital, in addition to relieving itself of a troublesome burden.

Steel Pensions

The steel workers' union has kept its pledge not to strike for wage increases, but it is dickering with the United States Steel Corporation for health and welfare benefits in connection with a general drive to induce the steel industry to finance a comprehensive social insurance program. The union is asking for life insurance policies for employes, retirement policies of $1500 yearly at age 65, sick pay and hospitalization benefits. Furthermore, it wants U. S. Steel to finance the entire cost of the program which would, it is estimated, be equivalent to a wage increase of between 9 and 10 cents per hour per employe. The steel workers are also hoping eventually to obtain monthly pensions of $150 for all retired steel workers that would cost about 13 cents an hour per employe. U. S. Steel has offered to pay half the cost of a less ambitious program embracing life, accident and sickness insurance. The company is prepared to put its plan into effect within the next few months, and negotiations are expected to begin shortly on the issues in question between the company and the union.

The failure of Congress to expand the coverage of the old-age insurance system, to raise benefits above present inadequate levels, and extend the system to embrace health insurance and hospital benefits has given an impetus to union drives for such protection that is quite understandable. Nevertheless, it raises many questions as to the effect on the Government's system of social insurance of the growth of private systems of insurance applicable to particular companies and industries.

Employers in covered industries and their employes now make contributions from payrolls to finance the Federal system of old-age insurance, and employers also contribute to federally supervised State systems of unemployment insurance. In time, we trust, these public systems will expand and their beneficiaries will be given much more adequate protection than they now have to protect them from destitution in old age and other ills to which the flesh is heir. Private pension benefits adding to the costs of social insurance should, therefore, be adjusted with reference to these governmental benefits and be regarded as supplementary payments. Otherwise, opposition to liberalization of the governmental program will surely arise among employers subjected to multiple levies. Pensions, too, will vary widely from industry to industry as private pension systems multiply, some employes obtaining more protection than is essential, while others are likely to encounter increased opposition to reasonable demands for more adequate benefits under the Federal and State systems.

Hence the drive for union security gives rise to problems calling for serious study on the part of legislators. What the country needs is social security for all, not simply for a few strongly organized unions able to obtain extra large benefits that set them apart from their fellow workers as specially privileged segments of the working population.

Threat To Peace

That we have not hitherto commented on the postpartition fighting in Palestine is due to the fact that we don't know what is going on. Nor do the newspaper correspondents on the spot. They are handicapped by propaganda, censorship, and the refusal of both sides to allow eyewitnesses to look at the conflict. But even if a view were vouchsafed, we doubt whether it would be illuminating. At present the only discernible aim is the ambition of Trans-Jordan's King Abdullah to set himself up with British help in Jerusalem. This would enable Abdullah to match the influence of Ibn Saud in Mecca and Medina. In so doing, both Abdullah and the British cannot escape the responsibility of having flouted the truce for Jerusalem and put in jeopardy the General Assembly's recommendation that Jerusalem be set aside as an international enclave.

It is important to bear in mind that all the members of the loose coalition known as the Arab League have similar ambitions. They are far more anxious to annex part of Arab Palestine than to pursue a holy war on Israel. Egypt wants a slice, as do Lebanon, Iraq and Syria, though Abdullah is intent upon staking out the greatest claim. They are at one with the Palestinians themselves in denying the Mufti and his Arab Higher Committee any locus standi. Is this competition for spoils aggression? In time past the British would have been the first to say that the neighbors had no rights in the disposition of Palestine. This they did in 1938 through the mouth of Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, the responsible Minister in London for Palestine. And the authoritative Survey of International Affairs, 1938, edited by Arnold Toynbee, said that the introduction of the Arab states into Palestinian affairs would be a "novelty." Other times, other ideas. When partition was under discussion by the General Assembly, it was taken for granted, largely because of British policy, that the outside Arab states had rights in Palestine. The situation is now complicated by the fact that, thanks to do-nothingness at Lake Success, Arab Palestine is a vacuum.

The question of aggression, then, is an open one, except in those places, the Jews in Arab Acre, the Egyptians in Israel's Tel Aviv, and the Iraqis in eastern Galilee, where the partition lines have been crossed. But beyond any doubt a very serious threat to peace exists. It is extraordinary that at Lake Success Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan should deny such a patent reality. The United Nations is being held up to the same contempt which was visited upon the League of Nations in the case of Ethiopia. The only way it can restore its prestige in the Middle East is to issue a cease-fire order, dispatch at once an emissary of caliber, and slap sanctions onto the nation that refuses to obey.

Safety Drive

At the request of President Truman a national safety drive, headed by officials of the Department of Labor, will soon get under way. The impetus for such a movement is provided by the shocking 1947 record of industrial accidents—17,000 deaths and 2,000,000 injuries. Injuries while on the job are estimated to have cost industry and workers 3750 million dollars while the wage loss alone has greatly exceeded workmen's compensation benefits. The time lost from work because of accidents in 1947 is said to be equivalent to a full year's working time for 150,000 employes.

Much of this material loss and the attendant suffering could undoubtedly be avoided. That is indicated by the low accident rates of some large companies whose employes are engaged in extra-hazardous work that has been made comparatively safe by installation of protective devices and enforcement of safety rules. It is in the smaller plants employing only a few workers that 70 per cent of injuries occur. Consequently one of the main objectives of the safety drive will be to induce the managements of these smaller plants to take steps to reduce the frequency of accidents and to suggest how that can best be done.

In conjection with this campaign the President also urges Congress to make grants to the States for the purpose of expanding their industrial safety work through their own departments of labor. That, too, is essential, for individual employers cannot be expected to keep abreast of the latest developments in the safety field. Moreover, official inspection, official advice and official reminders of shortcomings are needed at frequent intervals to jack up negligent employers and prevent progressive employers from backsliding and adding to the unnecessarily large number of victims of industrial accidents.

Subversive Knowledge

A news report in the New York Herald Tribune of May 18 states that an Oak Ridge scientist has been summoned before a loyalty board and charged with Communist leanings. The anonymous unsworn accusation reads: "A former landlord of yours has reported that in 1943, after you moved from the premises in which you had been residing, certain magazines and pamphlets which may have been left by you have included a copy of the magazine New Masses."

The United States of America was founded, and its Government defended through three major wars, as a Government "by the people." If the people are to govern, and if the people are to defend their Government against subversive elements, either within or without, then the people must have a knowledge of what these subversive elements are doing and how they are doing it.

If the veteran who attends Communist Party rallies to try to find means for stopping Communist infiltration of his veterans' organization; if the union member who reads reports of Communist gains on the labor front in order to try to beat the Communists to the draw in his own union; if the plain citizen who attends the local Communist meetings, reads their publications, or even goes so far as to listen to the Russian broadcasts on the short-wave bands of his radio in order to try to block their activities in his community or his country—if they are to be suspected and investigated because of their activities, then government by the people will have to be taken over by the House Un-American Affairs Committee or by the Attorney General.

Every American citizen who is anti-Communist should attempt to know as much of the activities and methods of the Communists as the Communists know of the activities and methods of the democratic organizations which we value, and which they are trying to take over. Ignorance of the enemy and his tactics never helped win a battle or a war. Ignorance of the Communists and their tactics will not help win the present fight, nor will it help to maintain our democratic institutions. Those to whom we have temporarily entrusted our Government must not be allowed to enforce ignorance.

Health Insurance Plans

The views of several prospective presidential candidates on the vital subject of national health security insurance are a matter of record. It would pay the disgusted taxpayer to challenge all of them.

Candidate Truman advocates complete coverage of the Nation's health needs with compulsory health insurance. The loyal opposition believes such a grandiose beginning will create a bankrupting bureaucracy. Doctors would become indifferent and regimented time servers.

Candidate Taft would limit national health planning to helping indigent and underprivileged groups. He opposes extending Federal domination to traditional matters of personal election and initiative. Candidate Stassen would avoid both the bureaucratic paternalism of Mr. Truman and the subsidized indigency of Senator Taft. He would provide Federal-State help only for those whose hospital and medical expenses exceed $250 in one year. Both the Taft and Stassen proposals invite conspiracy for the ineligible to qualify for Federal aid.

The Taft plan would be subject to expedient political pressures to make the list of beneficiaries more and more inclusive. Discriminating in favor of the have-nots, it lacks the solvent appeal of equal justice.

The Stassen plan would encourage inflation of the trivial and the ordinary into the compensable. It would help the fortunate and secure and penalize those whose economic security is inadequate. The well-to-do would not consider $250 a year as an excessive expenditure for health. But for those in marginal security groups far less than $250 a year in doctor's and hospital bills is financial tragedy.

Both Republican candidates mistake national health security insurance for a cost-of-living adjustment or subsidy. They propose to insure an adverse economic status rather than the bankrupting health hazard which all too frequently causes or aggravates it. The minimal requirements of adequate treatments are identical for all. If you insure the health hazard rather than the person's economic status you will eliminate the inevitable conspiracy of the ineligible to qualify for benefits.

"University Women"

I do not agree with the point of view expressed in the editorial of May 11, "University Women." To my way of thinking, the exclusion of an entire branch from membership in the American Association of University Women is too drastic an action to be taken by the national board on its own initiative.

The national board can function effectively only when it carries out the will of the individual members, as expressed through the local branches. The board exceeds its authority when it takes upon itself the right to decide for the members the stand they should take.

Peace Disappointment

I wonder if it is as widely recognized as it should be in the United States that Europe recently had its hopes for peace raised high only to have them quickly dashed again. The offer of Ambassador Smith and its quick acceptance by the Soviets gave people on this side of the water a real sense of exhilaration and relief.

After traveling during the past two months over the continent from Warsaw to Prague to Vienna to Frankfurt to Berlin to Geneva to Paris to London, I feel safe in saying that peace is longed for in all these places even more than bread or dollars. Living in semi-ruins, Europeans know that another war can only mean total destruction.

Against this background came the news of the exchange between Ambassador Smith and Mr. Molotov. On this side of the water the move was greeted almost universally with something akin to acclaim. To be sure the hard realities of diplomatic protocol have turned back the clock. But underneath the current disappointment one can almost feel the pulse of Europe beating a refrain of hope that this temporary release may be the portent of deeper forces working toward sanity and humanity.

As one member of Parliament, in private conversation put it: "We must keep trying and not be rebuffed by any lack of diplomatic niceties or legal technicalities until we reach a lasting peace. These things are too vital to be obstructed by a false sense of dignity."

Taxi Horn Tooters

A great deal of gasoline could be conserved if taxicab operators were required to use two horns and dispense with the use of gasoline. As driver of my own car, I'm convinced that taxi drivers now use half gas and half horn. The extra horn would save the fuel now consumed by cabs.

What has become of the ordinance against unnecessary horn tooting?

Railroad Antitrust Exemption

I suppose many small businessmen will read with great interest the story as to the action of the House of Representatives in approving the Reed-Bulwinkle bill on May 11.

It may be found that this is the first time in the history of the Sherman-Clayton Acts that Congress has given the railroads the legal sanction to get together and fix rates, bypassing the anti-monopoly laws.

The proponents of the bill in the House debate cited the actions of the Congress in permitting by-passing or suspension of anti-monopoly laws to the maritime industry and the aviation industry. It may be found that one of the contributing reasons for the exemption given to the maritime industry shortly after World War I was the fact that American shipping companies were competing with foreign shipping companies that were being subsidized. In the late thirties the Congress gave an exemption to the aviation industry, due no doubt to the fact that the industry was in an experimental stage and to popularize the use of aviation both for passenger and freight services.

It is a safe conclusion that the actions of the Congress in voting the Reed-Bulwinkle bill will not result in any benefits to the American public. This bill will not bring about lower transportation and freight rates, nor will it bring about better service to the American public. It will result in a pattern being set and opening the door for any other major industry to come in and ask Congress for the same relief as the railroads have asked for, to be exempt from the antimonopoly laws.

The railroads have stated in substance the reason for the need for this legislation was to prevent chaos in their industry. In a decision of a lower Federal court here within the District within the past 30 days, in which the Government instituted suit against another industry, the defense did not hide its plea why it acted collectively. As stated, it was to set the prices and to destroy price cutters.

The National Federation of Small Business vigorously opposed the Reed-Bulwinkle bill, not because the Federation and its members had any grievance with the railroads, but on the basic principle that there were to be no exemptions to any industry in anti-monopoly laws no matter what the cause. If free competition is to be maintained within our Nation's economy, and small business is to be preserved as an important part of our Nation's economy, anti-trust laws today, more than ever, should be vigorously enforced without fear or favor.

With the recent decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court in the Cement Institute case, the moving picture industry, the Morton Salt case and just a few days ago the beet sugar case, it is difficult to reconcile the action of the Congress in approving the Reed-Bulwinkle bill.

Washington Calling

Banning Communism

IN THE aftermath of World War I, the country adopted prohibition. Alcohol used in excess was a proved evil and therefore it should be abolished by law.

In the aftermath of World War II, Congress proposes to abolish the political evil of communism by passing a law or several laws. For it is clear that the Mundt bill is only the beginning of a drive to legislate communism out of existence.

This reflects something deep in the American character—"There oughta be a law." It looks so simple. The abuse of alcohol causes a waste of resources and incalculable social harm; therefore, prohibit it by legislative fiat.

We fail to realize that deep-rooted social evils cannot be eradicated by a law. We fail, too, to realize that the consequences of such a law may be more disastrous than the evil it was meant to cure. We saw that in the case of prohibition. In my opinion, the effort to wipe out communism by legislative fiat would have even more serious consequences.

It is interesting that the present drive has in large measure the same origin as the drive for prohibition had. It comes from rural America, from the Middle West, from the region broadly described by H. L. Mencken as the Bible Belt.

REPRESENTATIVE KARL MUNDT is a former South Dakota school teacher. Hard-working, ambitious, he believes sincerely in the American virtues of self-help, free enterprise.

Along with his conversion to the necessity for America to assume a leading role in the world, he has learned a little about the Communist movement and its conspiratorial plot to bring about Communist domination in every country. Communists are plotters who defy the laws of man and God. They are often of foreign origin; they live in cities.

Mundt honestly believes that the evil represented by these plotters can be abolished by law. Besides, it is a popular political issue, and he is running for the Senate, with a good chance to step up from the lower chamber to the upper.

The political angle has been perfectly illustrated in the Oregon primary contest between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Harold Stassen. With shrewd opportunism, Stassen has attacked New York City as a center of communism, pointing out that 40 Communist organizations are listed in the New York telephone directory.

Stassen long since learned that rural and small-town audiences invariably applaud his demand that the Communist Party be outlawed. In his recent debate with Dewey, he declared that the Mundt bill would outlaw the party. The authors of the bill deny this.

IN DISCUSSING the bill with Mundt, I pointed out the parallel between the effort to eradicate the sin of alcohol by the prohibition law and the effort to wipe out the political sin of communism by passing laws. He came back with this:

"What our bill does is to say you can't put a screen in front of a saloon. A saloon must be publicly labeled a saloon. This is all we are doing."

That is a shrewd answer. But the fact remains that laws to label saloons as a public evil were merely one step in the drive of those seeking to abolish the evil by law.

A few courageous members of the House — John Carroll of Colorado, Jacob Javits of New York, Chet Holifield of California — pointed out in the House debate that communism can take hold in America only if there are grave social maladjustments and a mounting sense of injustice. They pointed out that there are laws now on the books to safeguard the country from plotters if those laws are only properly enforced.

"It is significant," Carroll said, "that those who cry the loudest about the threat and danger of communism do the least to present a constructive program with which to cut the ground out from under those who advocate communism."

He was referring, of course, to the fact that a little group of leaders in the House have persistently blocked even the mild Taft housing bill and every other form of social legislation intended to relieve some of the pressures of this period of inflation. The Congress, as a following article will show, has even dealt meagerly and penuriously with the safeguards intended to protect American security.

Segregation's Hurt

Last week Dr. William Jansen, superintendent of schools in New York City, and William J. Gottlieb, president of the American Automobile Club of New York, were forced to cancel a Washington sightseeing tour for 51 outstanding New York schoolboys because of antidemocratic racial practices in Washington.

The bright lads who were to have visited their Nation's Capital ranged from 8 to the impressionable age of 14 years. They were chosen officially as high caliber school safety patrolmen by New York's public and parochial schools. For two weeks the automobile club tried to obtain hotel reservations, but without success. Four Negro youths were among the boys who were to have visited Washington.

It is time for loyal Americans to act for their own self-interest. It is time for us to set an unquestionable example of real, lasting democracy in Washington, D. C., for ourselves and 51 million of our youth. Our failure to act now foredooms our Nation to fall as an easy victim to alien Communist forces.

British In Palestine

From the Times of London

By L. S. Amery

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following letter to the Times of London, originally published May 14, a British Conservative statesman appraises the recent policy of the British government toward Palestine. Mr. Amery served as Parliamentary Undersecretary for the Colonies from 1919 to 1921 and later, successively, as Secretary of State for the Colonies and Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs.

IN A FEW hours we shall have formally abandoned the last remnant of responsibility for the peace of Palestine, for the preservation of the Holy Places, and for the fulfillment of the policy which we undertook with such high hopes 30 years ago. May I, as one who was closely in touch with the initiation of that policy and was for many years directly concerned with its administration, say something as to what that policy was intended to achieve and did, in fact, achieve?

The immediate object of that policy was, on the one hand, to meet the age-long aspiration of the Jews for a national home in Palestine and, on the other, to deal with the immediate need of the unassimilated Jewish masses in central and eastern Europe whose plight, even then unhappy, was soon to become desperate. It was equally our hope that Jewish energy and enterprise would make its contribution to the regeneration of the whole Middle East. Lastly, we believed that a prosperous Palestine would afford us a secure base, both of moral authority and of military power, in a region of the world in which we were, and are, vitally interested.

IT WAS in its combination of idealism and practical interest, a typically British policy. Anyhow, wise or mistaken, it was from first to last our own policy. We issued the Balfour Declaration. We, in substance, drafted the mandate. We interpreted it as it suited us, even to the extent in 1939 of going back on its obvious purpose. The mandate, as such, was never more than a facade of international approval for a British policy carried out by a British administration. To talk of handing back a task imposed on us by international authority which we have tried to fulfill to the best of our ability is sheer self-deception.

Our policy brought prosperity to all the inhabitants of Palestine. The Arab population multiplied exceedingly on a standard of life higher than it had ever known. For hundreds of thousands of Jews it meant escape from the unimaginable horrors of the death camps to free and full life. Today Palestine is the one country to which the broken remnants of the great massacre look for their salvation. In our own difficulties with Egypt it might indeed, at this moment be affording us an indispensable base on our line of communications eastward. In many respects, indeed, we built better than we knew when we began.

ON THE other hand, we had undoubtedly underrated the difficulties created by the growing intensity of Arab nationalist sentiment. The hopes we had once entertained of creating a common Palestinian patriotism faded out. The Royal Commission of 1936, the most authoritative and impartial body ever sent out to Palestine, recommended partition as the solution which could most nearly satisfy the aspirations of both sides.

Since then the growing bitterness of feeling has made it the inevitable solution. The only question was whether it was to be by civil war or by acquiesence in the decision of an impartial authority sustained by adequate force. To have enforced partition after the war would, no doubt, have been difficult, though far less difficult than what we have been trying to do since. We should, at any rate, have fulfilled, even if in a modified form, the task to which we had set ourselves, and could have left, or remained under treaty, respected by both sides.

As it is, we decamp ignominiously amid carnage and confusion after nearly three years have been wasted by the government in the make-believe of inviting from an Anglo-American committee, and then from the United Nations, recommendations which, as the event showed, they had no intention of carrying out or even helping to carry out. No sane person can ever have expected the United Nations, even if they might agree on a recommendation, to be capable of enforcing it. At most they might have provided us with a modicum of physical reinforcement, as well as of moral authority, in carrying it out ourselves.

There can be no excuse for the fanatical Jewish miscreants who have murdered our men. Nor can the Jewish Agency be absolved of half-heartedness in its dealing with a form of crime that could only bring discredit upon the cause which it exists to serve. But history is not likely to see in these matters sufficient reason for acquiring His Majesty's government of the major crime of handing over the innocent mass of the people of Palestine—Arabs and Jews—to the horrors of civil war, and of deliberately inviting the destruction of an achievement of which we had every reason to be proud. Complete destruction may, indeed, be averted by the unaided courage and determination of the Jews in defense of the regions which they have themselves developed and in an early settlement by statesmanship on both sides. But, if so, it will not be thanks to Mr. Bevin and his colleagues.

Health Dept. To Get Clinic For Alcoholics

The District Board of Commissioners overruled its citizens advisory committee and ordered the city's alcoholic clinic set up under the Department of Health.

The six-member advisory committee, headed by Col. E. Goring Bliss, recommended January 29 that the clinic should be set up independently with a $10,000-a-year director responsible directly to the Commissioners.

The city heads said they "see no reason why a new agency, created to deal with a particular disease, should not form a part of the department which deals with all diseases."

Get Little Supervision

"The effect of multiplying second level organizations is that they get little supervision from the Commissioners (who have no time to give it) and no supervision from anyone else," they declared.

This "whole question" was covered, they pointed out, by the Auchincloss Home Rule Committee. In a parenthetical paragraph, they added: "The executive head proposed in the Auchincloss report was a city manager; but as long as the Board of Commissioners remains in existence, it must fulfill the functions of a city manager."

The arguments against making the clinic part of the Health Department will be "met" by making the citizens' committee a permanent advisory group, they said.

Would Discuss Policy

As such, the committee would participate in selecting a director, meet periodically to discuss "general policy," and invite three doctors from the District of Columbia Medical Society to advise on treatment and hospitalization for alcoholics, they said.

Commissioner Guy Mason said "we hope present committee members will serve and we invite them to serve." The committee would keep the clinic "on its toes," he added.

Chairman Bliss said he planned to remain as chairman of the permanent committee. While the Rev. Seth R. Brooks, a member of the committee, said he didn't know if he would continue to serve.

Coordination of the clinic with such Health Department agencies as Gallinger Hospital and the Mental Hygiene Service will be needed, the Commissioners said.

Baptists Like Court Ruling On Education

Memphis, Tenn., May 20 (AP).—The Southern Baptist Convention today indorsed a Supreme Court decision against religious education in public schools and repeated its opposition to a United States Ambassador to the Vatican.

By voice vote without opposition, the 103-year-old religious body approved a report on the subject by the committee on public relations, supported by four Baptist conventions, including the Southern group.

The Rev. J. M. Dawson of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the committee, drew applause when he told the convention that Congress should forbid an Ambassador to the Vatican.

Convention President Louis Newton added that Congress has never acted on the matter, but that if it did "Mr. (Myron) Taylor would be coming home on the first ship."

Dawson hailed the Supreme Court decision on religious education as "as vast contribution to religious liberty." He said most religous instruction on released time in public schools of the Nation has been conducted by Catholics.

The Rev. Robert G. Lee of Memphis, was elected president of the convention tonight. He defeated the Rev. John H. Buchanan of Birmingham, Ala.

Walter Pope Binns, president of William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo., said Baptists must "steadfastly refuse to accept Government grants for the support of any of our Baptist institutions."

Earlier, the convention voted that October 17 be designated "enlistment day" when all Southern Baptists will be asked to pledge a tithe (10 per cent) of their income to their churches.

A net increase of 265,781 in Sunday school enrollment was reported, bringing the total to more than four million.

The Southern convention amended its constitution today to ban messengers (delegates) not "sympathetic with its purposes and work."

The action was interpreted as a move against Dr. J. Frank Norris, Fundamentalist pastor of the First Baptist Church, Fort Worth, Texas, and a frequent critic of the convention.

Virginia Wins Traffic Safety Contest Award With 3 Firsts

Norfolk, Va., May 20 (AP).—Virginia received a traffic safety award today from the National Safety Council.

It was presented at the opening session of the annual Virginia State-wide Safety Conference by Earl Campbell, assistant to the president of the National Safety Council.

Pyke Johnson, president of the Automotive Safety Foundation, in an address before the presentation of the award noted that among the 14 States in the national traffic safety contest's southern division, Virginia ranked first in accident records, first in engineering and tied with Texas for first in safety organization.

He congratulated Governor Tuck on the success of the highway safety program.

In the Southern division contest, Johnson said Virginia was graded second in enforcement, driver licensing and public information; third in school safety; fourth in death record and fifth in legislation.

"Translated into tangibles," he said, Virginia's safety efforts last year saved the lives of 139 of its people in traffic. "Your State traffic death toll of 711 persons last year was 16 per cent lower than that in 1946 and represented a drop of 36 per cent from the deaths in 1941."

Matter Of Fact

Barnstormer Dewey

PORTLAND, OREG.—As this bitter Oregon primary draws to a close, it must at least be said that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has made a remarkable fight for his political life. A month ago, no one doubted that Harold E. Stassen had about 60 per cent of the Republican vote in Oregon safely in the bag. Now, the sound of whistling in the dark may be heard in the Stassen camp, while Dewey's entourage exudes sober confidence.

The voting must be left to provide the final test, since calling the turn of primaries is about as wise as betting on obscure claiming races. Meanwhile, however, it is important that these weeks of barnstorming up and down this incredibly beautiful State have revealed a new Dewey.

Dewey is preeminently a man who has grown with experience — preferably hard experience. He started his career with great abilities, intense ambition, a chilly personality and a collection of copybook maxims as his only key to the inwardness of other people. He always knew what he wanted — as long ago as 1938, he refused $150,000 a year and a partnership in John Foster Dulles' law firm in order to stay in politics.

Dewey's real trouble was that he wanted what he wanted rather too intensively. A fish, peering upward through the water, sees what is on the bank as a mere pattern of light and dark. Dewey, peering at other people through the medium of his ambition, seemed to see all other human beings simply as stepping stones or obstacles.

To be regarded as simply a stepping stone is on the whole unendearing. This was the epoch of Mrs. Kenneth Simpson's famous witticism, "You really have to know Tom Dewey to dislike him," which was not quite accurate because those closest to him, his personal staff, have always been devoted to him. Nonetheless, Mrs. Simpson shrewdly hit upon Dewey's greatest difficulty, that most people having dealings with him did not take to him very warmly.

IN THE course of his upward climb, however, Dewey has by now had the cup of victory three times dashed from his thirsty lips—in his first race for the New York governorship, in his first bid for the Republican nomination, and in the presidential race in 1944. With each reverse, he learned something and grew a little. He is still able to do so. Wisconsin and Nebraska knocked the stuffings out of the slightly phony dignity, the pose of being the Republican Party's obvious candidate, which he had adopted in preparation for 1948. Again he learned and grew.

After Nebraska, he was ruined unless he could recoup in Oregon. There was a melancholy Dewey council of war in New York, and his political alter ego, Paul Lockwood, flew at once to Portland. His first report was sheer, unalloyed gloom. Dewey has the dislike of the neatest boy in school for rough and tumble. But he immediately followed Lockwood across the continent, to carry his fight for the Republican nomination into Oregon's remotest hamlets.

The spectacle of Dewey the barnstormer has its charming, its comic and even its stirring sides. The charm, it must hastily be added, derives from the general scene—the curiosity confidence-inspiring crowds of plain Americans, gathered in the plain little towns to hear the candidate, with the almost melodramatic splendor of Oregon scenery soaring up behind the last small wooden house.

The comedy is provided by Dewey, wonderfully good humored but clearly working at it, being initiated as a caveman, wearing a funny green hat as a member of a boosters' group, and showing glowing gratitude for gifts of sadly uncontrolled live calves, damp boxes of razor clams and huge, terrifying slippery Pacific Coast salmon.

But the comedy is not the point. Like Stassen's, Dewey's speeches have all been the same speech, with the same tried and true campaigning ingredients. They have had their embarrassing moments, as when he seeks to show his familiarity with foreign affairs by speaking, in effect, of "mo, Winston Churchill and other rulers." But they have been good speeches all the same. They have gone over big. And Dewey has regularly got his warmest applause when he most deserved it.

NO ONE can deny that a folksy Dewey is a new Dewey. A good many people would add that a Dewey with no tendency to straddle big issues is also a new Dewey. When he came out here, he had to meet the issue of Stassen's repeated proposal to suppress the Communist Party, with all that this proposal involved of appeal to prejudice and easy emotion. Dewey met the issue head on, by making the Bill of Rights his rallying cry. In these years of the locust and J. Parnell Thomas, it is pretty stirring to hear a Republican leader say what Dewey has been saying:

"Prosecute a man for any crime he commits, but never for what he believes. That's the American rule. You can come here to listen to me, or to a Democrat, or to Henry Wallace, or to any other crackpot. That's the American way." For all the touch of soap opera in Dewey's oratory, the point drives home. By the beginning of this final week of the campaign, Dewey had done what all the political professionals considered impossible — backed Stassen into a corner on his favorite issue and forced him to modify his stand. The achievement was a major public service.

For an obvious reason, it is reassuring to be able to report that this hard-driving, remarkably competent but sometimes rather inhuman Governor is still growing as a man and as a leader. For if the confidence of Dewey's staff is justified by the voters, the results will be dramatic. The Stassen bandwagon will grind to a quick stop. The Dewey bandwagon will recover its momentum. Dewey will again be the front-running candidate for the Republican nomination if his Oregon effort pays off.

Senate Votes Seating of O'Conor

The Senate yesterday approved a resolution affirming the right of Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D., Md.) to his Senate seat.

The action ended a long investigation of charges by O'Conor's Republican opponent in last year's election, D. John Markey. Markey maintained that O'Conor's election resulted from miscounts and voting place irregularities.

The Senate Rules Committee earlier approved finding that O'Conor was duly elected. The Senate action yesterday closed the dispute.

Union Shop Voted

The National Labor Relations Board reported yesterday that employes of the M. P. Moller Organ Company of Hagerstown, Md., voted 339 to 2 in favor of a union shop in a recent election.

Charter Plan Suit Starts

Legality of the proposed Montgomery County charter, a bitter political issue for years, was challenged yesterday during a day-long hearing in County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md.

Whether the suit which seeks a court order preventing the charter from being placed on the ballot this fall will be successful was still unknown. A battery of lawyers was unable to conclude argument and the case was continued until June 14.

Plaintiff in the suit is Attorney Hubert A. Schneider, who contends the charter is unconstitutional because some of its financial provisions conflict with the State constitution.

Charter supporters argued heatedly that there is no conflict between the two and Schneider had failed to show why the proposed charter form of county government should not be voted on in November.

They further contend that the board of election supervisors is required by law to place the charter issue on the ballot and that Circuit Court has no authority in the matter as the charter is not yet a law and will not be until it is approved by referendum.

Arguing for Schneider, Attorney David Betts said the court does not have authority to stop the referendum because the charter board did not conform to a constitutional mandate in drawing up the fiscal provisions of the document.

Lawyers who represented the elections board were Albert E. Conradis, Carey E. Quinn and Frederick P. Lee. Defending the charter board was James Hayden, Allen H. Gardner and Thomas Kelley spoke for the charter committee.

The charter board is a five-man group elected by the voters in 1946 to draw up the charter and the charter committee is a civic group backing the movement for a new form of government.

Rise in Oleomargarine Price Indicated

By The Associated Press

The Nation's largest maker of oleomargarine reported yesterday it may have to raise prices 10 to 15 per cent if a shortage of cottonseed oil continues.

Andresen

Benjamin F. Nelson, vice president of Best Foods, Inc., gave the report to a House investigating committee. He said the company is now selling packaged margarine at less than the cost of the crude oil from which it is made.

Chairman Andresen (R., Minn.) promptly suggested that the company is keeping its prices down only until a bill to repeal Federal taxes on oleo has gone through Congress.

The tax-repeal measure already has passed the House and is pending in the Senate.

"You are now selling your oleomargarine at 43 cents a pound when you should be selling it at 55 cents, on the basis of what you pay for the raw material," Andresen said. "I think housewives are entitled to know the answer."

Andresen said bluntly that Best Foods "spearheaded" the margarine tax-repeal drive and contributed "quite a sum."

"You generated housewife opinion and put the pressure on Congress to repeal the taxes," he said.

Andresen himself led a bloc of Northern dairy farmers in an unsuccessful fight to prevent House passage of the repeal bill, which set off a bitter clash between butter producers and Southern growers of cottonseed.

The Minnesota legislator has charged that Best Foods and Proctor & Gamble, another large buyer of cottonseed oil, put a "squeeze" on the price of cottonseed oil by cornering the May market in the crude oil.

Nelson agreed that Best Foods would make a net profit of $216,000 if it sold all the oil it bought in April and early May, but he said the company needs the oil for its own use.

Floyd M. Barnes, vice president of Proctor & Gamble told the committee Tuesday his firm bought 47 tank carloads of oil from March 14 to April 20. He said it was purchased for the company's use but 10 carloads were sold, at the request of the New York Produce Exchange, to ease the general shortage.

Barnes estimated the company made a net profit of a cent a pound or a total of $6000, on the 600,000 pounds involved in the 10-carload deal.

The Federal Diary

Group Bolts UPWA To Form Own Union Of Federal Workers

A split developed in the CIO's United Public Workers yesterday as that left-wing union closed its Atlantic City convention.

The group that seceded promised to support the policies of the National CIO. It accused the UPWA of following the foreign and domestic policies of the Wallace third party. It calls itself the Government Workers Organizing Committee.

Two local Federal workers were elected as cochairmen of the new union. They are: Morton Liftin, a Justice Department attorney, and William Miringoff, an employe of the United States Employment Service. A nine-man executive board also was elected to represent all sections of the country.

In a statement, the new organization charged:

That the UPWA convention was nothing more than a sounding board for the Wallace third party;

That the UPWA had ceased to function as a democratic union, and,

That UPWA's left-wing policies had made it impossible for it to organize the great mass of unorganized Government workers.

A spokesman said:

"We have received definite assurances that we will find a home in the CIO." There is speculation that the new union will be affiliated eventually with a right-wing CIO union.

The spokesman also predicted that the new union would take a minimum of 10,000 members from UPWA. UPWA claims 85,000 members in State, county, city, and Federal employes. Its officials are confident of keeping them.

Earlier yesterday, the UPWA shook up its leadership, dropping six vice presidents, but reelecting Abram Flaxer of New York as president. Ewart Guinier of New York was elected secretary-treasurer; Roy Eldean, a Chicago post office clerk, was elected vice president, and Robert Weinstein, also of New York, was retained as director of organization.

Flaxer said the shake-up meant nothing more than an economy move as the six vice presidents were paid $5500 a year each. On the other hand, there was a report that the leadership streamlining would pave the way for signing of anti-Communist affidavits if the Keefe rider becomes law. However, Flaxer told the Associated Press:

"I have no intention of changing my position about signing the affidavit." Earlier he said he opposed signing as a matter of principle.

PEOPLE: Treasury Undersecretary A. Lee M. Wiggins says he plans to resign soon. No definite date for his leaving has been set. Wiggins accepted the post on the condition that he would serve no more than two years . . . Delos Rensel will be sworn in as Civil Aeronautics chief on June 1. Deputy Commissioner Fred Lee will remain. He won't resign as has been reported . . . Edward J. Hickey, jr., has resigned from Justice's Anti-Trust Division to open up a law office here . . . James J. Saxon, a special assistant to the Treasury Secretary, has taken over the department's information division.

USES: A subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee is reported to have agreed tentatively to reject the House-approved rider which would force the transfer of the United States Employment Service to the Federal Security Agency as of July 1. The rider also would merge USES with FSA's Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. The subcommittee is reported to have taken the view that any reorganization of FSA and the Labor Department should await the report on the Hoover Committee.

AGRICULTURE: Senator Chavez (D., N. Mex.) last night told Agriculture's professional employes that the Government should be able to compete with industry by paying equal salaries for professional and technical talent. He suggested the recreation of the Reed Committee which made a study several years ago of what was happening to professional employes in Government.

The Senator paid a tribute to the loyalty of Federal workers. However, he said loyalty problems should be left with the President and Congress should not try to decide who was disloyal. He indorsed promotions from within and a training program for Government workers.

RETIREMENT: The House Civil Service Committee yesterday okayed the Hagen bill which would permit the retirement at 50 after 20 years of service of several thousand additional Federal workers.

The measure would cover employes who investigate, apprehend and detain criminals. In the group would be Treasury, Postoffice, Customs and Immigration and Naturalization agents, prison guards and White House police, among others.

POSTOFFICE: The committee also approved a bill which would create a research and development division in the Postoffice Department. It suggested an annual appropriation of $100,000 for it . . . The committee told the department that it had ample authority to pay postal employes outside of this country a 25-per-cent wage differential. The department agrees and higher salaries for those employes will be ordered.

PAY REPORT: This is the day the House and Senate pay-raise subcommittees are again supposed to meet on the Federal employe pay-raise problem.

Meantime, House Speaker Joseph Martin issued a statement in which he promised action on the postal pay bill before Congress adjourns. His statement, which he gave to William Doherty, president of the AFL's National Association of Letter Carriers, said in part:

"I have made definite arrangement to confer with Senator Taft early next week. There is every indication that an agreement as to procedure will be reached at that time. Postal workers are entitled to an upward wage revision in line with the higher cost of living. Simple justice demands that this merited legislation be enacted before the current Congress adjourns."

That's fine, but what about the many other Federal workers, Mr. Speaker? The cost of living affects them, too.

Trade Board Seeks to Join Services Unit

Successor to Chest Hails Action and Urges Other Groups to Follow

First of outside community organizations to respond to the invitation, the Washington Board of Trade has applied for membership in the new United Community Services of Washington.

President Leon Chatelain, jr., and Col. William H. Press, executive secretary, have been named by the board's directors to serve on the general assembly, it was announced yesterday. Chatelain also will serve on the board of trustees.

"The Board of Trade is impressed with the breadth and variety of opportunity for community participation in the new United Community Services plan," Chatelain said. "We have every confidence that the early affiliation of major civic and citizen groups in Washington will strengthen the entire health, welfare and recreation program of the city."

William J. McManus, chairman of the interim committee which is setting up the new agency—to take over the job now done by both the Community Chest of Washington and the Council of Social Agencies—hailed the board's action and announced that he is "anxious" to receive applications from other organizations.

"To be successful, the new plan must have the early participation of civic, business, labor and citizens organizations to assure wide representation of the entire community life of Washington," he declared. "Without that participation, the United Community Services may be merely the Chest and Council under a new name."

Board of Trade President Chatelain pointed out that the organization, "itself a central expression of community-wide interest, does not ordinarily affiliate in other combined activities. In this instance . . . however, it is our feeling that our 8000 members have an important stake in the community services available to their members, families and friends.

"We commend the United Community Services to the warm and wholehearted support and interest of our members and the community of Washington," he added.

United Community Services will be the Washington member of the Community Chest Federation and the latter organization will handle fund-raising activities, as it has in the past, for the Greater Washington area.

Veterans' Unit Favors Wainwright as Head

Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan and Corregidor, has been indorsed by National Service Chapter No. 9, Disabled American Veterans, as a candidate for DAV national commander.

Chapter Commander Chester A. Cash, who announced the action, said his group will ask all Washington Department chapters of DAV to support General Wainwright at the DAV national convention at New York next August.

As Loyalty Basis

D. C. to Check 'Sensitivity' Of Positions

The Commissioners announced yesterday they will ask District department heads to list jobs and installations considered "sensitive" to national security from an employe loyalty standpoint.

Basis for determining "sensitive" posts was kept a closely guarded secret. The Commissioners' loyalty committee recommended that the survey of jobs and installations be handled by department heads.

The committee suggested that all three Commissioners have department heads use a set of criteria drawn up by Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young in a confidential memorandum April 30, The Washington Post learned.

General Young, questioned about the memorandum by a reporter, said: "How did you find out about that?" He flatly refused to discuss the memorandum. "I have nothing to say on the subject of loyalty," he declared.

Special Assistant Corporation Counsel Daniel B. Maher, chairman of the loyalty committee, also declined to talk about the memorandum. "It's marked confidential to me and that's the way it is," he said.

The Commissioners revealed no definite plan for contacting department heads, saying each would handle the matter in his own way. Commissioner Guy Mason indicated he will discuss the check on "sensitive" posts personally with heads of departments under his administrative control.

"I will have a meeting as soon as I can get to it," he said.

Heads of 19 key District government departments, checked by The Washington Post April 26, gave their employes a clean bill of health and declared they had no loyalty problem.

The Commissioners' loyalty committee on April 29 recommended against a general loyalty check of all District employes for the present but suggested the survey determine if any city jobs or installations could be considered "sensitive" to national security.

Judge A. M. Hood Renominated For Appeals Court

President Truman yesterday sent to the Senate his nomination of Associate Judge Andrew McCaughrin Hood for a new six-year term on the Municipal Court of Appeals.

Judge Hood

Judge Hood has been a member of the Appeals Court since it was set up in 1942.

A native of Anderson, S. C., he came to Washington in 1921, and studied law at Georgetown University. He practiced general civil law here from 1924 until he went on the bench. He lives at 4602 Fessenden st. nw.

D. C. Officials To Testify Today In Budget Hearing

District officials are slated to be the first witnesses in Senate hearings on the 101-million-dollar city budget starting at 10 a. m. today in room 82 B in the Capitol. Officials and citizens will be heard by a subcommittee headed by Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho).

At the same time, the Senate District Committe is slated to meet in executive session to act on the proposed Armory control bill and other District measures.

In the House District Committee, a subcommittee headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.), is slated to hear testimony starting at 10 a. m. on the proposal to authorize direct admissions of chronic mental patients to St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Transit Case On County Fares Argued

PSC Right to Fix Lower Rates for Children Denied By Capital Firm

Capital Transit Company and the Maryland Public Service Commission were back in court yesterday, arguing the question of reduced fare rates for school children in nearby Maryland.

The dispute, launched last December when the transit comapny proposed a fare increase in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, revolves around a PSC order granting the increase—on condition that the company provides 3-cent-a-zone tickets or tokens for school children.

Judge F. Conwell Smith of Baltimore City Circuit Court, who issued restraining orders against both disputants on May 3, ordering them to settle the issue, yesterday took the case under advisement after no agreement was reached.

The fare increase involved would set a 5-cent fare for each 1½-mile zone in the two counties, because of a $586,154 loss reported by the company last year.

The commission, on April 22, approved the general rate increase, but stipulated the special rate for school children.

S. Ralph Warnken, counsel for the PSC, said yesterday there is no evidence the lower school fares would result in a great loss to the company, and said the PSC had a right to insist on them.

"This case has resolved itself into whether the PSC has authority to fix rates for school children lower than those for adults," he said, citing numerous cases that he said gives the PSC such power.

But Clarence W. Miles, attorney for the company, characterized this position as "the most amazing administrative procedure I've ever seen."

"This in essence," he declared, "is what the commission has told us: 'We admit the logical thing to do is increase your fares because you are losing money. To talk about an adequate return in revenue is academic. But if you don't let these school children ride at special rates, then the old rates under which you operate are just and reasonable!"

Judge Smith said he would be influenced by figures showing the proportion of school children to regular passengers. He noted there were no such figures for Montgomery County.

House Gets Bill To Speed Pay on D. C. Contracts

House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) yesterday introduced a bill to let the Commissioners speed up payments to construction contractors.

The Commissioners requested that the bill be enacted. Under present law, the District has to hold back 10 per cent of each cash payment due a contractor until the entire project is completed. The bill would give them discretion when a construction project is at least half finished to make the later payments in full, without holding back a percentage. In addition, when one contract covers several projects with a stated price for each, the bill would let the Commissioners pay for each project in full as it is finished.

Views Clash On Optometry Bill for D. C.

Backers Call Measure Protection to Public, Foes Fear 'Monopoly'

Sharp conflict developed yesterday in a Senate hearing on a House-approved bill to revise the District's law for regulating optometrists.

The hearing subcommittee, headed by Senator John S. Cooper (R., Ky.), heard District officials and several optometrists urge approval of new regulatory legislation.

Two witnesses spoke against the bill, and several others, including a representative of the District Medical Society, served notice they would do the same when the hearing resumes, probably in a night session next week.

Backers of the bill said it would better protect the public against faulty glasses and high-pressure selling tactics. Opponents said the bill would take away from the public the protection against high prices now given by competition and would pave the way for a monopoly by private optometrists.

Among witnesses for the bill were Assistant District Corporation Counsel Irving Bryan; Dr. Rex Sheley, vice chairman of the District Board of Optometry; Dr. Evart Warren, president of the District Optometric Association; Dr. Joseph Babcock of the American Optometric Association; Dr. William Ezell, past president of the American Optometric Association, and Dr. Bernard Kanstoroom, a District optometrist.

Opposing the bill were Dr. Leon Weintrob, vice president of the National Retail Optical Association, and Robert Rosenberg, both representing a Harrisburg, Pa., firm that operates optometry offices in a number of stores through the country, including a Washington department store.

'Jail of No Use'

Get Treated, Court Bids Ill Woman

A Washington woman yesterday drew a six months' suspended sentence in Arlington County Court and was ordered to place herself under treatment for an active case of tuberculosis.

She was Mrs. Anna Mae Turner, 32, of 737 24th st. nw., charged with failure to follow precautions for prevention of TB as required by the Arlington Health Department, which brought the complaint.

According to the Health Department, Mrs. Turner, despite her infectious disease, had been working cleaning up several apartments in Arlington's Arne Valley area. A four-weeks'-old baby lives in one of the apartments, they added.

In imposing the suspended sentence, Judge Hugh Reid said jail would be "no solution" for her problem.

He made the suspension dependent on Mrs. Turner's cooperation with the Health Department and "acceptance of hospitalization if and when available."

The Health Department said they had been working on the woman's case for 12 months. In May, 1947, they said, Mrs. Turner had been sent to the Burkeville, Va. State Hospital for treatment but had left in three weeks against doctors' orders.

Arraignment of Albert Sheldon, 46, landlord charged with shooting a tenant in an argument over back rent and an eviction notice, yesterday was continued in Municipal Court.

United States Attorney Andrew J. Howard, jr., requested continuance pending recovery of the tenant, Arthur Bradshaw, 30, of 934 I st. nw. He was reported in "satisfactory" condition, with a bullet wound in his right hip, at Mt. Alto Hospital.

16 Trailer Families Told to Move

The Washington Post

TRAILERWIFE GETS THE WORD—Chief Deputy United States Marshal Charles Ward (right) notifies Mrs. Samuel Leslie that she must move from the Washington Tourist Camp. Her son, Barrie, 6, plays with popgun

East Potomac Park Residents Receive Eviction Order Calmly

The deputy marshals served verbal notices to 16 trailer-housed families at the Washington Tourist Camp in East Potomac Park yesterday, that they must move out or be evicted at 10 a. m. on Tuesday.

The action followed months of wrangling between the trailer dwellers and the National Capital Parks, which wants to return its GSI-operated camp to its status as a tourist stopping place, with a two-week limit of occupancy.

Most of the families appeared to take the eviction by the law calmly, though some showed indignation as Chief Deputy Charles Ward and Assistant Chief Deputy James Mattingly of the United States Marshal's office made the rounds, accompanied by the camp manager, Louis Napoli.

Those who complained they had no place to go were told by the manager that NCP has provided temporary space at the Columbia Island camp off the Virginia side of Memorial Bridge. The Government is offering free rent, water, electricity and Park Police protection there.

Miss Lallage Longshore, 56, who recently retired after 29 years' service with the Veterans' Administration, said she could not move from the camp, where she has lived for about 18 months, until she could buy a car. She has been trying to get a new car, she said, without success.

"I don't see how they can evict us without a court order and written notices," she declared after the marshal's deputies had told her she must move.

Jury Upholds Adm. Clark in Eviction Suit

Right of Purchaser To Occupy Premises Upheld in D. C. Court

A Municipal Court jury decided yesterday that Rear Admiral Joseph J. Clark and his family have the right to occupy the 10-room suite on the first floor of 2500 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Admiral Clark and his wife, Shannon, have been in the court for five days in the trial of their eviction suit against Huston Thompson, lawyer and onetime chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. Admiral Clark is assistant chief of Naval Operations for Air.

The jury deliberated an hour before returning the verdict to Judge George D. Neilson.

The apartment house, in the heart of Washington's "Embassy belt" was purchased recently by Mrs. Clark for $200,000 according to testimony. The Clarks have obtained a court order for the eviction of their third-floor tenants and asked for Thompson's first-floor suite to house seven members of the family plus three servants. The second floor is rented to Admiral Emory S. Land, whose eviction is not sought.

Thompson's attorney, Clay Espey, said he would appeal the case. If all appeal measures are taken, it is doubtful, according to authorities, that Thompson's eviction could be accomplished before the end of summer. Herman Miller was the Clarks' lawyer.

White House To Call Cox in Colonels' Row

The White House will put Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, D. C. National Guard commander, right in the middle of the "Battle of the Colonels" when Cox returns from Europe early next week.

Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Army aide to the President, will confer with Cox concerning court-martial charges filed against Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, Adjutant General of the D. C. Guard, the White House said. It is expected that Cox will be called on to prepare a report on the affair.

The charges against Nevitt were filed with the White House by National Guard Col. Le Roy S. Mann who claimed the former usurped the position of acting D. C. Guard commander during Cox's absence in Europe.

Mann asserted that he outranks Nevitt by seniority and that the latter's order which named Nevitt as acting commander was illegal. The order signed by Nevitt carried the notation "By command of General Cox."

Mann's charges were turned over to Vaughan. The President's Army aide was in Philadelphia with Mr. Truman yesterday and could not be reached for comment.

Death Made Mandatory For Man by Rape Verdict

Holmes Is Found Guilty of Attack On Girl 9; Jury Out 45 Minutes

Theodore M. Holmes, 22-year-old furniture mover, faces a mandatory death sentence because a District Court jury yesterday found him guilty of the rape of a 9-year-old girl March 18.

Foreman of the jury, Earl L. Harrison, jr., 28, of 1226 Irving st. ne., a mail carrier, announced the verdict only 45 minutes after the jurors retired to consider the case. The jury's finding that the brutal attack on the child earned the death penalty left Justice Edward M. Curran no choice but to sentence Holmes to the electric chair.

Holmes heard the verdict with marshals and lawyers clustered around him. He wore nondescript clothes and broken down shoes, without socks, and held his hands behind him. He had a dazed expression.

Defense Attorneys Maurice R. Weeks and Wesley S. Williams, who were appointed by Justice Curran to defend Holmes, did not ask that the jurors be polled and did not indicate that they would ask for a new trial. Justice Curran adjourned court without fixing a day for the sentence.

Holmes was arrested only six hours after the 9-year-old victim was found unconscious in a wooded area near the National Arboretum, a few blocks from her home. She had been criminally attacked, her left leg was broken and she was cut and bruised from head to foot. It was several days before she was declared out of danger at a hospital.

Assistant United States Attorney John C. Conliff, jr., called two psychiatrists from St. Elizabeths Hospital to the witness stand as the trial closed. Both testified that Holmes was legally sane, and that he knew right from wrong.

Congressional Club Ordered To Stop Bingo

Reports of bingo game gambling at Congressional Country Club has led Montgomery County police to order the games discontinued, under threat of arrests, it was revealed yesterday.

At the same time, it was disclosed that President Brooke Johns of the County Board of Commissioners yesterday summoned a special meeting of the board to intercede in the club's behalf.

Club members allegedly have been paying cash to participate in bingo games. The winner would receive cash prizes.

According to one police officer, the plays were sometimes as high as $3 a player and as many as 100 players would occasionally participate. The officer said no money went to the club, but that it was divided among winners.

The activity came to light, police said, after a complaint from an unidentified person. When police visited the club last Friday, club officials agreed to stop the cash bingo games.

At the special session called by Johns, a stand taken by Police Chief Charles M. Orme that the activity must stop was strongly supported by Commissioner Oliver W. Youngblood, County Supervisor I. G. McNayr and T. B. Welsh, legal counsel to the board. The three other commissioners did not attend.

Reached for comment last night, Johns said he had been "annoyed" that the club had not been given "at least a week's notice" that the games were illegal. He added that "everybody else is doing it," but later conceded "it is breaking the law."

Extension Of Business Zones Urged

If Arlington County is to get improved school, street, police and sanitary facilities, it must pay more taxes or get more business.

That's the situation facing the county in its present budget dilemma, two Arlington Chamber of Commerce committees declared yesterday.

The two committees—the Zoning Advisory Council and the Committee on City Planning and Zoning—made this observation in a 30-page report that will be presented before the Chamber's membership Wednesday. Chambers of Commerce in nearly 200 cities were queried in making up the report.

Prepared as a study of Arlington's pending zoning ordinance amendments, the report said the county lacks the tax-producing commercial property "which would permit it without high taxes to maintain municipal facilities comparable to a complete city."

Recommendations Listed

To encourage business expansion, the chamber committees recommended:

1. That business zoning be extended throughout the main arteries of Lee hwy., Wilson blvd., and Glebe rd. as provided for in the proposed zoning amendments.

2. That central and concentrated shopping areas be set up, rather than scattered, small, hit-or-miss business districts.

3. That more industrial zoning along the Washington & Old Dominion Railroad right-of-way be considered.

4. That business at the county line along main roads be expanded to serve needs of nearby Arlington residents who now trade across the line.

The report said that while the Arlington population has increased nearly 100,000 between 1930 and the present, the amount of commercially-zoned land has decreased 5 per cent.

In criticizing the proposed master zoning amendments, scheduled for county board hearing June 2 and 3, the report attacked the increased power it said the new law would give the County Planning Commission.

The amendments would give the commission power to reject use permits in cases adversely affecting public health, welfare, or the purposes of the master zoning plan.

Such power was termed "arbitrary" by the chamber committees, which said they doubted whether such authority could be legally delegated by the county board.

Also criticized in the chamber report was the proposal limiting the number of stories of some residences, apartment, and business structures.

This proposal, it was said, would tend "to spread out business" still further and increase construction costs in residential areas.

Provisions Attacked

The chamber committees attacked master plan provisions that would require some property owners to provide off-street parking facilities, and called all such proposals "inequitable and unworkable."

In their check of 157 cities of a size comparable to Arlington, the committees said 94 per cent reported a serious parking problem.

Municipally owned or operated parking lots are maintained by 19 per cent of the cities; 28 per cent have enabling laws permitting them to set up such facilities, and in 25 per cent, local merchants have cooperated in providing parking space.

Woman Is Found Unconscious in Spilling Bathtub

A 29-year-old Government secretary was found in a semiconscious state in an overflowing bathtub shortly before noon yesterday at the Ro-Car Guest House, 1601 21st st. nw.

The girl, identified by police as Marion Copleston, was discovered in the tub by William P. Boyce, owner and manager, police said. Boyce said the girl had apparently been suffering from a "fainting spell."

Miss Copleston was treated at Emergency Hospital for shock and then sent to Gallinger Hospital for observation. A woman's bureau attache, after speaking to the girl's mother, said Miss Copleston had suffered several nervous breakdowns.

Glutamic Acid Found Aiding Child Growth

Glutamic acid, the mental growth medicine, also has been found to be a stimulus to physical growth.

The new development was reported here yesterday at a meeting of the Nation's mental health specialists by Dr. Frederic T. Zimmerman, New York neurologist and pioneer in the amino acid therapy.

He spoke at a treatment session of the 104th annual meeting, American Psychiatric Association, which ended its four-day convention at Hotel Statler yesterday afternoon. More than 2500 psychiatrists and members of allied professions attended the convention.

Recently Discovered

Doctor Zimmerman said it was only recently that he and fellow workers discovered the unexpected effect of glutamic acid on physical growth. It was found by comparison of height and weight records of a small group of Mongoloid children whose measurements had been carefully recorded at the Atlantic City, N. J., institution where they lived.

"We found that the children's average growth for two years preceding their being fed glutamic acid was 2.56 inches," Doctor Zimmerman declared. But at end of the six-month period during which they were fed glutamic acid daily, they had added an average of 2.6 inches to their heights.

"In other words, with glutamic acid they grew as much in six months as they did in two years without it," he said.

He said he could not provide physical growth statistics for a group of less mentally retarded children also fed glutamic acid during the same tests "because we weren't looking for anything but mental growth until we stumbled on this other thing." But the growth was equally marked, he said.

Growth Delayed Early

Mongols, generally classed as idiots or imbeciles, are distinguished physically by flattened heads, slanted eyes, broad and vacuous faces and shortened thumbs and index fingers. Their physical growth is delayed at start and stops early.

Dr. Zimmerman said he could give no estimate of the number of Mongols (unrelated to Asiatics) in this country, but did say "there are more than we thought." Their parents generally keep them out of sight, he explained.

The experiments were conducted by Dr. Zimmerman, Dr. Bessie B. Burgemeister and Dr. Tracy J. Putnam, all of the Department of Neurology of Columbia University, New York. They have been testing glutamic acid effects on mentally retarded children for the past two years. Children's Hospital, here, began a similar testing program last December.

Glutamic acid is the only amino acid known to be metabolized (absorbed for building) in the brain. As now used, it is a dry powder, like coarse sugar, and vile tasting. It is more easily swallowed when mixed with jellies but, Dr. Zimmerman said, chemists are now working on means to make it tasteless.

U. S. Bond Stolen

Safe Raid And Holdup Pay Poorly

It was poor pickings yesterday for early-morning safecrackers and a holdup man.

Someone broke open the door at the Foster Print Shop, 3614 14th st. nw., and carted away a 125-pound safe. Shop owner Frank Foster, 5512 Grove st., Chevy Chase, Md., said the only loss, other than some records and papers, was a $1000 United States bond. The safe was recovered at Argyle ter. and Varnum st. nw., the dial knocked off.

In the hold-up, a gunman more nervous than his victim got away with $50, but only because the victim chose to give him no more.

George V. Showers, 54, 1708 B st. ne., said the hold-up man entered the Plaza Hotel, 1st and D sts. ne., about 3 a. m. yesterday, asking for change. As Showers turned, the man took out a black automatic.

"Hand it over and be quick about it, or I'll let you have it," the man said shakily, according to Showers, who told police he had been held up twice before since he took over the job in 1933. Showers nonchalantly handed over $50, although he said there was more around.

Police were looking for a white man, with a "flushed" face, about 35 or 30 years old, 135 pounds, brown hair, wearing a wrinkled gray pin stripe suit and brown hat.

Riggs Branch Wins Parking Lot Permit

The Riggs National Bank was given permission yesterday by the Board of Zoning Adjustment to set up a parking lot on property adjoining its Chevy Chase branch at Connecticut ave. and Morrison st. nw.

Only two neighborhood residents opposed the bank's plan, zoning officials said.

J. C. McCormack, vice president and cashier of the bank, said work on the parking area will begin as soon as negotiations can be completed for removing a house at 3808 Morrison st., which the bank bought last April.

Studies now are being made to determine if a drive-in feature would be feasible at some future date, McCormack said.

Holdup Attempt Suspected in Store Slugging

64-year-old second-hand store proprietor was slugged twice in his shop, 1233 7th st. nw., early last night in what police said may have been an attempted holdup.

The victim, Abram Rimson, 101 Sheridan st. ne., was treated at Emergency Hospital for scalp lacerations. The assailant escaped on foot through tn alley. He was described as a dark-skinned Negro, about 5 feet 8 inches, 145 pounds, hatless and wearing brown jacket and trousers.

Rimson told police the man had asked to have a ring he wished to purchase cut down in size and when he turned his back momentarily the "purchaser" struck him with a hard object wrapped in newspaper.

90-Year-Old Man Missing

A police lookout was broadcast yesterday for a 90-year-old inmate of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, 6000 New Hampshire ave. ne., missing since May 6.

The man, Arthur J. Hall, had been a resident of the home since 1938 and came originally from New York, authorities there said. He is believed to have drawn a large sum of money from a bank the day after his disappearance from the home.

The defendant was Roland Douglas, jr., of 847 19th st. an employe of the Oriental Laundry. He was released by Judge Ellen K. Raedy on $500 bond pending a probation office investigation.

Killed by a passenger automobile Douglas was driving at 7 p. m. December 24 was Mrs. Lucy Chinn, 62, of 1539 4th st. nw., who was crossing in the 1500 block of New Jersey ave. nw. She was on her way to buy groceries for the holidays, with a niece, Delores Wedge, 8, who was seriously injured in the accident.

According to Precinct Detective Emmett K. Waters, Douglas' car had bad brakes.

Mrs. Brannan Dies in Home At Age of 88

Mrs. Cecilia E. Brannan, 88, descendant of an old Southern family, died yesterday at her home, 5 Rhode Island ave. nw., after a long illness.

Born in Columbus, Ga., Mrs. Brannan came to Washington more than 50 years ago with her husband, Michael M. Brannan, sr., before then a wellknown journalist of the South and West. He died in 1911.

Her father, Thomas A. Gannon, was owner of a famous Atlanta hotel during the Civil War, the Trout House, and was imprisoned for his refusal to fight for slavery, Mrs. Brannan once recalled. During the shelling of Atlanta, when Mrs. Brannan was a girl, she saw a 4-year-old brother die of pneumonia as a result of exposure on the roof of the hotel. Women and children had been put there for safety.

Mrs. Brannan's illness became critical in 1946 and, on the advice of her physician, she was not told of the death of a son, Thomas C. Brannan, 50, in a North Carolina veterans' hospital. He was a veteran of World War I.

Mrs. Brannan leaves two other sons, Richard A. Brannan of Washington, Patrick F. Brannan, Santa Rosa, Calif., and two daughters, Miss Cecilia E. Brannan of Washington, and Miss May Brannan, St. Louis.

Besides the immediate family, the mourners included United States Ambassador Lewis Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, Anthony Eden, Lady Astor, Mrs. John Jacob Astor and George Andre, representing the French ambassador. Winston Churchill did not attend the ceremony, but sent a large sheaf of arum lilies.

After the ceremony the coffin was taken to Derbyshire where Lady Hartington will be buried in the family plot with her late husband, the Marquis of Hartington, who was killed in World War II.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

NORWOOD HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, St. Louis, Mo., May 20.—Chip shots from the PGA Tournament:

Dizzy Dean, who talks baseball or golf with equal facility, was slightly wild with one of his verbal shots this morning in the hotel headquarters of the pros.

POVICH

The Washington ball team is staying at the same hotel and Dean, after a bit of small talk with a group of the golf pros, announced he was leaving for the course. "I have an empty car, wanna ride with me?" he asked a tall fellow standing with the group. The invitation was accepted.

A block from the hotel, Dean was wondering who his passenger might be and asked: "What time do you tee off?"

"I tee off at 8:30 tonight—against the Browns," the startled Dean was told. "I'm Mickey Vernon, first baseman of the Senators."

NORWOOD HILLS is a great course for mountain goats but rugged on a 46-year-old pro, according to Gene Sarazen who did very well in the qualifying rounds but dreads the 36 holes of match play on the next three days.

There are four blind, uphill shots to the greens on the first nine holes, and when the applause broke out for Sarazen's shot to the green on the seventh, he was beaming. "That's what I wanted to hear—the applause. That's the only way you know you've hit the green."

SARAZEN DOESN'T like the format of the PGA tournaments, incidentally. "These first two qualifying rounds are the most boring things in all tournament play," he said. "They're a nuisance to the players."

He has an idea the lesser-known pros would like it better if they started match play from the outset. "They'd rather start off getting beat by Snead and Hogan and Demaret and the other big shots than mess around with the qualifying and lose out. At least they can always say they played Snead and Hogan and the others."

Which recalls the experience of Bob Considine in the National Tennis Tournament at Forest Hills in the late 20s. Considine took his District of Columbia title to the tournament and was eliminated, 6-love, 6-love, in the first round. "But I can always say I played Bill Tilden," he grins.

Vic Ghezzi, who shot a dazzling 69 yesterday and added an horrendous 80 today was wondering whether he had blown himself out of the tournament. Asked what kind of golf he had played to get his 80 today, Ghezzi didn't resort to any alibi. "My game today," he said, "was just exactly what the score indicated."

The pros like the hilly course as a good test of golf, but to a man they were screaming at the practice greens. Late comers were warned to stay off 'em. "They're so slow," said Sammy Snead, "and the greens out on the course are so fast that this is one tournament where lack of putting practice is an asset."

DIZZY DEAN was twitting Snead and Claude Harmon with the ease of a pro golfer's life. "You guys collect a lot of dough for having a lot of fun. You win all that money in tournaments and then charge ten bucks for a half-hour lesson. I've seen you work on your lessons," said Dean. "You show a woman how to hold the club, and then sit under a tree and watch her try it for the next half hour."

Harmon tossed it back in Dean's lap with the comment that a baseball pitcher had it easier. "When we're off line, we're in trouble," he said. "In baseball when the ball goes this way and that way, you have eight other guys to catch it and get you out of trouble."

Every duffer in the gallery got a secret lift from the fifth-green proceedings of the Sarazen-Tony Penna-Lew Worsham threesome. Worsham blew an 18-inch putt, even as you and I, and Penna excelled that performance by missing a 12-incher.

Snead wound up on the fifteenth tee and hit a screaming line drive over the big traps that covered all of 310 yards. Next up was Claude Harmon, who appealed to the gallery before taking his own swing. "How can you look good, playing with this guy?" he asked. "It's like following Babe Ruth in the batting order."

At Griffith Stadium Tonight

Republicans, Democrats Take Differences to the Diamond

Although they rarely can be accused of playing ball with one another, the Democrats and Republicans will do just that at 8 o'clock tonight in Griffith Stadium.

Occasion is the annual congressional clambake, in the guise of a hard-ball game, sponsored by the Evening Star. And for sweet charity, the politicians almost are willing to put aside their differences for a night.

"Almost" is used advisedly. Yesterday the Republican and Democratic camps were divided, as usual. In the best Congressional tradition, a technicality developed and an argument raged over which club would be the home team.

After a 16-year Democratic tenure, reason for the fight remained obscure.

"It's Unconstitutional"

The Democrats also were upset over a Republican plan to use Judge Evans Howell at first base. Said Manager Dick Richards, "It's unconstitutional, that's what it is. The judiciary and legislative branches are separated by law. It's just like the Republicans to look for a loophole."

Richards, (S. C.) then hinted that the Democrats might bring in a judge or two themselves. "There are more Democrats than Republicans on the bench," he explained smugly.

Representative C. W. (Runt) Bishop (Ill.), former pro football and baseball player who manages the Republicans, said it would be a landslide. "They better bat first or they might not get a chance to bat at all. We beat 'em last year, 16-13, this time they won't even get close."

Tickets are $1 and $2 and the Congressmen carefully have arranged for the taxpayers to get their money's worth. The program includes four military bands and Chief Justice Vinson (his son's a star with Washington and Lee) will throw out the first ball.

The program starts promptly at 8.

Di Mag Hits 2 Homers, 5 For 6; Yanks Win, 13-2

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—Jolting Joe DiMaggio had a field day today as the New York Yankees plowed under the Chicago White Sox, 13-2.

The Yankee Clipper led his mates to their lopsided triumph by bashing home six runs on two homers, a triple, double and single in six trips to the plate against five Chicago pitchers.

Today's impressive performance moved the Yanks to within a game and a half of the first-place Indians. The New Yorkers, with a 15-9 record, trail the Philadelphia Athletics by only a half game.

DiMaggio began clouting in the first inning when he slammed a three-run homer off Starter Orval Grove. He cracked his second homer in the fifth with the sacks empty and whacked a two-run triple to highlight a four-run sixth inning rally. He doubled in the ninth after Johnny Lindell's two-run four-bagger. He was held to a single in the third and flied out to deep left in the eighth.

Hutchinson Beats Athletics, 4 to 2

Detroit, May 20 (AP).—The faltering Philadelphia Athletics fell dangerously near third place in the American League today as the Detroit Tigers shellacked three Philadelphia pitchers for 15 blows taking the opener of a three-game series 4 to 2.

Freddie Hutchinson, talented Detroit right-hander, rationed the A's to five hits, one of them Sam Chapman's two-run homer, as Philadelphia dropped its third straight game, retaining a narrow half-game second place edge over the New York Yankees.

Everybody in the Tiger lineup but Eddie Mayo hit safely at least once as the Macks paraded Carl Scheib. Bob Savage and Charles Harris, all right-handers, to the mound.

Except for the second inning when Chapman's homer followed Ferris Fain's single to produce the only Philadelphia scoring, the Macks put only one runner as far as third and one other man to second.

Hutchinson's victory was his third of the year against two defeats.

Cards Rout Brooklyn Again, 13-4

Brooklyn, May 20 (AP).—Stan Musial continued to pickle Brooklyn pitching today as the St. Louis Cardinals romped to a 13-4 victory over the Dodgers.

Musial, who banged out five hits Wednesday night against the Brooks, collected four today—a homer, two doubles and a single—as the Red Birds rapped three Dodger pitchers for 14 bingles.

The win was the league-leading Cardinals' sixth straight and their fourth in as many meetings over the Dodgers.

Catcher Del Rice, who drove home four runs on two doubles, was struck on the head by one of Hugh Casey's pitches in the eighth and apparently was badly shaken up, though he walked off the field under his own power.

Card Manager Eddie Dyer protested bitterly to Plate Empire Art Gore, apparently charging that Casey's pitch was an intentional bean ball and that Casey should be ejected from the game. Gore deemed otherwise and finally thumbed Dyer out of the game.

For four innings the game was a pitchers' duel between Howie Pollet of the Cards and Joe Hatten of the Dodgers. Then in the fifth, with the score tied at 1-1, the Cards jumped on Hatten for six runs.

The big blow of the uprising was Rice's double with the bases loaded that cleared the sacks. The Cards added three more off Casey in the sixth and another in the seventh when Musial homered over the right-field screen. The Cards picked up two more in the ninth on two singles, a walk and fly out.

Pollet scattered seven hits in posting his fourth win without a setback. Dick Whitman gave Pollet the most trouble, batting in three runs on a two-bagger and a single.

Alexander's 134 Takes PGA Medal

By Hugh Fullerton, jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis, May 20 (AP).—Big Stewart (Skip) Alexander, playing in his first Professional Golfers Association championship, won the qualifying medal today with a record-equaling 36-hole score of 134.

The 29-year-old husky from Lexington, N. C., who recently won the National Capital Open shattered par by 7 strokes as he compiled an amazing 64, lowest score of the tournament, and a record for the Norwood Hills Country Club course, to go with his opening round of 70.

The two-round feat equalled the PGA qualifying record which Jim Ferrier set at Portland, Ore., in 1946. It also put the bespectacled North Carolinian one stroke ahead of Tony Penna, the Cincinnati veteran, who had a 65.

Right behind Penna, Slamming Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Jimmy Demaret, the gaudily-garbed Ojai, Calif., crooner, tied for third place at 136. Each had a pair of 68's over the rolling, 6467-yard par 71 course.

The first-day leaders, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Bob Hamilton of Prince Georges, Md., who had 66's yesterday, failed to maintain the hot pace.

Hogan, blowing himself to a six on the 403-yard, par four sixteenth, wound up with a 72 and a 138 total. Hamilton came up with a gaudy seven on the par five fourteenth, longest hole on the course at 555 yards. He qualified comfortably with a 139 after taking a 73 on today's round.

Scores of 149 or better for the 36 holes came inside the qualifying record and six players with 150's went into a sudden death playoff for the last four places in the match-play bracket of 64. Two 18-hole rounds begin the match phase of the tournament tomorrow. The remaining matches will be at 36 holes.

Alexander, who only became eligible for PGA membership this year, was medalist in the 1941 National Amateur championship with a 144. This year Skip has won two tournaments, the Tucson Open with a 72-hole score of 264 and in addition the National Capitol Open at Washington, D. C., with 271.

Today, in compiling his 32-32 nine-hole scores, Alexander missed the green only once with his approaches. That was on the eighteenth hole, when he was shooting for the lead and a new qualifying

Jack, Williams Title Bout Sought

Beau Offered $20,000 to Fight

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Beau Jack, who last week said he was through fighting lightweights, was reconsidering last night.

Reason was a bona fida $20,000 offer for Jack to meet Ike Williams in Philadelphia July 12 for the 135-pound championship.

The proposition was made by Philadelphia Promoter Herman Taylor. Taylor attached two conditions to his offer:

1. Jack must defeat Tony Janiro at Griffith Stadium Monday night.

2. Williams must win over Enrique Bolanos in Los Angeles the following evening. Williams' title is at stake in this one.

Both Jack and Williams are favorites to pass their Monday and Tuesday exams, respectively, and if they do and are matched for the championship it will give Jack another opportunity to win the crown he once wore himself.

After Sammy Angott retired, Jack was recognized by the N. Y. State Athletic Commission as 135-pound king. Bob Montgomery was the National Boxing Association's ruler and in the first match between the two Montgomery won a 15-round decision. Jack regained the title in a return go, but lost it again in a third match with Montgomery March 3, 1944.

Last summer Williams knocked out Montgomery to win the championship.

While Jack was busy continuing his training for the once-postponed clash with Janiro, the latter's handlers, from New York, took time out to put the lie to talk that Philly Wants It For July 12.

Janiro planned to skip Monday's Griffith Stadium clash.

From New York, Ray Arcel, Janiro's head trainer, wired: "Janiro training daily at Stillman's. Will arrive Washington Saturday and work out at Liberty gym at 2 p. m."

The offer to meet Williams is but one of many the popular Jack has received lately. Matchmaker Eddie Bordan has twice called Chick Wergeles, Jack's manager, from England, seeking to arrange a Beau Jack-Eric Boone fight for London in July.

Wergeles is debating that offer and Taylor's, too. He has until Saturday to say yes or no to the Williams proposition. There is no time limit on Borden's offer. He'll take Jack anytime.

Minors Fear Big-League Television

Milwaukee, May 20 (AP).—If minor league baseball officials have their way, fans in their cities won't be able to see televised major league games.

Frank C. Lane, president of the American Association, said today a committee of which he is chairman would propose at a St. Louis minor league meeting July 13 a resolution asking that "rebroadcasting or televising by stations within 100 miles of a minor league city" be banned.

Lane said that the situation already is bad in the New York area.

"The Yankee, Giant and Brooklyn Dodger games are televised and two International League cities, Jersey City and Newark, are within range," the AA president said.

"I am informed that when a night game is televised from one of the New York parks the attendance falls off 20 or 25 per cent in the two New Jersey cities."

record. There his drive went off to the right of the fairway. He had to shoot from a bad lie in the rough and slammed his iron shot into a trap short and to the left of the green. He blasted out well but couldn't quite sink a 25-foot putt for the par four.

A long driver, the big, curly-haired Carolinian was making things easy for himself by pitching up within "gimme" range of the cup. Skip birdied the first, second, fourth and tenth holes with putts of less than 10 feet. On the thirteenth he sank a 15-footer, then he pitched within two feet of the pin on the long fourteenth.

He reached the green on the 493-yard fifteenth in two but needed two putts for his third straight birdie. On the next hole Skip made one of his rare misses of a short putt, but he made up for that with a 25-foot putt for a birdie three on the seventeenth.

Mrs. Nicolson Wins Keefer Cup With 163

Mrs. Hugh Nicolson of Chevy Chase, five-time winner of the District women's title, added the 36-hole Keefer Cup Tournament to her collection yesterday at Chevy Chase.

Mrs. Nicolson added an 82 to the 81 she shot yesterday for a 163 gross total. Her handicap of three strokes per round gave her a 36-hole net of 157, one less than Mrs. A. B. Bower of Indian Spring.

Mrs. Nicolson's Cards
Par out	455	345	454	—40
Mrs. Nicolson	455	437	573	—45
Par in	354	345	445	—37—77
Mrs. Nicolson	354	344	554	—37—82

Coming in with a gross 164 fashioned from rounds of 84 and 80, Mrs. Bower's identical handicap left her a stroke behind Mrs. Nicolson in the net standings. However, she was awarded the low gross prize for her fine score.

In second low net position was Mrs. George Martin, yesterday's leader, who added a round of 100 to her 91 on the opening day for a 191 gross total. With her 36-hole handicap of 32, she finished two strokes off the pace with a 159.

Miss Anne Reh, Washington Golf and County Club, was next with 194—32—162, followed by Mrs. Walter Stokes, Manor, 169—4—165; Mrs. Landra Platt, Chevy Chase, 169—4—165, and Mrs. Marie Walper, Prince Georges, 175—10—165. After matching cards, the latter three women finished in the order given.

Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud, Kenwood, followed with 183—16—167, and the final low net award went to Mrs. G. W. Calvert, Washington, who finished with 195—28—167.

WHEN THE PRESSURE IS ON
If you can hole putts inside of four feet when the pressure is on, you're better than many a golfer I've seen. Those little shorties that look so easy may give the player the jitters at the wrong time. More of them are missed by being "babied" than being stroked beyond the hole. If you can master that part of the game under pressure, the rest will be much easier.

Anacostia Gains Playoffs With 3-2 Victory

Sengstack Holds Wilson To 7 Hits

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Scoring all their runs in the first inning on a double steal and a two-base error, Anacostia's Indians upset Wilson, 3-2, yesterday at Georgetown University, and won the fourth spot in the Interhigh championship playoffs.

The double elimination titular playoffs begin Monday with a double-header at Griffith Stadium. Anacostia meets first place Eastern at 1 p. m. in the first game. Tech and Coolidge, which tied for second place, meet in the second game.

McPherson slid across the plate on the front end of a double steal. George Reeden, who followed with a single, scored behind Faulkner, when Wilson's Centerfileder Dick Janigian dropped John O'Brien's long fly.

Wilson netted its two in the second when Chet Cooper and Leo Speros led off with singles. Then with two out, Pitcher Don Snider singled to center scoring Cooper. When Third Baseman Reeden let the relay get away from him, Speros also scored.

Three College Games Slated Here Today

The University of Maryland will wind up its spring sports activities this weekend with the Terp baseball team meeting Virginia Military in a Southern Conference game at College Park today, and the lacrosse team tackling Johns Hopkins in Baltimore Saturday.

Two other college baseball games are scheduled today. Western Maryland will oppose the high-flying Catholic University Cardinals at Brookland and Georgetown will play host to the Quantico Marines on the Medical School field. All three games start at 3 p. m.

The Terp game today is the last one on the home schedule and the Terps will end the season with games at Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy, Long Island, Saturday, and against Army at West Point Monday.

A win over the Virginia Cadets in today's encounter will give Maryland a 6 win-1 loss record in Southern Conference competition. The Terps beat VMI, 15-3, in an earlier game.

The big item on the weekend schedule is the traditionally rough and bitter lacrosse game with Hopkins in Baltimore Saturday afternoon.

U. S. Favored In Curtis Golf

Southport, England, May 20 (U.P.). American women golfers, razor-keen after their final practice rounds, were favored at 3 to 2 tonight to retain the Curtis Cup in matches against Great Britain opening tomorrow after a war-enforced lapse of 10 years.

Those were the official odds, but some pessimistic Britons rated their team's chances at no better than 50 to 1 after Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Merion, Pa., 44-year-old captain of the U. S. squad, selected her team for the opening foursomes competition.

Supposedly along purely in an administrative capacity, the American captain, who won the U. S. Amateur championship six times between 1922 and 1935, surprisingly nominated herself as a player and will team with Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta in foursome play against Philomena Garvey and Mrs. Zara Bolton.

Three foursomes matches were scheduled for tomorrow and six singles contests on Saturday.

Eastern Expected to Take Interhigh Track Title Today

Woodrow Wilson's five-year reign as Interhigh track champion is expected to end today with Eastern taking the crowd in the fifty-first meeting of the local public highs at Central Stadium. The first event takes place at 3:30 p. m.

At the qualifying trials Wednesday, Eastern earned 21 places for 10 of the 14 events. Coolidge qualified 9, Central 7, McKinley Tech 6, Wilson 5, Roosevelt 4 and Western and Anacostia 3. They'll also have entries in the mile, half-mile, and mile and half-mile relays, for which trails were not held.

Eastern is already conceded five first places, and could wind up with as many as seven. Forrest Miles, who broke the record for the 100 in the trials with 9.9 performance, figures to win the "century" and the 220 for the tenth straight time this season.

Otis Brown, who snapped the discus and shot records in the trials, is favored to win in both events.

Longshots Prevent Minus Pool

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., May 20.—The Virginia-owned Stanley, claimed at Pimlico for $7500 from H. R. Cohen, brought his running shoes to this mountain race track today and scampered off with the Gen. Charles R. Fox Purse. In the colors of E. P. Price, the 5-year-old gave his legion of backers no anxious moments and arrived in the pay-off slot five lengths ahead of the closest opposition and under a pull by Jockey Webb Snyder.

There was much hustling and bustling behind the chestnut horse which resulted in a pair of longshots—Casset and Gay Wildy—being second and third in the test of about 6 furlongs.

This was OK with the management which escaped a minus show pool because the mysterious "Mr. X" was around and dropped in $5000 to show on Stanley which paid an across the board mutuel of $2.60 to win, $2.80 to place, and $2.20 to show.

The winner was clocked in 1:16 1/5 for the six furlongs plus 120 feet.

In the second race, G. C. Smith's Abrazo, a horse that almost burned up in a Bowie fire several years ago, was leading by some five lengths when he bolted and threw his jockey entering the stretch. M. C. Plank's Teddy Smart was the winner at $5.40. The daily double on the "5 and 3" combination paid $65.00.

Son Like Father:

Camden, N. J., May 20 (AP).—Associated Press selector Raymond Haight picked five straight winners at Garden State Park yesterday. He's the son of Walter Haight, Washington Post racing writer.

The selections and prices returned in the last five races: Kel's Love $103.40. Three Rings $7.40, Black Gang $5.80, Sweet Taters $19.80, Aboko $8.60.

Ex-Soldier Fishes Potomac Anyway; Hardhead Outlook Good at Rock Point

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

ONE LOCAL FISHERMAN undismayed by the poor fishing on the Potomac this spring is 82-year-old William R. Gardner, 1505 22nd st. nw.

He's a regular customer at Fletcher's boathouse and claims he gets his recreation, yes sir, whether or not he catches anything. Despite his years, he generally takes out a rowboat alone.

Gardner is assistant national chaplain of Regular Veterans' Association. He served in the Army from 1888 to 1925. After going through the Spanish-American and World War I, he was understandably "miffed" when the Army wouldn't heed his request for active duty in the last fracas.

Fine treatment for an active fisherman who once was a sergeant major and retired as a first lieutenant of infantry.

CHARLEY FLETCHER, of the boathouse Fletchers, still won't give up on the Potomac. He generally gets out on the river several times a week.

He's heard of a few rockfish catches and is looking for his. "I usually get one good rock a year," Charley informed, "and I'm after it now. But you gotta get out there and fish for it."

His latest expeditions have resulted in abundant catches of catfish. They always seem available in our pond. Fletcher, nephew of old Cap'n Joe, thinks the weekend fishing will be good if the weather stays clear.

AN ACE CORRESPONDENT tells us that the hardhead (croaker) outlook for the Rock Point-Cobb Island-Wicomico Beach area is favorable. About 15 parties went out last weekend and most were satisfied, with the average catch about six, running from 1½ to 3½ pounds.

Our man, Charles C. Lancaster, of Rock Point, Md., is a long-time subscriber of The Washington Post and says he's glad to be of service to sportsmen-readers of The Post.

Furthermore, he informs, he doesn't take out parties or sell bait so we may count on his reports being reliable. If the fish aren't biting, we'll be sure to hear about it.

Peeler crab and soft shells are being caught, but Lancaster advises fishermen to play safe and bring their own bait—blood worms or shrimp.

He thinks a No. 4 hook with a strong gut leader is best for taking hardheads and adds that it's always wise to bring along a half-dozen extra hooks, sinkers and some extra 20-pound test line. Those with their own outboards will be interested to know that about 30 rowboats are available in the sector, with the average rental $2 per day.

Lancaster's parting shot is that hard and soft-shell crabs should be plentiful in about two weeks.

MISCELLANY—Most sportsmen's groups around here are sending delegates to the public waterfowl meeting 10 a. m. Monday at Sears, Roebuck's Community House, North ave. near Harford ave., Baltimore . . . It's under the auspices of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission and is one of the annual series of Nation-wide hearings on the migratory waterfowl situation. . . The Maryland Commission recently ruled the open season on black bass in the waters of Lake Roland, Prettyboy Reservoir and Loch Raven Reservoir in Baltimore County, June 1 to November 30 . . . Size and creel limit on crappie in these waters shall be unlimited . . . The new regulation doesn't apply beyond the high-water mark.

Printers Win 1st Game, 1-0

Lefty Bob Burlingame pitched Union Printers to their first Departmental League victory yesterday, the Printers nosing out Naval Gun Factory, 1-0, after 10 innings on the South Ellipse.

The former Tech High hurler yielded only two infield singles, and walked only one. His mound opponent, Willie Goff, formerly of Central High, yielded the losing run on a fielder's choice, a stolen base and Harry Hofberg's single.

Circus Luminaries Regale Party Guests With Tales Of Clowning, Tiger Taming

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THE other night Mrs. Lawrence Robert gave a party for circus luminaries and we were lucky enough to pick up Emmet Kelly, the famous clown. Mr. K. au naturel and strictly in his own face, is a kindly gentleman not unusual in any way except for his hair which curls some three or four inches below the collar. This arrangement gives him a combination poetic-and-William Jennings Bryan look, so we asked how come. Starting his clown career Mr. K. wore a wig with a curled fringe. Before long he noticed the stickum used in keeping the wig in place was gradually removing his own hirsute adornment. So now he grows his hair long and has saved considerable money on wigs!

John Ringling North, the part owner and inspired impresario of the circus was also present. Asked why he didn't keep his circus in town longer he replied succinctly, "We were here six days last year, only made money on three.

Sitting on a sofa, surrounded by attentive ladies, was the circus' handsome tiger trainer. Crazy about beasts of any kind, he ran away from home at 18, got a job in the famous Hagenbeck zoo and animal training school in Hamburg. He obligingly exhibited a few respectably placed scars, mentioned casually that he trained only lady tigers! The show's highlights, all agreed, are the new yellow linoleum costumes and Unus, the extraordinary man, who balances, upside down, on his index finger.

Since the circus has been in town we have noted a new trend in masculine neckwear—a tie printed with gaily colored animals, zebras, lions and such. John Sullivan, Secretary of the Navy, owns one, wore it to the circus, plans to put it away when the big show leaves town!

LEONARD HANNA, grandson of the late Senator Mark Hanna, returned recently from a European hegira. These spring days he is busying himself out in Kirkland, Ohio, moving into a revamped inn where, almost four centuries ago, Sir Walter Raleigh, of all people, was wont to take his ease. The inn was imported from England brick by brick by the Edmund Burkes who set it up in Gates Mills, Ohio.

Leonard, who owns one of the most comprehensive collections of modern paintings in this country, has focused an acquisitive eye on the Burkes' whimsey for some time. The inn is pure Cotswold type architecture and matches the assortment of buildings on Leonard's place.

Now he is having fun removing the much-traveled building from Gates Mills and lugging it to Kirkland.

Before long Cole Porter, Noel Coward and other Hanna intimes will be parking their cloaks where Queen Elizabeth's gallant boy friend checked his!

On the European junket Leonard took along Windsor French, a Cleveland journalist. Feature of the trip was an audience with the Pope. This stellar event almost broke up their tried and true friendship when nervous Windsor's legs collapsed a la Leon Errol. Once kneeling in the Vatican he realized he couldn't possibly rise. At this moment the Pope approached, offered his hand. Windsor, fumbling to kiss the Pope's ring, couldn't find it. Finally on his feet and outside the audience chamber, he confided this to Leonard who replied, "Nonsense, of course, the Pope had a ring and I kissed it." They're still arguing.

Where to Purchase China

Can you tell me if china marked "Haviland France, The Princess, Haviland Limoges" can be purchased anywhere?
R. J. S.

The china marking means that the piece was made by Haviland China Co. of France. "The Princess" is the name of the pattern and Limoge (not Limogen) is the French word for china. French Haviland is carried by most Washington department stores and china shops, but none of the stores and shops which I called have "The Princess" pattern. However, the buyer at one store suggested it might be ordered. He can be reached by calling District 5300 and asking for the china buyer.

When skirts were shorter I put a hem in several black crepe dresses and ironed them flat. Now I'd like to let the hems down but wonder if there is anything I can use to remove the "shine" put there by the iron when originally shortened. Also, what is the best way to iron crepe to remove a hem line? And the same for rayon jersey?
F. F.

Sometimes the heat marks left by ironing directly on rayons cannot be removed because the heat actually changes the fiber. However, the shine might be lessened somewhat by sponging the shiny area with a barely damp cloth and then placing a dry cloth over the dampened area. Press very lightly on top of the dry cloth. Be sure the iron is only moderately hot and do not continue the pressing long enough to thoroughly dry the rayon. This same method can be used to remove hem lines. Moisten the line slightly by sponging with water, place a dry cloth over the moistened area and press with an iron set for pressing rayon.

I have an automatic washing machine which is rusting around the side where the top and sides come together. I have cleaned the rust off and painted it with enamel twice but it has rusted again each time. Is there anything I can use to stop this rust and is there a certain paint or enamel which will cover the bad rust spots that are on it now?
W. I. H.

Possibly if you will apply a coat of red lead paint as the first coat, it will prove more permanent than the enamel alone. Before paint is applied, all rust and dirt should be removed by rubbing with sandpaper or steel wool. Follow this sanding by washing the area with benzine (inflammable, so use with care) to remove all oil and grease. When the surface is dry, apply a coat of red lead. Red lead dries very slowly, so several days to a week should be allowed between the first and second coat. When first coat is dry, apply an enamel to match the machine and allow to dry thoroughly. Using care not to chip the paint and always wiping the surface free of moisture after each washing will do much to prevent return of the rust.

How do I wash a man's natural-colored pigskin gloves?
E. N. N.

Use a mild soap such as castile and make a suds in barely warm water. Squeeze the suds through and through the gloves, working a little extra soap into the more soiled spots, such as the fingertips. Turn the gloves inside out to thoroughly wash. When clean, rinse thoroughly in several waters and squeeze out as much water as possible. Pat water from them with an absorbent towel and then pull into shape, stuffing the fingers and hand of the glove very lightly with paper tissues. This permits circulation of air and enables them to dry more quickly. Place in an airy place to dry, away from sun or heat. Occasionally work the leather with your fingers during the drying process to soften it.

Would you help me with a budget problem? My husband and I (we have no dependents) have a combined income of $7,923 per year, over 26 per cent of which is withheld in Federal taxes and retirement. Our rent at present is $747 per year. We buy five $50 bonds per month, at a cost of $2,437.50 per year. I would greatly appreciate your suggesting (1) a reasonable expenditure for groceries, considering current prices, and (2) a proper sum for each of us to spend as he sees fit for his own strictly individual expenses, such as lunches, clothes, and hobbies, but not including contributions, household, medical, or other joint responsibilities. This is a sum for which each need give no account, and which he should be entitled to spend or save as he fees fit. A. L. G.

Since personal needs and tastes vary so widely, it is almost impossible to give exact advice on how much you should spend for different purposes. Present-day budget experts seldom try to. However, in a book published in 1947, one suggested approximate ratios of spending. Maybe they'll be of some assistance to you as a sort of rough-hewn guide:

Rent (if heat is included), 25 per cent of income; clothes (new and upkeep), 15 per cent of income; operating expenses (electricity, gas, water, laundry, household supplies, etc.), 10 to 15 per cent of income; food, 20 to 35 per cent; advancement, health and recreation, 15 to 20 per cent; savings (other than life insurance), 10 per cent; life insurance, the face of your policies should amount to two or more years' income.

As you can see, you are doing a great deal better than this on rent and savings, which is as it should be since your family is small now and your combined incomes quite simple. Possibly, in common with many other couples, you are saving to buy a home when prices become more reasonable.

The higher the income, the smaller the percentage of it that must be spent on food. Right now, the Red Cross figures that it costs around $12 a week to buy groceries to provide a minimum adequate diet for two. Since you don't have to pinch pennies, it's reasonable to expect that your food bills will run higher than this.

Can you tell me why it is that instructions on bottle of bleaching fluid say not to use in hot water? R. M. M.

Since I have just read the labels on two well known brands of household bleach and find no statement about not using it in hot water, I am a little uncertain as to what you are referring. These labels do say that, when using bleach for soaking clothes, put it into cool water. This is because dirt soaks from clothes in cool water more readily than from very hot, since hot water may set stains and soil. I can see no reason why bleach should not be added to washing water. As a matter of fact, this method is preferred by many homemakers when using bleach in the washing process.

A PARTY CAKE that's sure to delight childish hearts is this one decorated with a parade of animal crackers and circus wagons made of marshmallows and mints. The recipe for it follows:

ANIMAL CRACKER CAKE

½ cup shortening
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
2/3 cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
16 graham crackers, finely rolled (1 1/3 cups)
¾ cup milk
Animal crackers

Combine shortening, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually; cream together thoroughly. Add egg yolks; beat well. Sift together flour and baking powder; mix with graham cracker crumbs. Add these dry ingredients, alternately with milk, to creamed mixture until all are added. Beat egg whites stiff; fold in carefully to batter. Line two 8-inch layer cake pans with waxed paper on bottom and grease pans on sides. Fill pans equally with batter. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for 25 minutes. Cool layers 10 minutes; remove from pans to wire rack.

To decorate, fill and frost layers with boiled frosting. Arrange animal crackers, candy mints, and marshmallows on top of cake as shown in picture. Arrange crackers, too, in ring around bottom of cake.

Women Vote Ingrid Bergman, Bing Crosby Favorite Movie Stars in Magazine Poll

Ingrid Bergman is the favorite movie actress of American women for the second year in succession, according to the Woman's Home Companion's fourth annual opinion poll, results of which will appear in the June issue. Bing Crosby leads male stars in the poll for the third year.

With more than one in every four women voting for Ingrid Bergman, the stars rated as follows:

Actress: 1. Ingrid Bergman, 2. Greer Garson, 3. Claudette Colbert, 4. Bette Davis, 5. Joan Crawford, 6. Irene Dunne, 7. Rosalind Russell, 8. June Allyson, 9. Barbara Stanwyck, 10. Lana Turner.

Actor: 1. Bing Crosby, 2. Gregory Peck, 3. Spencer Tracy, 4. Cary Grant, 5. Clark Gable, 6. Walter Pidgeon, 7. Gary Cooper, 8. Jimmy Stewart, 9. Ronald Colman, 10. Dana Andrews.

In similar polls conducted by the Companion among its millions of women readers, top voting went to Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon in 1945; to Greer Garson and Bing Crosby in 1946, and to Ingrid Bergman and Crosby in 1947.

Although Greer Garson continued in second place in this year's poll, she is very closely followed by Claudette Colbert who increased her votes from 7 to 11 per cent and gained one place over her rank of third last year. Bette Davis, second in 1945 and third in 1946, is now in fourth place, while Joan Crawford jumped from seventh place last year to fifth in the present poll. Barbara Stanwyck and Lana Turner are newcomers to the top 10 women favorites this year. Dorothy McGuire received a special mention although she did not rate among the first 10.

Shifts in the ranking male stars show that as Crosby takes top place for the third time his voting average has increased from 16 per cent to 21 per cent, well ahead of the 13 per cent of votes given second-placer Gregory Peck, who was fourth in '46 and third in '47. Spencer Tracy has held consistently onto his place in the top group during all four years since the Companion polls were started. Walter Pidgeon took a dive from second place last year, Clark Gable is slipping downward—he was third in 1946—and Dana Andrews is the newcomer. Andrews and Peck received their largest number of votes from the young age groups while Bing Crosby and Spencer Tracy retain their popularity among the older women.

Career Girl's Specials

Exercises Will Nip In That Waistline Padding

By Ida Jean Kain

A CAREER GAL, on the verge of slimming, announces stoutly that she is willing to have a go at exercise provided I can produce a set guaranteed to nip the waist single handed, rout the fat from the midriff and bring the hips to terms. Well, what are we waiting for—let's get the show on the road . . .

First, the stretch-twist-bend deal with the fat amidships.

Position—Standing, feet apart, arms arched overhead, shoulders easy. Get set by centering the pelvic girdle, pulling up firmly with the abdominal muscles and down and under with the hip muscles.

Movement—Turn the upper part of the body to the right, using the waist as a pivot and keeping the hips squarely to the front. Now, swoop down and touch the fingers of both hands to the floor at the side of right foot. Don't bend knees. Repeat 6 times, alternating sides, and later increase to 12 times. Keep a firm grip on the middle muscles. No fair crumpling in the middle as you bend!

Position—Standing, arms overhead, go up on tiptoes.

Movement—From this completely extended position, go into a half slump, bending the head and upper part of the body forward, letting knees sag and arms hang down below knees, and lowering the heels so body rests on whole foot. Then swing arms back and up as far as possible as you come up on your toes, straightening knees. Swing arms down again, let knees sag, and then stretch up to first position on toes, hands high overhead. Repeat six times, trying to swing smoothly from one movement to the next. This balance exercise strengthens the big middle muscles and counteracts a stenographer's stoop.

NOW for a change of position. There are any number of hip slimmers, but for slimming-on-the-double, we'll do one that also deals with the girdle muscles.

Movement: Raise right leg, bring it straight up to right angles, then swing across the body to touch toes to floor at extreme left. Try again, and this time swing a bit higher, touching toes to floor a bit higher up. Then repeat with left leg, swing up and across. Caution . . . make sure to bring the leg to a sharp right angle before swinging across, for it's that part of the movement that acts on the girdle muscles. Practice will make for suppleness, and one fine day you'll be able to swing the leg clear up and touch your toes to the fingers of the hands outstretched at shoulder level. Don't lower your hands . . . work up to it! It's quite a pull, but definitely streamlining.

Daddy's Part

When troublesome things come up about the children during the day, wait until they are in bed and then have a serious talk with their father and think out the correct action to be taken. These things should never be discussed within hearing of the children and mother should not have to bear the entire responsibility of the proper solving of the problems. They should be thought out together with both a man's and woman's viewpoint on the subject.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Girl Secretary, 22, Has Fallen in Love With Her Bachelor Boss, 40, Who Says He Loves Her Too, But He Insists Age-Difference Is Serious

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a 22-year-old secretary in a large organization and I have fallen in love with my boss, a bachelor 40 years old, who says he loves me, too.

Lyle is very well known in the community, has many friends and is advancing rapidly in his field. We are of nearly the same temperament, have similar interests in recreation and home life, and we enjoy each other's company very much.

I have worked in his office (very happily) for more than three years, and many times in the past two years I have been his guest at business and social functions, where he always introduces me as "Miss Blank," never as his secretary.

She's Never Had A Kiss From Him

HE HAS been very attentive, sends me flowers, candy, charming gifts and never fails to compliment me at least once a day on my appearance or my work. However, he has never kissed me. Our working relationship is more that of colleagues than boss and secretary, which is the way he wishes it to be.

We have discussed the difference in ages and neither objects, but he feels the problem should be analyzed by a disinterested person who is qualified to foresee what difficulties might arise in marriage due to that difference, and how we may avoid or overcome them. That's why I am writing to you.

Our friends are about equally divided in their opinions as to whether we could be happily married despite the age-difference. Lyle owns a very comfortable home in which he lives with his mother, a very sweet and charming little lady whom I have met a number of times, and his income is quite substantial. We will appreciate your comments. C. V.

Man Is Dodging The Real Issue

DEAR C. V.: What you don't realize and what Lyle doesn't admit, perhaps because it is an aspect of himself that he has never faced, is that he is not matrimonially inclined, not even towards you, whom he likes a lot in a fond, genteel, appreciative way.

No doubt his very comfortable home life with his mother, an ostensibly sweet and charming little lady, has much to do with his being a bachelor (and neuter-gender type male) at 40.

It is safe to say that subjectively they are as closely knit as the proverbial Siamese twins; that his mother's plans for and demands on him are the "inner promptings" which determine all his decisions, and that it suits her purpose to keep him unmarried, to be her exclusive pride and joy.

In consequence, though he might be confronted, time and again, with opportunities for "ideal marriage," Lyle would be inhibited from recognizing them as such. Rather he would wait for his mother to give the encouraging sign or to make up his mind for him, and she, of course, would delicately discourage the proposition, with an air of thinking only and magnanimously of his, or the girl's, good.

He Is Content To Be a Beau

NOW, coming to your quandary, it is my belief that the age-angle doesn't really bother Lyle, but it is the only defense he has against your artless assumption that marriage is in the cards.

When you broach the subject, he indicates that he is deeply pondering the age-angle as a potentially serious drawback, and thinks expert opinion should be consulted. But if he sincerely felt just that, and honestly wanted the question cleared up, he would dig for the answer himself.

The fact that he doesn't, that he simply leaves the question with you, shows that he is content with the status quo. He doesn't want to marry you, but he doesn't care to face that fact, much less disclose it to you, because he doesn't want to give up your company,—a sacrifice that would be in order, as a matter of honor, if he were frank about his basic attitude.

Little Boy Is Acting His Age In Being Naughty and Teasing

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Each year of a child's life he acts differently. Sometimes, his behavior is exemplary and parents compliment themselves upon it. By the next year he may have become, in their eyes, a "changed" person. This is all part of growth and development and both the good and the bad behavior tend to be fleeting.

Mrs. E. J. has a 7-year-old of whom she complains that he is "stubborn." "He wants his own way," she writes, "and he gets mad if we correct him and acts worse if we whip him.

"He always says no when I want him to do anything and he talks back. If I ask him to stop doing anything he keeps on. Sometimes he plays well with my 2-year-old girl and then he teases and teases her and keeps on even when we ask him to stop it.

"We have talked and talked to him about being different. He was never like this until he was six years of age."

He had never been six or seven years of age, before. Now he is acting his age. He would help you, probably, if you would manage it differently. Instead of commanding, talk to him about what there is to be done and ask him how he would like to do certain tasks. Vary the tasks and do not make them too lengthy ones. At seven years he has a short span of interest in such work, by eight his persistence will have increased. It isn't the work, it is the child that will be different.

It is typical of a child of this age to tease younger children of the family. If it goes beyond reason then separate them, putting the boy in another room for a short time. The baby is in no position to hold her own, so this is unfair and should be stopped.

Instead of impressing the child with his stubbornness and negativism by talking and talking about it, talk to him about the nice behavior he displays. You'll find something admirable you can stress and then he will focus on the good behavior that wins your attention, instead of feeling that his stubbornness gives him some measure of distinction.

Have patience with him. He isn't set in this mold, he is just growing and acting like a 7-year-old.

Mrs. Sheehan Visits Daughter, Mrs. Strauss

Hopkins Chosen in '38 as Roosevelt's Presidential Choice; 7 Others Vetoed, but Illness Ruined Plan, Sherwood Writes

President Roosevelt in 1938 had chosen Harry L. Hopkins to run for President in 1940, but Hopkins' ill health later caused abandonment of the plan, Robert E. Sherwood reported yesterday.

In the first of a series in Collier's magazine based on Hopkins' secret papers, Sherwood, author-dramatist who assisted Roosevelt in preparing many of his speeches, told of an "extraordinary private conversation" at the White House in the spring of 1938.

At this meeting, Sherwood said Hopkins' papers disclosed, Roosevelt vetoed seven potential Democratic presidential candidates before picking Hopkins.

Roosevelt first discussed Hopkins' political liabilities—that he had been divorced and his health was bad—but ended by expressing "the belief that Hopkins would be elected and would do the best job as President of any of those then in the running," Sherwood wrote.

Named to Cabinet

As part of a build-up for Hopkins, the article said, the President appointed him Secretary of Commerce on Christmas Eve, 1938.

This all came to naught, however, for Hopkins was stricken with a near-fatal illness in the next year and a half and he was unable to run. The illness even "drained him of all personal ambition," Sherwood wrote.

Hopkins started compiling the papers before he died on January 29, 1946. Sherwood finished the task after poring over 40 crates of official documents, memoranda and personal notes.

"I gather from these notes," Sherwood wrote, "that Roosevelt did not entirely rule out the possibility that he might seek a third term. He seems to have left a very slight margin of doubt about it in the event of war.

Spoke of "Disinclination"

"But he spoke of his own 'personal disinclination' and the strong opposition of Mrs. Roosevelt to a third term. He told Hopkins that there were financial reasons for his wish to return to private life—that his mother was digging into capital to keep the place at Hyde Park going."

The article relates that Roosevelt stated his opposition to these men as candidates: Cordell Hull, Henry Wallace, James A. Farley, Harold Ickes, Paul McNutt, Frank Murphy (then Governor of Michigan) and George Earle (then Governor of Pennsylvania).

Mr. Roosevelt mentioned Robert M. LaFollette. The note on this was "fine—later—Secretary of State soon."

Ickes was rated as too combative and Hull too old. Roosevelt objected to Farley on two main counts: his "opposition to the New Deal and his attitude toward foreign affairs."

Sherwood described Hopkins as a "studiously unsuave and often intolerant and tactless reformer." He said that during the years Hopkins lived at the White House he was "generally regarded as a sinister figure, a backstairs intriguer, an Iowan combination of Machiavelli and Rasputin."

But his singular and selfless devotion to Mr. Roosevelt endeared him to the President, the article said.

Hopkins, Sherwood wrote, came to be hated by New Deal opponents as the spender of more than nine billion dollars of relief funds, but ended his career as Mr. Roosevelt's personal and trusted world emissary in World War II.

"Harry is the perfect ambassador for my purposes," Mr. Roosevelt was quoted as saying. He doesn't even know the meaning of the word 'protocol' . . . When he's talking to some foreign dignitary, he knows how to slump back in his chair and put his feet on the conference table and say, 'Oh, yeah?' "

Hopkins conferred with Stalin in Moscow in July, 1941, a month after Hitler invaded the Soviet Union, and established a working relationship between Roosevelt and the Russian leader, it was noted.

Stalin told Hopkins that Roosevelt had "more influence with the common people of the world than any other force" and that an announcement that the United States would go to war against Germany would give new hope to the Nazi-oppressed peoples and "perhaps" defeat Hitler without firing a shot, Sherwood wrote.

Stalin wanted Hopkins to tell the President that he would "welcome the American troops on any part of the Russian front under the complete command of the American Army."

Sherwood related this incident about Winston Churchill, who he said liked Hopkins' ability to get down to the meat of an issue quickly: Churchill turned to Hopkins at a White House meeting and said, "Harry, when this war is over His Majesty's government is going to reward you by conferring upon you a noble title. You are to be named 'Lord Root of the Matter.' "

Two years before American-British forces landed in North Africa, Roosevelt showed Hopkins a map of America's scattered defenses along the Atlantic seaboard, the article said. This was on August 15, 1940. The President spoke of the desirability of landing on enemy shores before the enemy landed on ours.

He then, it was stated, pointed to the northwest coast of Africa as a likely landing location.

Britain to Halt Necking Near Roosevelt Statue

London, May 20 (U.P.).—The ministry of works announced today it was taking steps to halt necking around the President Roosevelt memorial statue in Grosvenor Square.

Embracing couples on the grass detracted from the dignity of the memorial, a spokesman said.

Howard U. Pleads For 2 Dormitories

A Senate Subcommittee on Commerce and Banking yesterday heard that overcrowding at Howard University is so acute that 1900 of the 8235 students are "obliged to seek living space in the crowded city under conditions that make effective study all but impossible."

Dr. Johnson

Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of the university, made the statement during a plea that two defense housing buildings be turned over to the institution. The buildings are the Lucy Diggs Slowe Hall, residence for Negro women at 1919 3rd st. nw., and George Washington Carver Hall for Negro men at 211 Elm st. nw.

Dr. Johnson's plea was in furtherance of a bill proposed by Senator Alben Barkley (D., Ky.) to turn the residence halls over to Howard.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash), also heard arguments in behalf of two other Negro groups seeking the structures.

Mrs. E. L. Lingham, representing about 200 Negro Government girl workers living at Slowe Hall likened Howard U. to "an elephant trying to crush an ant" in her appeal that the building should be turned over as a permanent residence for Negro women. She said that eight projects were available for white Government girls, including Meridian Hill.

Senator Arthur Capper (R., Kan.) spoke briefly in behalf of his bill which would grant the structures to the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial to be used as "a national institute of industrial training for Negro youths."

While there was no indication when the subcommittee would arrive at a decision, Cain congratulated Dr. Johnson for presenting "a case as well prepared as any I've heard at this table."

Churchill Tells How He Took Helm in Crisis

New York, May 20 (AP).—Winston Churchill tells in his war memoris of the circumstances in which he became British Prime Minister on the day Germany launched its crushing invasion of France and the low countries.

Churchill describes the political crisis which engulfed Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in May, 1940, after Britain's abortive effort to go to the aid of a Norway overrun by the Nazis.

On the morning of May 10, Chamberlain had become convinced he could not form a national government of all parties, Churchill writes. The Prime Minister then summonded Lord Halifax and Churchill to 10 Downing Street.

Chamberlain was phlegmatic and unruffled, Churchill says. He explains that he himself, usually quite voluble, remained silent.

Finally, Churchill writes, Chamberlain implied that he believed Halifax should take over the government because of Churchill's vigorous debate with Labor Party members May 8 at a House of Commons session. At this session Chamberlain's Conservative government was bitterly attacked by Labor members.

Another very long pause ensued, Churchill says. It was broken by Halifax, who said he felt that he could not serve as Prime Minister because his position as a peer disqualified him for the House of Commons.

Churchill writes that he realized the premiership had fallen to him when Halifax finished speaking.

At 6 p. m. on May 10 Churchill was summoned by King George VI and requested to form a government. Within four hours, he says, he had obtained the consent of Labor and Liberal party members to serve with him and had sent the names of his war cabinet to the King.

Churchill writes that his pulse did not quicken throughout the political crisis. As he went to bed the night of May 10, he says he was conscious of a great relief that he at last had the supreme authority.

Churchill notes that he served five years and three months until final victory was at hand. Then, he says, he was at once turned out by the British voters.

One on the Aisle—

Streetcar Named 'Move Back, You'

By Richard L. Coe

AS AN INVETERATE client of the Capital Transit Co., I urge you to take note of the Warner's "The Mating of Millie." In passing, I might also add that it's a pleasant little comedy played by such likable folk as Glenn Ford and Evelyn Keyes.

But when it comes to propaganda pictures, "The Mating of Millie" gets this vote as the best of them all. The nice thing is that it slips in its message unobtrusively, a tiny nugget of an idea from which one may expect a great oak of courtesy to grow.

For "The Mating of Millie" tackles a problem that plagues not only Capital Transit but all of us bus and streetcar riders: "Move to the back of the bus, please," asks, begs, cajoles dimpled Glenn Ford.

And what do those dreadful Los Angelenos do? They don't budge. There in the back is plenty of room, but no, it's the front door of the bus for them, squashed, bruised idiots. But Glenn is the vehicular man of distinction. He just parks his charabanc and tells the folks to find their own way home. He's through.

Now naturally, we'd all be pretty displeased were one of Capital Transit's dreamboy drivers to leave us flat on 13th st. some day, but mark Old Uncle Richard, the day will come. It will be hastened not only by our own sullen obtuseness, but by what romantically happens to Ford when he walks out of that bus.

One of his passengers is Evelyn Keyes, successful business-girl type, personnel chief of a department store. She tells him she'll get a job for so independent a guy any time he wants it. Before he looks her up, though, Evelyn has found that a neighbor has been killed and that her orphaned boy must enter an institution. This shakes our girl, as it should, for Jimmy Hunt, who plays the youngster, is a neat little tyke we'd all like to have around the house. Evelyn wants to adopt him, but she can't for youngsters cannot be adopted by single individuals. What Evelyn needs is a husband; Glenn, in exchange for a job as floorwalker, offers to help her land a man.

Two Pleasant Stars

There's no point in getting further into this, though Script Writers Louella MacFarlane and St. Clair McKelway have included parts for Willard Parker and Ron Randell, two gentlemen whom the ladies in back of us found violently attractive. Of help to the picture, too, is an amusing background score by Werner R. Heymann. While the proceedings are not always perfect comedy and sometimes tend to be a bit too obvious, the general level is smooth and the dialogue is listenable.

A lot depends on the two stars. Miss Keyes looks elegant and takes an infectious pleasure in her part of the suddenly determined lass. Ford is easy and natural, behaving with the surprised distaste of a bachelor who finds his plans for la vie solitaire aren't working out after all.

And as for being a propaganda picture, "The Mating of Millie" doesn't even know it is one, which is exactly the way a propaganda picture should behave. But as far as this straphanger's concerned, Columbia Pictures has done us public conveyance folks a service. I, for one, will never dream of not moving to the rear in the future.

(And if you think the Capital Transit people put us up to this, you're oh, so wrong. This sort of thing ought to net us a year's pass, but no, no, no. We've been stealing neighbors' soda bottles to pay that weekly $1.50, and if you think we're asking for charity, you're just wrong. And impolite.)

IN RE: BELASCO: Referring to this column's report the other day on reconverting the Belasco into a theater (rebuilding would be a better word), Wallace M. Cohen, counsel for Joseph H. Curtis, takes objection to "two serious errors." (1) He objects to our implication that Joseph H. Curtis might use it as a movie house. (2) He tremarks that the Washington Art Center has done little if anything to obtain the release of the Belasco from the Government. The credit for this, he says, should go to Ida Fox of the Council for Civic Rights, and Edith Atwater, of Actors Equity.

To clarify: Mr. Curtis, because he is the son of a vice president and the nephew of the president of Columbia Pictures, whatever his laudable designs for the theater, represents movie money. And, as I said, several movie companies are definitely interested in obtaining the Belasco.

Nor was it my intention to ignore the work of the Misses Atwater and Fox. The Washington Art Center was referred to specifically because it had made a public statement on the matter the day before. The work that the two ladies had done was certainly too voluminous to be handled in one article and it was my intention—and it still is—to write of their work in a piece devoted solely to them.

As it is, no one could be happier than I that at least Joseph Curtis, of the movie people interested, has no intention of using the house for films, nor more sorry than I that any slight has been cast on the untiring efforts of the Misses Atwater and Fox in an article that didn't presume to touch on their labors.

Deadline Is Extended On Mustering-Out Pay

World War II veterans now have until February 3, 1950, to apply for their mustering-out pay.

President Truman has signed into law a bill extending the deadline to that date. The former law expired February 3, 1946.

Veterans are eligible for $100 if they served less than 60 days and did not leave the United States, $200 if they served more than 60 days, but were not outside the country, and $300 if they were overseas.

Higher Pension Age For Orphans Sought

The Commissioners agreed yesterday to support a plan for raising the pension age limit from 16 to 18 years for orphans of policemen and firemen.

They announced their decision after meeting with representatives of the Police Association and Local 36, International Association of Firefighters. Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett and Fire Chief Clement Murphy also told the Commissioners they favored the plan.

The city heads will urge that the proposal be included as an amendment to their bill for increased widow and orphan pension payments scheduled for public hearing Monday before the House District Public Service Subcommittee.

The bill would raise pensions from $60 a month to $125 for widows of men killed on duty and $100 for widows of officers who die of natural causes. As now written, it also provides a monthly increase from $10 to $25 for children under 16.

The company estimated it would receive $2,200,000 more a year from commercial consumers and $780,000 from home users if the boost is granted. Rising cost of fuel used in generating electricity was cited by Pepco as the primary reason for the increase request.

On the Town

BALALAIKA'S new revue features a Russian born dancer named Ira Ari. Ira does a gypsy routine and her ability to crumple suddenly to the floor shows a grace that is seldom found. During the late show she does South American numbers which she picked up while on tour there.

Jody Miller

Ira had her share and more of war experiences. During the siege of Warsaw she was doing Red Cross work in the city and after it was taken she spent several months in a concentration camp. The factor of her Russian birth made it possible later for her to get out of the camp and obtain a visa to Italy, where she toured for some time. During the war years she lost both her mother and father.

When we asked her how she ever decided to use the name of Ira Ari for the stage she said she thought and thought about a name that was different. After she had decided on Ira she said to herself, "How it be backward?" Someone thought of the same thing with natures once and came up with Serutan and a fortune, which may be a good sign for Ira.

Jody Miller has played a large part in making the Madrillon one of the favorite spots in town. Her songs were well enough liked the first time she was there to warrant her return. In between nights at the Madrillon she studies voice and dramatics and does an occasional television show on WNBW here.

EARL WRIGHTSON will be leaving the Mayflower lounge tomorrow night. Following him will be Rosiland Courtwright with "Songs Just for You." Rosiland is a lovely auburn-haired soprano who sings sweet sophisticated numbers.

Sometime while you're sitting in one of the local bistros notice the expressions of the entertainers under their stage smiles . . . You'll find the comic on the road down, frightened, yet hopeful that he'll be liked by the crowd and perhaps held for another week. Terrified is usually the expression of the singer who arrived too late for a rehearsal with the band and just can't seem to get together with them.

Of course there's the comic who can't seem to get a laugh, and under his blanket of sophistication is really killing mad at the audience for not appreciating the jokes he worked so hard to steal from another guy.

The chorus girl has, if you can see her just before she reaches the floor, a bored ho-hum-another-tonight look which she soon replaces with her "winning" smile.

Most pleasing to watch is the fellow who has just reached the top and is very sure of himself. He glances over the audience during the routine with a look that gauges the net results of each joke or song. It's a pleasure to watch such self confidence.

Girls Discover How to Stop Inflation

"I think my daughters have discovered how to beat the high cost of living," confides J. E. Burleson of 1605 N. Danville st., Arlington, Va.

"All I have to do now, is figure out how they worked it.

"Joan is 9, Janet 7. Their mother gave them a $10 bill to do some shopping, and off they went.

"They came back with one pair of shoes, three pairs of socks, a Mother's Day gift, two bags of popcorn, some bubble gum, a loaf of bread, a bottle of milk—and $9.55 in change.

"As soon as I discovered what had happened, I doubled back along their trail to check all the merchants they had patronized. But everybody was happy; everybody had been paid in full.

"While I was still trying to digest the day's events, I discovered that the girls had taken advantage of a free chance on a bicycle (given with every purchase of over 50 cents).

"It seems they won the bicycle, too."

Ah, what wonderful wives those girls are going to make for a couple of lucky fellows in about a dozen years!

PARTY LINES

Harry Traub of 2743 N. Lorcom lane, Arlington, Va., notes that the names of the various contenders for the presidency lend themselves very well to a bit of rhyming. For example:

It's only human
To vote for Truman.
Man of the hour
Is Eisenhower.
On peace let's fasten
With Harold Stassen.
You'll get no hooey
From Thomas Dewey.
To guide our craft
Get Robert Taft.
Then there's Wallace—
Das is allus!

As far as he's gone, Harry has done a good job. But he's failed to mention Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, the real darkhorse in this race. So I'm forced to remind our rhymster that:

The man who's from Grand Rapids, Mich.
Should not be so neglected.
He may say, "This is just my dish,"
And find himself elected.

MISCELLANY

Keith O. Kalmbach of 217 Rosemary st., Chevy Chase, Md., recently reported to police that his jeep had been stolen. It's been recovered now, and Keith is much relieved—because it was the very same jeep that was assigned on Okinawa to his father, Comdr. K. H. Kalmbach. Pop got so attached to the sturdy little mechanized beast that he bought it when the war was over—just like mounted policemen sometimes buy their horses when they retire . . .Elizabeth Wiltshire of 5207 N. 27th st., Arlington, Va., tells me at the last minute that the John Marshall P.-T. A. is holding its spring carnival at the school from 6 to 9 p.m. today (complete with eats, soft drinks, bake sale, movies, and all the rest) . . . Golly, Liz, get those announcements in early. This space gets more crowded every day . . . Roshan W. Dyar of 3447 17th st. nw. agrees with my blast against radio puzzles, even if nobody else does . . . And Marian K.llis of 5913 4th st. nw. comes to the defense of my version of the spelling of Kosciuszko. Marian writes: "I am in the 7-A at Paul Junior High. In the eighth chapter of our history book it tells about the great Polish patriot, Tadeusz Kosciuszko, after whom many American streets were named." Gosh, Marian—if I'd studied my history book I might have been able to spell the first name, too . . . Incidentally, Richard E. Doughty of 1238 W st. se. tells me that we can find the dragging-the-horse story and many others just like it in "Treasury of American Folklore," edited by B. A. Botkin. Dick says these stories have been popping up for scores of years—always with a local twist, and always vouched for by somebody who insists, "This was told to me as an absolutely true story." . . . Is it any wonder columnists have such a tough time digging up new ones?

NEW YORK.—When Tallulah Bankhead was starred in "The Skin of Our Teeth," a midget named Ratuschet was a member of the cast and became Miss Bankhead's favorite. The last time she saw the midget, he told her that he needed an operation. "What's the matter?" asked Miss Bankhead, solicitously . . . "Tonsils," said the midget . . . "You poor dear," said Miss Bankhead, "Why, you're no bigger than one yourself."

Darryl Zanuck's new rule, that his executives may not fly in the same plane, reminded one of his employes of the day the entire 20th Century-Fox production staff prepared to leave on the Chief for a meeting in New York. Someone then suggested that this was a risky matter, for if an accident were to befall that train then all the production talent at 20th Century-Fox would be lost . . . Zanuck agreed that this was logical, and decided to reduce this risk. He sent his producers, directors and officers on the train, and he and the studio barber, Sam, took another train.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Story Behind Feazel Appointment

By Drew Pearson

It will be interesting to see what the Senate does about the seating of William Feazel, appointed to the vacancy left by the late Senator Overton of Louisiana by Gov. Earl Long.

FEAZEL

Two aspects of Mr. Feazel's career are interesting. One is the large amount of cash he contributed to Governor Long's campaign. Second is a grand jury proceeding held by Assistant Attorney General John Rogge in 1939 showing that Feazel was involved in a big gas deal with Gov. Dick Leche, who served a jail term in connection with another matter.

Louisiana politicos say that Mr. Feazel was by all odds the largest contributor to Governor Long's campaign—donated over $200,000. Louisiana, incidentally, isn't bothered about limits to State campaign contributions.

In the past, the Senate has been cranky about large amounts of money influencing senatorial elections. Senator Smith of Illinois was denied a seat when his campaign contributions went over $100,000. Senator Lorimer of Illinois was not seated for the same reason. Senator Newberry of Michigan finally resigned from the Senate while his colleagues were probing his large campaign gifts, and Senator Vare of Pennsylvania was denied his seat when his gifts ran around $200,000.

All these were Republicans. Now comes a Democrat who was not running for office but helped handsomely to put a Governor in office. Then that Governor turns round and puts his chief monetary benefactor in the Senate. A Republican Senate may want to think this over.

On top of this is the fact that when the Justice Department was probing the Louisiana scandals, John Rogge unearthed the fact that $125,000 had been paid by United Gas Improvement Corp., an Electric Bond and Share subsidiary, to Tom Hill, a big New Orleans gambler, who in turn passed part of the money on to Governor Dick Leche, part to Louisiana's new Senator, William Feazel, and kept part for himself.

Reason for this unusually large payment by a big corporation to three interesting Louisiana figures never was revealed. For about that time Roosevelt threw cold water on the Louisiana probe However, the present Republican Senate may want to continue the unfinished story of Louisiana where the Justice Department left off.

Note—Governor Long would like to appoint his nephew, Russell Long, eldest son of the late Huey Long, to the Senate. But Russell is only 29, and under the law a United States Senator must be 30. Therefore it's reported that Feazel will make way for Russell later.

Modest Mike Monroney

It was like Congressman Mike Monroney of Oklahoma never to breathe a word about the fact that President Truman offered him the job of Secretary of Agriculture. However, he did—just after Clinton Anderson resigned.

It was also like Monroney that he turned the offer down. His refusal was on the very simple ground that he didn't know enough about agriculture or the farmers' point of view.

"All my life," he told Truman, "I have spent defending the consumer and thinking about his point of view. Therefore, I just wouldn't be a good man to champion the farmers."

So, without saying a word to anyone, Monroney, one of the most respected men in Congress, has gone back to the job of battling for his constituents.

Note—Monroney comes from Oklahoma City, where oil wells almost sprout from city streets. Yet during the war he had the courage to fight the oil lobby's clamor for increased prices. Came elections, and the oil lobby tried to get revenge, but the people of Oklahoma City voted for Monroney's courage even though they didn't all agree with him.

Lewis's Captive Senator

John L. Lewis has sometimes berated the big steel companies for having "captive" coal mines, but it looks as if John now had a "captive" Senator—namely, Eugene Millikin of Colorado.

For months Millikin has been blocking Senate confirmation of Dr. James Boyd as chief of the Bureau of Mines, due to the fact that John L. Lewis is opposed. Boyd was former dean of the Colorado School of Mines and cleared with Millikin before his appointment. The Interior Department phoned Millikin, asked if he objected to Boyd—they come from the same State—and Millikin said okay.

That, however, was before the Colorado Republican knew John L. Lewis was opposed. Lewis named the last director of the Bureau of Mines, Dr. R. R. Sayers, al[illegible] his own brother planted insi[illegible] bureau at a juicy salary until Secretary of the Interior Krug cleaned them both out. But now with Senator Millikin's help Lewis wants his control back again.

Note—Dr. Boyd, who has several children, has been patriotically serving the Government without pay since last summer. Lewis hopes he will soon be starved out.

Living room

The living room is first and last . . . A room in which to live . . . And not a show-place for the good . . . Impression it may give . . . It should be really comfortable . . . And cozy all around . . . In order that companionship . . . And pleasure may abound . . . Not like the old style parlor where . . . The parents were so sure . . . Their youngsters and the callers would . . . Respect the furniture . . . It need not be perfection or . . . The basis for a boast . . . Except as it resembles what . . . The owners want the most . . . Because a home is not the place . . . For any social air . . . But it should please the parents and . . . The children who are there.
